N. U. OFFERS $100,000 TO POOR

Big Fund Available for Shoppers.

More than $24,000,000 Christmas club savings will be distributed among 450,000 residents of the metropolitan area within the next two weeks. This was shown yesterday by reports from 277 banks in the county.

In the past, approximately 38 per cent of such savings has gone toward the buying of Christmas gifts, according to estimates. Business leaders joined yesterday in asking that normal Christmas buying be kept up this year, pointing out that more than 26,000 persons are employed as extra help in Chicago during a busy shopping season.

The survey of Christmas club accounts revealed that Chicagoans, despite business conditions, have continued to deposit steadily their weekly installments to the club accounts. The total to be distributed this year is smaller than last year, but this decrease may be partly accounted for by the fact that 35 fewer banks were on the Christmas club list. Mergers and other causes have reduced the number of banks in the county.

Not Yet Equal 1929 Figure.

Some banks were unable to furnish details of their savings club deposits. Bankers who studied the reports agreed that the grand total of about $24,000,000 may easily equal, if not exceed, the 1929 figure, when all the returns are in.

A table showing Christmas savings by districts since 1925 follows:

	Chicago.	Suburbs.	Total.
1929	20,797,374	725,000	21,522,400
1925	20,135,309	3,620,900	23,756,109

It was pointed out that the suburban depositors showed a substantial increase this year over last year. The total decrease shown in the above table, $3,067,381, but, as pointed out, this difference will be reduced when more complete reports are made.

Compare Account Averages.

There was also a decrease in the number of accounts and in the amount of the average account, as the following table shows:

	No. of accounts.	Savings per acct.
1930	396,180	$62.00
1929	399,119	56.66
1928	446,635	53.97
1927	482,971	51.24
1926	483,540	53.63
1925	446,041	53.26

An extensive study of Christmas savings has been made by Herbert F. Rawll, president of Christmas club, a division of National Bancservice corporation of New York. He has estimated that depositors usually spend about 38 per cent of their Christmas savings in buying Christmas gifts.

If this figure is taken as correct, financial observers said, it would mean that $9,627,318 will be spent by shoppers as a result of Christmas club savings. But business leaders said they hoped that an even larger percentage of the fund would be spent in shopping.

The metropolitan district committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, with Chairman Craig B. Hazelwood, vice president of the First National bank, presiding, me yesterday and reiterated its assertion that "normal buying" will help solve the unemployment situation.

Applies to Manufacturers.

"When we stress normal buying, we mean to include the manufacturer and the wholesale buyer," said Mr. Hazelwood. "The burden is not to be borne solely by the consumer.

"Reports have reached the committee that a number of organizations in the city, notably women's clubs, have initiated a movement to use the money which would normally go toward the purchase of Christmas presents for charitable uses.

"This is a case of mistaken zeal. Normal, sane, steady buying in this season is the soundest way to aid the jobless and the poor. Restore business to a normal plane and the unemployment situation will take care of itself."

Mr. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, added his plea to the united petition to the buyer to resume his usual buying habits. He pointed out that in normal years the big retail stores employ an average of 26,000 persons as extra help during the six weeks' season before Christmas. Thus, Christmas shoppers will be helping to furnish employment, he declared.

Holiday Rush Means Jobs.

WILL ADVANCE RECEIPTS FROM 1931 GRID GAME

Asks Approval of Notre Dame.

Prevented by the faculty athletic committee of the Big Ten from transferring the Northwestern-Notre Dame game scheduled for Nov. 22 from Dyche stadium to Soldiers' field, where receipts from 60,000 excess seats would have gone to charity, Northwestern made this proposal:

1. To advance $100,000 to Gov. Emerson's commission on unemployment and relief.

2. To move the Northwestern-Notre Dame game scheduled for 1931 from South Bend to Soldiers' field.

3. To take out as Northwestern's and Notre Dame's share in the proceeds of the 1931 game played at Soldiers' field, the amount of money which a maximum seat sale at South Bend would bring; out of the difference between the maximum receivable at South Bend and the amount receivable at Soldiers' field refund Northwestern's $100,000 advance. If there still remained any money, to give that money to charity.

Condition of Offer.

There are three "ifs" to the Northwestern offer which was made public last night over the signatures of Walter Dill Scott, president, and William A. Dyche, business manager of the university.

Before the $100,000 is turned over to charity Northwestern must receive the assurance of the faculty committee of the Big Ten that permission, denied the contemplated move this year, will be given for 1931.

The University of Notre Dame must agree to shift the game from South Bend to the Chicago field.

And the south park commissioners must offer the use of Soldiers' field on the same generous conditions (absolutely free) that it was offered for the proposed game this year.

Origin of Charity Idea.

The origin of the charity plan came several weeks ago. THE TRIBUNE suggested to President Scott that by the transfer of the Notre Dame game to Soldiers' field an excess of 60,000 tickets would result. Dyche stadium seats at most only 48,000. The receipts from these tickets could be turned over to charity, President Scott was told. He thought the suggestion sound.

Shortly afterward the Northwestern faculty athletic committee approved the suggested switch in game sites and asked the conference faculty committee for approval. The vote of the Big Ten conference committee was kept secret. It is known that the University of Chicago voted to grant the change in site. Most of the other Big Ten schools voted against the change.

Offer Indorsed Unanimously.

Northwestern's proposal, characterized by George Getz, chairman of Gov. Emmerson's relief commission, as "a magnificent offer," was backed by the unanimous vote of Northwestern's board of trustees.

Melvin A. Traylor, until a few weeks ago, president of the board, emphasized last night Northwestern's sincerity.

"We are not making a gesture," he said. "If the board of trustees, President Scott and Mr. Dyche did not believe that the provisions of the offer could be met, we would not have been party to the plan.

"I do not believe Notre Dame will object. Notre Dame throughout our relations has been eager to do everything that is fair. Notre Dame always has been a generous foe.

Expects Big Ten's O. K.

"Nor do I believe that the faculty committee of the Big Ten will balk the plan."

President Scott, in a conference with his board and in a meeting with Mr. Getz and James Keeley, associated with Mr. Getz in the relief work, said that Northwestern had been sorely disappointed by the conference's refusal to permit the switch of stadia for this year's game. He said that Northwestern would have again pressed for the right to move the game had it been physically possible to handle the ticket complications.

All of the 48,000 tickets to the coming game at Dyche stadium have been sold. Thirty thousand of the tickets are in the mails. Thousands of the ticket buyers are unknown to the university ticket management. Some of the purchasers live hundreds of miles from Chicago.

SON OF PISTOL CLUB MEMBER SHOOTS MAID

Edwin B. Thurman, 2442 Sherman avenue, Evanston, member of the recently organized Evanston Business Men's Pistol club, went with Mrs. Thursman to a movie last night, leaving at home his son, Edwin Jr., 13 years old, and the colored maid, Miss Eloise Randall, 19 years old. He returned to find the boy had shot Miss Randall in the chest. She is at the Evanston hospital in a critical condition.

According to the police, Mr. Thurman left on the living room table two automatic revolvers and a loaded service pistol. They quoted him as saying he had examined all the guns and thought he had removed the cartridges. However, one remained in the barrel of the service pistol. Young Edwin, fingering the guns, picked this one up and accidentally discharged it.

Mr. Thurman is Chicago manager of the Mississippi State Life Insurance company, 330 South Wells street. The president of the Evanston Pistol club is Justice of the Peace James Barber, through whom Mr. Thurman purchased the service pistol.

TRIES TO LEAP 4 FLOORS WHEN POLICE NAB HIM

Paul H. Sheridan, alias George A. Staples, tried to leap from a fourth story window last night when police entered his room in the Fullerton Plaza hotel, 420 Fullerton parkway, to arrest him on a charge of issuing bogus checks. He smashed the window out with his hands and was about to leap as the police seized him. He was severely cut and is at the Alexian Brothers' hospital in a serious condition.

Police and Burns operatives had been hunting him for weeks. He is alleged to have victimized hotels and shops by representing he had accounts at various banks. Sergts. John Lagatuppe, James Lefevour, and William Higgins of the Sheffield avenue station made the arrest.

Shotgun Bandits Menace Seven Guests in Hotel

Two bandits with sawed-off shotguns last night rounded up seven guests in the lobby of the Kenrose hotel, 6417 Kenwood avenue, while a third robber took $100 from the till behind the counter. The cashier, Miss Josephine Leonard, was forced to hand over the cash. The two who guarded the guests did not attempt to rob them.

Earth Slide Buries Town; 60 Are Killed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LYON, France, Nov. 13 [4:30 A. M., Thursday.]—A landslide which swept down from a high cliff overlooking Fourvieres, an industrial suburb of Lyon, early this morning hit the outskirts of the town in a tidal wave of stone and earth, killing 60 persons, according to first estimates. The injured are estimated at about 40 more.

While firemen and gendarmes in hastily organized rescue squads were trying to rescue the victims buried under tons of earth, a second landslide occurred, swallowing up two companies of firemen.

Earth Loosened by Rain.

The first slide occurred at 1:45 a. m. Loosened, it is thought, by recent torrential rains, a huge chunk slid off the side of the hill at Fourvieres, rolling down the almost perpendicular slopes of the cliff with terrific speed.

The wave of earth broke against the sustaining wall of the St. Jean hospital, which collapsed. Avalanches then poured over the grounds of the convent of Notre Dame de Sion, which is situated on a hillside along a steeply mounting highway called Chemin Neuf. The slide crossed the road and crashed with battering ram force into a series of old buildings—a large garage and a rickety tenement occupied by a dozen poor families.

Victims Buried in Sleep.

The buildings were literally swept off their foundations. Most of the victims, caught in their beds, were awakened by the terrific roar to find themselves the next moment buried beneath tons of debris.

Working by the light of improvised torches and flash lights, rescue squads dug in the wreckage, trying to extricate bodies of dozens of victims, who could be heard moaning or screaming for aid below the piles of dirt.

While they were engaged in this work a second slide swept down on them without warning, following the exact track of the first.

Fear Third Landslide.

Threats of a new slide at 4 a. m. spread terror throughout a large section of Lyon and caused the authorities to order a hasty evacuation of all houses within a 100 yard radius of the scene of the disaster. Up to 4:30 a. m. efforts to rescue the firemen caught in the second slide have been fruitless, and the fact that an ambulance is buried is greatly hampering rescue work.

A number of nuns from the convent are believed to be among the victims. One of the buildings which crashed was a sleeping pavilion in the convent grounds.

Five Die in Canadian Slide.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Five men were killed and one injured in a rock and dirt slide at the Anyox mine of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power company, it was reported tonight.

U. S. Gives Us a Fair Break on Gun Play

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago is not so red as it is painted.

The United States department of justice, through its bureau of investigation, has been compiling facts about crime in 83 cities since the beginning of 1930. It reported yesterday that "murder and non-negligent manslaughter" is not so prevalent in Chicago, in proportion to population, as it is in five other large American cities.

The bulletin gives the amount of crime in various cities for the first nine months of this year. There were more killings in Cincinnati than in Chicago, considering the population of each.

More Murder in Other Cities.

On the same basis, the bulletin reports that Chicago has less murder than Kansas City, Mo.; New Orleans, St. Louis, or Cleveland. Murder is not much worse in Chicago than it is at the seat of the federal government in Washington, when population is considered.

Several of the large cities of the country, such as New York and Pittsburgh, are missing from the government report, so that a comparison of all of the cities of 440,000 population or more is not possible.

In the first nine months of the year, Chicago is credited with 232 "murders and non-negligent manslaughter," or a rate of 8.35 murders for each 100,000 of population. Cincinnati has had a rate in the same period of 10.9 murders for each 100,000 of its population, and there are other large cities between Cincinnati and Chicago.

Gary Ahead of Chicago.

The survey proves that some of the smaller cities have far worse records than Chicago.

Gary is shown to have had 80 per cent more murders than Chicago in the same period on the basis of population. Chicago residents seldom hear of any murders in Kansas City, Kas. This city of 122,327 inhabitants had nearly twice as many murders in the first nine months of this year as did Chicago, on the basis of population.

There are few Chicagoans who ever hear of murders in quiet Jacksonville, Fla., with its 129,809 residents. Yet this city has had more than three times as many murders as Chicago this year, considering population. San Antonio, with a population of 254,562, had two and a half times as many murders as Chicago, considering population.

Murder Rating of 17 Cities.

In the 17 cities of 440,000 inhabitants on which the government has obtained data, the following table lists those cities in the order of their murder rate for the first nine months of this year, together with the population of each:

City—	Population.	Murder per 100,000.
Cincinnati	449,231	10.90
Kansas City, Mo.	300,484	10.76
New Orleans	455,782	9.87
St. Louis	822,059	9.34
Cleveland	900,430	8.77
Chicago	3,375,329	7.65
Newark	442,843	6.90
Washington	486,869	6.78
Detroit	1,533,985	5.84
Philadelphia	1,964,430	5.09
Baltimore	805,783	3.64
Los Angeles	1,233,561	3.30
Buffalo	573,079	2.79
Minneapolis	464,753	2.19
San Francisco	637,212	1.77
Boston	787,971	1.72
Milwaukee	573,557	1.22

If a comparison were made on the basis of homicides Chicago is relatively a tame city in a comparison with others on the basis of population.

GUZIK ON TRIAL; U. S. DEMANDS $200,000 TAXES

Gangster Smiles as Jury Is Chosen.

Public Foes on Trial

The day's chief developments in the war against public enemies were:

A federal jury was chosen and opening arguments were completed in the trial of Jack Guzik, Capone lieutenant, on charges of defrauding the government out of more than $200,000 in income taxes.

The surety company which had given bail for Frank Nitti, Capone financial expert, on a vagrancy charge, revoked the bond and Nitti was sent to jail when Judge Lyle refused to approve a new bond. In the evening a new bond approved by Judge Borrelli released Nitti.

A jury was completed to try James (Fur) Sammons, another Capone henchman, on a vagabond charge in the court of Judge Jonas. Details on

A jury was chosen and the opening statements concluded yesterday in the trial before Federal Judge Woodward of Jack Guzik, public enemy and Al Capone's proconsul for the loop. The defendant, who is charged with evading income taxes, appeared to enjoy the proceedings.

Guzik is charged in indictments with attempts to defraud the government of more than $200,000 in taxes on a total income of $1,043,144 for 1927, 1928, and 1929.

Guzik manifested a keen interest in the selection of the jury and took notes on the responses of veniremen to questions regarding their qualifications. He exchanged frequent remarks with his counsel and when a venireman who had been out of work for a year was excused, he asserted: "They ought to give him a job for a couple of weeks." The smiling, interested attitude of Guzik was in contrast to the sullen indifference of Ralph Capone, brother of Al, during his income tax trial in federal court.

Business Men on Jury.

The defense exercised eight of its allotted ten peremptory challenges in choosing the jury, and the government used four of its allotted six. Selection of the jury required only two hours. Most of the members are business men of Chicago and vicinity, in contrast with the usual jury of farmers in the federal court.

Judge Woodward informed the jurors that Guzik was on trial for the alleged evasion of income taxes and that no "extraneous matter should be considered in determining the facts of the case."

The government attorneys asked each prospective juror if he was prejudiced against the income tax law or its enforcement, and the defense counsel sought to avoid men who would be prejudiced against gambling as an occupation.

George A. Kerney, plumbing and heating contractor, of Evanston, was excused for cause when he declared he could not make an impartial juror because he opposed the manner in which the government obtains evidence in income tax cases.

Charges Huge Tax Evasion.

Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, in his opening statement, declared that Guzik filed income tax returns for 1927, 1928, and 1929, "in a scheme to hide an enormous amount of income and defraud the government out of taxes." The returns filed scheduled income of $18,000 for 1927, $24,000 for 1928, and $18,150 for 1929, the prosecutor said.

"The evidence will show that Guzik had a very much greater income," Mr. Green said. "It will show that in an account at the Equitable Trust company he deposited $601,654 during 1927 and cashed checks there totaling $46,000 in the same year.

"In 1928 the defendant deposited $345,197 in this bank and cashed checks totaling $2,000. In 1929 he deposited $6,487. The evidence will show that he maintained an account at the Congress Trust and Savings bank under the fictitious name of Joseph Graeber and that he deposited $98,000 in 1928 and $19,906 in 1929 at this bank.

"These deposits, it will be shown, represented profits from gambling houses, including the Ship and the

Normal Spending of Income Will Bring Prosperity Back

Steel and motors are two of America's giant industries. The biggest company in each has declared that it is opposed to wage reductions. That is the case also with a wide range of other employment — mechanical, clerical, and executive. Most people have as much money to spend as they ever did. Some are not spending it as they usually do, and this has thrown many men and women out of work.

If those who have as much income as ever, will stop looking under the bed for the body man and spend their money as they usually do, most of the unemployment problem will be solved. The need for the day is not a wild orgy of spending, but a mere resumption of normal buying. Every one with an income can assist by starting today to spend as he usually does.

Subway, in Cicero, which the defendant owned.

"We shall show that the defendant owned stock in the Hawthorne Kennel club, a dog track, and that he received dividends of $50 per cent on this stock, or $36,000 for 1929. He was given a full opportunity to explain this check, but he refused, saying he did not remember it, a check that no man would ever forget during his lifetime."

Defense Attorney Speaks.

Attorney William F. Waugh, defense counsel, declared that the bank accounts maintained by Guzik were checking accounts, and that daily withdrawals were made. He declared that taxes were paid on every cent of Guzik's earnings in excess of the losses. As to the dividends, Capt. Waugh declared the stock was turned over to a doctor, who collected the earnings and paid the taxes, restoring the remainder to Guzik.

"He did this because there was a great controversy between the horse tracks and the dog tracks, and he didn't want to keep the stock and give the Hawthorne Kennel club a bad name."

United States deputy marshals and a squad from the detective bureau patrolled the corridors of the federal building when the trial of Guzik began, searching for gunmen. The jurors were ordered locked up overnight by the court.

NITTI IN AND OUT AGAIN

Frank Nitti, known as the financial expert of the Capone gang, was at liberty last night after a strenuous day's session in court. Judge John H. Lyle in Felony court early in the afternoon ordered him back to jail, but about 6 o'clock in the evening Nitti's attorney, Michael Goldberg, appeared before Judge Francis Borrelli with a new $10,000 bond and obtained his release. The bond was one redrafted after Judge Lyle had rejected it at the afternoon session.

The sureties were Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Carroll, 809 West 18th street. Carroll described himself as a retired fireman. They scheduled property which they valued at $45,000 at 1714-16 South Halsted street, consisting of a brick building housing a garage and a motor sales company.

Previously Nitti had been jailed because the Grand Central Surety company of New York City, which had given bond for him on a vagrancy charge, revoked the bond as a result of the investigation into bail bonds being conducted by Judge Lyle and the state's attorney's office.

Lyle Rejects New Bond.

Nitti, when taken before Judge Lyle by the surety company representative, apparently believed that his detention would be brief, and that within an hour he would again be on the street. Judge Lyle, however, demands that every gangster taken before him give a bond which meets his approval.

Attorney Goldberg appeared to release Nitti from the Felony court cell room with the first new bond, which had been signed by Judge Borrelli.

Judge Lyle looked at the bond and said it was "no good." The bond failed to specify what date Nitti was to reappear in court for his trial on the vagrancy charge. The judge ordered the clerk to impound the bond and notified the lawyer that Nitti would stay in jail until a bond complying with every legal detail was supplied. A new bond was not forthcoming by 5 o'clock and Nitti was taken to the county jail.

It was an hour later that the second new bond with the Carrolls as sureties was filed and approved by Judge Borrelli.

Judge Extends No Courtesies.

"I will extend no courtesy to this gangster," said Judge Lyle when he ordered Nitti to jail and directed the bureau of identification employes to take the prisoner's finger prints and other specifications.

The judge declared that the supply of ready cash for the hoodlums will soon run out now that surety companies have agreed not to bond public enemies.

"The supply of $1,000 bills cannot last much longer," said Judge Lyle. "Maybe the next time cash is presented it might be a good thing for the state's attorney to trace the money and see where it comes from."

Several gangsters have supplied cash for bail when all other methods failed.

Makes Progress in Bond War.

The bond phase of the war against hoodlums had two important developments yesterday. They were.

1. The representatives of the Grand Central Surety company pledged their support to Judge Lyle and said that henceforth they will not bail public enemies or any one else with a criminal record to which the constituted authorities object. The company will present all its records of bail bonds today for scrutiny of Judge Lyle and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission.

2. State's Attorney Swanson received authorization from the county board to start ejection proceedings against the owners of twenty pieces of property which have been put up as bond for criminals who failed to appear for trial. When the proper court procedure is gone through the tenants in such buildings will be ordered to pay the rent to the county board rather than to the landlord, it was announced.

"It is an important development in our effort to make a bond mean something," said Prosecutor Swanson. It will have the effect of making property owners careful before signing bonds."

Some Judges Under Fire.

State's Attorney Swanson said that he would present to the grand jury evidence in a few cases where Municipal court bonds have been taken by police station sergeants on telephonic orders of judges. In some of these cases the police were authorized by the judge on the telephone to sign his name.

"We will present this evidence not with any view of indictments, but with a view to correcting the practice," said Mr. Swanson. "It is not an indictable offense, but perhaps a mistake in judgment. In any event it is a judicial act which cannot be questioned."

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who will direct the December grand jury to investigate the bond situation, will discuss the problem with the other Criminal court judges at a luncheon today. At the same time it was announced that an attorney may be involved in the bond investigation.

Another act in the war against hoodlums and public enemies was the discharge of Sam Hunt, Capone henchman, who was once found carrying a gun in a golf bag, on a disorderly conduct charge.

Ralph Capone's vagrancy case was continued until Dec. 15 by Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court. The state is busy trying other cases at this time and Capone wants to take a string of race horses to Cuba, the chief justice was told.

Tony Accardo, pal of Machine Gun Jack McGurn, surrendered yesterday to the police in connection with the investigation of the machine gun killing of Joe Aiello, leader of the north side gang. After being questioned by Chief of Detectives Norton and Lieut. Edward Conroy of the Fillmore police, and being viewed by witnesses to the Aiello slaying, Accardo was booked on a disorderly charge and released on $25 cash bond.

CAUGHT WITH PADDED PIPE.

Paul Kudulis, 2024 Canalport avenue, was held for investigation last night after he had been seized with a length of pipe padded with cloth at Harrison and State streets. He confessed using the weapon to intimidate a clerk in a cigar store at 18th street and Michigan avenue whom he robbed of $150 a week ago.

Jobless Father Completes Jury for Sammons Vagrancy Trial

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

One of the jurors selected yesterday to try James [Fur] Sammons, big shot gangster, on a vagrancy charge, is a man without a job.

Sammons, who wears shaded, octagonal glasses and a well fitting brown suit of expensive material, smiled in amusement as this peculiar situation developed in Judge Edgar A. Jonas' court.

Antone Weber certainly needed that job as juror.

"I am 52 years old," he said, "and live at 2327 South Turner avenue."

"What is your business?" asked the assistant state's attorney, Harry Ditchburne.

Laid Off Four Months Ago.

"I was with the Marshall Field wholesale house for 25 years, but four months ago they laid me off. I have no job now. I have a family, yes, two children."

"And a wife?"

"O, sure, my wife."

"This man, too, could be tried as a vagrant under the 1874 law," said Attorney Everett Jennings of defense counsel, as court was adjourned for the day with the jury box filled.

Evidence will begin this morning in what the state considers the first real test in the campaign to jail gangsters as vagabonds.

All the other jurors are working. They are a bookkeeper, two plumbing contractors, a live stock salesman, a blue print man, a milk wagon driver, a furniture salesman, a searcher of titles, a civil engineer, and salesmen.

Know Little About Crime.

All but two or three are married and most of them live in the suburbs. They have read little about crime and gangsters, usually only the headlines. They are not interested in reform organizations or in politics. They believe in the enforcement of all law. Therefore, they are good jurors.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station and Lieut. Albert Mikes of the detective bureau, will be the first of the 40 state witnesses to take the stand.

Sammons appeared unruffled by the proceedings. A vagrancy rap is a small thing to a man who has been in the shadow of the death chair. With his smoothly cut iron gray hair, his unlined face, and good clothes, he looks like a prosperous business man. He was flanked at his table by two lawyers, Mr. Jennings and Attorney W. W. Smith, and Edward Evans, an investigator. Opposite were Mr. Ditchburne and James A. Brown, assistant state's attorney.

Tactics of the Defense.

Mr. Jennings wanted to be assured by the jurors that they would not feel the need of explaining their verdict to any one after this case was over.

"You don't know anything about manifestos or statements from people about public enemies, do you?" he would ask. "You would not try this man on anything that a newspaper says? You don't understand that anybody has any right to call any one a public enemy, do you? You don't contribute to any of these uplift societies, do you, these guardians of the public, who enforce the law, or say they are enforcing it?

"You know that it is your duty to listen to the evidence in this case alone, to determine every reasonable doubt in favor of the defendant."

And so, by rapid questions, answered by nods or shakes of the head, he built up the atmosphere of his case.

State Promises to Show Lingle Story False.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joe Saunders, crime against children, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Mack McLeod, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Severre Jacobson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge G. Fred Rush.

Testimony in the trial of Frank H. Bell and Richard Sullivan for the murder of Chris Patryas, manager of the Villa Ricca café, 2572 North Clark street, was started late yesterday afternoon in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court. The jury was completed shortly after 3 o'clock. The records show that 132 veniremen were examined before 12 men pledged to inflict the death penalty in a proper case were found satisfactory to both sides.

Attacks Bell's Story.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler, in his opening statement to the jury, said that the prosecution would show that Bell's story to the effect that the Patryas murder was a result of an effort to collect money for the murder of Alfred Lingle was a fabrication designed to assist him in escaping punishment.

"We will show that Bell's statements regarding the Lingle case are not worthy of one moment's notice at your hands," the prosecutor told the jurors.

"The state will show you beyond the possibility of doubt that the murder was the result of a robbery and nothing else," he continued. "Bell tried to shift the blame to Sullivan by telling the Lingle story."

Five Bullets in Body.

Dr. Paul Schmidt, 4159 North Damen avenue, a coroner's physician, was the only witness called yesterday. He testified to finding five bullets in Patryas' body. The state contends that Sullivan shot Patryas because the latter grabbed a revolver and fired one shot during the robbery. Sullivan was wounded in the hip.

The widow of Patryas, who also witnessed the murder, is expected to be the main state witness today.

Sunday Showup of Crooks to Be Resumed by Police

Sunday showups of racketeers and robbery suspects, discontinued when Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock took office last June, will be resumed next Sunday, according to an announcement last night. The show-ups will be held at 2 p. m. each Sunday in the police headquarters at 1121 South State street. The order cautions captains against subjecting innocents persons to the ordeal.

How Gangsters Shot Way Into Union Told; Seek Writ Today

How racketeers shot their way into control of a prosperous labor union was related yesterday by James [Lefty] Lynch, former business agent of the Coal Teamsters' union and a veteran of Chicago's labor world.

Lynch will appear before Judge Denis E. Sullivan this morning to press the injunction he has asked which would restrain George [Red] Barker and William [Three Fingered Jack] White from interfering with either the Coal Teamsters' or the Coal Hikers' [yard and truck employés] unions. These two, Lynch claims, entered the union headquarters the day after two men shot him April 15, 1928, and swashbuckled their way to power by a constant display of pistols. Barker is now in prison and White is in jail.

Tells Story to Reporter.

Lynch, a short, thick man of 57 years, saw a reporter yesterday in the office of his attorney, Lawrence M. Fine.

Never before had he told, for publication, the complete story of the murderous attack made upon him more than two years ago and the reticence he displayed at the opening of the interview might be traced to a desire to fight his own battles or to the guarded speech of one who spent twenty-two years "in labor" in Chicago before he was deposed.

For twelve years before he was shot, James Lynch guided, in a large way, the destiny of 2,500 coal wagon drivers and 1,500 "hikers," men who work in the coal yards and carry the coal in baskets into the homes of citizens. His work in fighting for these men made him proud and after the newness of yesterday's experience wore off a little, he talked volubly.

Got Raises in Pay.

"In ten years," he said, "I got those drivers increases totaling $28.60 per week. Before that they were working for starvation wages and would sometimes sign a five year agreement with the operators at no increase in wage. I instituted sick and death benefits and the membership grew and we had no trouble whatever. Everything went just fine."

This was the state of affairs until April 15, 1928, when Lynch, his wife, and their five small daughters were spending a few days at their summer cottage near Burlington, Wis. The family was at lunch when two strange men appeared at the door.

"We're lookin' for a spare cabin we might rent," said one. "Know any around here?"

"I think I can find you one," Lynch replied. "Have a bite of food and then we'll go look at it."

Appear to Be in Hurry.

"No," the spokesman for the pair answered. "We're in a hurry, let's look at it now."

"And for some reason," Lynch said yesterday, "my wife was uneasy and went along with us and she took three of the little girls by the hands and all seven of us went down to the cabin. We looked it over and then started back. These fellows said they would let me know about it and walked off up the hill to their car. There was another car there, too, with two other men in it. I couldn't see what they looked like.

"Well, the family and I started towards home and all of a sudden I heard a shot. I spun around and there were both these guys shooting at me.

"I hollered at my wife, 'Get away from me, get clear away,' because I didn't want her or the kids to get hurt. Then I turned sidewise toward the men and held up my hand to shield my face while I kited for a telephone pole to get a little protection."

Assailants Flee in Car.

One bullet nipped the end of a finger on his left hand, another tore flesh from the palm of the hand, and a third buried itself in the fleshy part of Lynch's left leg.

"By that time I was behind the pole," he said, "and I shoved my hand in my coat pocket as if I had some artillery myself. I didn't have, but when those 'loogans' saw that the cowards turned and ran. They jumped in their car and beat it and I fell down—I was kind of weak, I guess."

The next day, in Chicago, Red Barker and a crew of men stalked into the union offices.

"Which chair does Lynch sit in?" demanded Barker. It was pointed out. The gangster dropped into it, twirled a pistol about his finger by its trigger guard, and announced, "I'm boss here."

Told Union "Is Taken."

The following day, John Sheridan Sr., secretary of the Chicago Teamsters' council, visited Lynch in the hospital.

"It's all over," he said; "they took the union. I wouldn't go back if I were you."

"It was just like a thunderbolt to me, all this," said Lynch yesterday. "I have an idea of the motive behind it and we'll see what comes out in court. Nothing had gone wrong before; everything was running fine."

Barker stayed in control, aided by White, until six weeks ago, when Judge McGoorty ordered Barker returned to Pontiac to serve out an old sentence. White is in jail, awaiting trial for murder.

William Clifford and Michael Reilly were arrested and charged with shooting Lynch. They skipped bond and were later found shot to death behind a Cicero hotel. Lynch had identified them.

WOUNDED YOUTH HELD AS ROBBER.

Rocco Marcantonil, 20 years old, 6033 Barry avenue, wounded ten days ago when he and two companions are alleged to have tried to hold up the delicatessen of Nicholas Amoross, 1535 Polk street, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $5,000.

EAST AND WEST MEET TO DECIDE FUTURE OF INDIA

King Welcomes Envoys to London Conference.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—In the presence of the prime ministers of all the British dominions and most of the foreign ambassadors, George V., king of Great Britain and king-emperor of India, today, in the gorgeously decorated royal gallery of the house of lords, opened the round table conference which is to decide the fate of India and its 320,000,000 subjects.

Gathered around the oval table were 89 men, including the great princes of India, many in their picturesque native dress; representatives of all communities and classes of British Indians, and representatives of the kingdom of Great Britain, which for the last 300 years has and still exercises overlordship in India. One great element in India was absent—Mahatma Gandhi's great Nationalist Congress party, with millions of followers. This party, which demands complete independence for India, is boycotting the conference.

Royal Gallery Crowded.

The task of the conference is to work out the future relationship of India to the empire. The Indians, from the proudest prince to the humblest untouchable, demand full dominion status as a minimum. The British government is pledged to grant it. The task is to work out the details.

An hour before the arrival of the king-emperor, a throng had gathered in the royal gallery. There Lord Reading, one of the greatest former viceroys of India, was circulating about the room, renewing acquaintances and exchanging jests with princes and politicians. Interesting to note was that the princes bowed before him with as great respect as they did when he ruled India in the name of the emperor.

W. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, also went about chatting, but received nothing like the homage accorded Lord Reading. The Indian princes are meticulous about "isms" and distinguish sharply between the British politician and the personal representatives of the emperor.

Among Those Present.

Most notable among the princes was the maharajah of Patiala, chancellor of the chamber of princes, a huge man with black braided whiskers, dressed in a black frock coat buttoned closely at the neck and a large blue turban which made an American housewife would be delighted to acquire as a window curtain.

Beside him was the maharajah of Kashmir, famous in England as Sir Hari Singh, victim of the notorious jewel blackmail case of a few years ago. Sir Hari was also dressed in a black coat and pink turban.

Behind the maharajah sat the two principal women delegates in red saris. They are the Begum Shah Nawaz and Mrs. Subbarayan. Opposite was Aga Khan, sacred chief of the Ismaili Mohammedans.

Enter the Emperor.

In the middle was the great gilt throne to be occupied by the emperor. Promptly at the stroke of noon the visitors ceased and a hush overcame the hall. The emperor entered.

The picture was that of a little man in ordinary morning dress of black coat and striped pants, attended by Prime Minister MacDonald and the lord great chamberlain, Lord Lewisham. The whole assembly rose as he entered and the princes bowed low, many making the sign of the salaam with clasped hands before the brow.

The king walked straight to the throne, bowed, and taking a typed script from an attendant, read his speech in a clear, emotionless voice. It was an ordinary speech of welcome, and when he finished he handed the manuscript back, bowed slightly, shook hands with Mr. MacDonald, and walked out.

The throne was then moved back and the maharajah of Patiala moved that Mr. MacDonald be made chairman of the session. The motion was carried.

Mr. MacDonald and the princes then spoke. Their speeches were eminently correct and merely expressed hopes for a successful issue of the conference, but a note of something different was sounded in the speech of M. A. Jinnah, leader of the Moslem community. He particularly referred to the presence of the dominion prime ministers, declaring that he was glad to see them present at the "birth of a new dominion," and that India expected the promises of the prime ministers and viceroys to India to be translated into action.

After the speeches Mr. MacDonald announced the appointment of a committee to organize the business of the conference, and declared the meeting adjourned until next Monday at St. James's palace, when the real work is to begin.

ACTRESS CHARGES SHIP LINE "SHANGHAIED" HER; ASKS MILLION

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Attorneys for Edith Ransom, actress, today filed a $1,000,000 suit in Superior court against the Matson Navigation company, charging she had been "shanghaied" in Honolulu and taken to Yokohama.

The former star of "White Cargo" also charged the company had caused her arrest in Seattle on her return to the United States.

The trouble arose, the suit said, after she went to Honolulu to act as hostess for the company at a hotel. The company broke the contract, she charged.

Miss Ransom arrived here several weeks ago, ill and nearly penniless. She was taken to the city jail and her release was obtained on a writ of habeas corpus. In reply, the steamship company claims she was a stowaway.

INDIANS IGNORE PARLEY

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DELHI, India, Nov. 12.—India, or that articulate part which has been in revolution since last spring, looked with supreme indifference upon the opening of the round table conference in London today.

The leaders, who are practically all in jail, do not think self-government can be won by discussion, and so today was just another day in the struggle, with its usual meetings, usual lathi charges, usual arrests and prison sentences. No word came from Mahatma Gandhi in his cell at Poona jail.

Most of the Indian nationalist papers did not even feature the opening of the conference, their biggest headline being devoted to the monotonous news of police attacks, police seizures and arrests of mothers, daughters, sisters and wives, which are now commonplace.

Scoffs at Pageantry.

The Hindustan Times, Delhi nationalist paper, described the opening of the conference as "spectacular, but futile," and mused about the king-emperor speaking through a silver microphone.

"Nobody here is interested in the manner in which the microphone was decorated," the paper observed. "All that may appeal to the lovers of pageantry, but not to us. Nothing but a clear recognition of India's right to order her own future in her own interests can satisfy even moderate opinion in this country.

"The days when a vaguely worded proclamation could satisfy us have gone. Our masses are awake and clamoring for their rights. Microphones and their expensive decorations cannot succeed in distracting the attention of our people from the self-government movement."

Riots on Increase.

Returning to India after a month's absence in Afghanistan, I note that police repression has increased rather than subsided, as some thought it might during the conference. The mobs in Bombay, which were quieting down when I left there a month ago, now seem uglier than ever following Viceroy Lord Irwin's ordinance declaring the nationalist congress organization illegal. Twenty-five were injured in a great riot today when police broke up a procession. All members of the Bombay "war council" were arrested.

The civil disobedience followers have taken to stoning the police—a thing they never did before, so perfect was the nonviolence discipline. And the police are replying by firing on them. Bombay women, too, have been assaulted by the police—a new phase of the struggle. So heated is public opinion over the police treatment of women that some of the wives of the delegates to the conference in London have presided over indignation meetings and voiced protests.

Hartals, or cessations of work, were observed today in various cities, including Bombay, Calcutta, and Karachi, in protest against the London conference.

PROHIBITION HELPS THIS FELLOW CATCH UP ON HIS HISTORY

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Barefooted as he stood in federal court here John Schexnayder, 82 year old backwoodsman, told Judge Wayne Borah today he had been making whisky for fifty years and he had never heard of the prohibition law.

Schexnayder, who speaks only French, pleaded guilty through an interpreter to a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquors. He was placed on probation for five years.

Among other things the backwoodsman said he had not been told the war between the states had ended.

DAD TESTS KIDS' PLAY GUN; WIFE GETS A BULLET

All day long yesterday the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tracy, 9717 Parnell avenue, played "cowboy and Indians" with a .25 caliber automatic pistol which one of the older boys had found on a closet shelf.

Last night Mrs. Tracy told her husband about it after the children had put the gun away and gone to bed.

"Why, I think it's loaded," Tracy remarked as he picked up the gun and pulled the trigger to find out. It was. Mrs. Tracy was taken to the Roseland hospital with a bullet through her right hand.

THEATER DAMAGED BY FIRE.

Canton, Ill., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Defective wiring is believed to have been responsible for the fire causing $2,500 damage to the Capital theater here tonight. The fire occurred when the theater was closed for the supper hour.

HEAD OF BOOK SHOPS DIES IN GAS MYSTERY

Theron P. Cooper, president of the Walden Book shops, operating three stores in Chicago, was found dead of gas under mysterious circumstances last night at his home, 129 Euclid avenue, Glencoe.

The first report of Mr. Cooper's death, made by Chief of Police Jacob Rudolph of Glencoe, stated that Cooper, who was alone in the house, had been found dead beside the kitchen stove with all the gas jets open and the windows and doors closed.

Chief Rudolph also said that a six page letter, apparently written by Mr. Cooper after he turned on the gas and describing his experiences as he awaited death, had been found beside the body.

An hour later a brother of the dead man, Kenneth L. Cooper of 1028 Dinsmore road, Winnetka, denied that his brother had taken his own life. He said he had found the body in the garage in the rear of the home where Mr. Cooper, he said, apparently had died of fumes from his automobile engine.

Dr. L. A. Richburg, 309 Park avenue, Glencoe, who was called in an effort to revive Mr. Cooper, said that the body had been taken into the yard to the fresh air when he arrived, but that he had found the kitchen windows tightly closed and the odor of gas still strong in the house.

Dr. Richburg added that he heard members of the family discussing the "death letter," quoting one sentence as saying, "I have heard that gas was an easy way to die, but I have been at it for 45 minutes and still able to write."

Kenneth Cooper told the police that Theron Cooper had made an appointment to meet his wife in the loop at 4 p. m. and that when he failed to appear she telephoned to Kenneth about 5 p. m.

When Mrs. Cooper called a second time, half an hour later, Kenneth Cooper drove to his brother's home and discovered the tragedy.

'WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?' VET'S EPITAPH

Death Reveals Mendicant Is War Veteran.

First Class Private Nils Anderson, headquarters company, Sixth field artillery, First division, A. E. F., won't be present next Armistice day to face east in Calumet City. He's gone west.

A few hurrying pedestrians may miss him from the accustomed corner across from the town square, inasmuch as they won't have to step around him. He sold pencil sharpeners there. And it was easy for him to celebrate Armistice day. All he had to do was to lay his cigar box of pencil sharpeners on the sidewalk, stumble to his feet and, leaning against the brick wall, raise his shaky right hand in salute as the bugles blared.

Neither the citizens nor the police of Calumet City knew him as First Class Private Nils Anderson. To the former he was a nameless panhandler, always chuckling to himself, "Where do we go from here?" To the latter he was a nuisance, a chronic drunkard whom even the speakeasies didn't want around.

Taps for Nils Anderson.

A private watchman found him yesterday lying in a ditch near the plant of Swift & Co., 107 West Plummer avenue, Calumet City. Anderson was dead.

It was not until the body had been removed to an undertaking establishment at 248 155th place, Calumet City, that Anderson's war record was disclosed, likewise that he had been gased and shell shocked and wounded by shell fire. In an inside pocket of his vest was a leather folder. In it was some yellowed papers and a card.

One side of the card read, "The Y. M. C. A. compliments you on your service, and wishes you every success in your civil life. An honorable discharge from the service is a lifetime memorial and honor." On the other side: "1917 to 1919; Sommerviller sector; Ansauville sector; Montdidier sector; Cantigny, Soissons; second battle of the Marne; St. Mihiel; Argonne-Meuse; Sedan, Coblentz bridgehead."

From Soldier to Soldier.

Among the papers there was one that began, "My fellow soldier," and read in part, "At the call to arms the patriotic young manhood of America eagerly responded . . . our democracy has been tested and the forces of autocracy have been defeated . . . I extend to you my sincere thanks for your splendid service to the army and the nation." It was signed, "John J. Pershing, commander in chief."

The police investigation revealed that Anderson had "no home, no relatives, and hadn't worked since he left the army; only a bum." Undertaker Joseph S. Czimanski estimated that for $100 he could give him a pretty decent funeral, with a wooden coffin and burial in an ex-service men's plot in Elmwood cemetery. But nobody appeared with the $100.

First Class Private Nils Anderson has gone west with his eternal question still unanswered, "Where do we go from here?"

AIMEE IS BARRED FROM CUBA UNDER ASSUMED NAME

HAVANA, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Aimee Sample McPheson arrived here aboard the S. S. Tolca today, but was not permitted to land until she had satisfactorily explained why she had embarked from Panama under the name of Miss Betty Adams and had registered her nationality as "English."

The evangelist was indignant with newspaper men who revealed her identity to the purser of the ship. Mrs. McPherson insisted her name was Adams, but did not furnish immigration officials with anything to identify her under that name.

Passengers said Mrs. McPherson had enjoyed the trip up from Panama, ones posing in the uniform of the chief engineer for amateur photographers. She refused to pose for the press photographer, however.

Mrs. McPherson remained aboard the ship tonight. Capt. C. W. Whidden of the Tolca said she had booked passage to New York. He said she had locked herself in her stateroom, where her dinner was served.

Florida Supreme Court Upholds Electric Chair Act

Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The state supreme court late today upheld the validity of the Florida electric chair law.

Brighter Days!

You need not punish a sluggish system with purgatives that do violence. Just chew a pleasant Cascaret before bedtime. Next morning you'll be a new person. Candy Cascarets are made from cascara—which doctors say actually strengthens the bowel muscles. So their action is always beneficial. They clear up a stubborn, bilious, headachy and constipated condition every time. You awake with coating gone from tongue; with eyes brightened; breath sweetened; appetite on edge. For a bright morning, try a Cascaret tonight. Then you'll know why 20 million boxes are used every year.

CHRISTMAS CLUB SAVERS WILL GET $24,000,000 SOON

Fund Available for Holiday Shopping.

Christmas season. When these men will be employed depends upon when the rush season begins, he said.

The Railway Express agency announced that it will employ 2,500 extra men if a normally busy Christmas season develops.

Thus, from three agencies, a total of 26,000 persons may find temporary jobs and many more thousands will be provided for if the buyer participates in a normal shopping season, the association committee pointed out. Such employment would help greatly toward solving the problem of Chicago's 80,000 registered unemployed, the committee members asserted.

In addition to those given employment as listed previously a far greater number will be employed in the industries which would receive stimulation from a normal Christmas season, business men declared.

FRIENDS LAUNCH CHAS. V. BARRETT BOOM FOR MAYOR

9,832 Sign Petition; Call Reviewer Qualified.

The first of Chicago's mayoralty booms was set off yesterday when friends of Charles V. Barrett gathered in his office at the Board of Review and formally petitioned him to become a candidate for mayor.

The delegation, among whom were prominent business and professional men of Chicago, presented to Mr. Barrett a petition signed by 9,832 citizens, in which Mr. Barrett was urged to take a place in the mayoralty race.

Among the signers of the petition, who have thus lined themselves up as Barrett supporters, are William Wrigley Jr., Lawrence Whiting, Silas Strawn, George Lytton, and John J. Sirean.

Acceptance Is Seen Sure.

Although Mr. Barrett, in a short statement, said he would delay the announcement of his decision in the matter for a few days, his words left no doubt that he will accept the invitation and become a condidate.

Mr. Barrett, a Republican, is the first outstanding man of either major political party to be thus publicly launched in the mayoralty contest. The Democratic leaders, resting upon the laurels of their victory in the recent election, are at Hot Springs, where, it is believed, an agreement on the Democratic candidate may be reached.

Mr. Barrett has been associated with the regular Republican organization of Cook county, but he has opposed the forces of the present mayor. Although the latter has by his recent actions indicated a desire to run for reelection, political observers believe his health and other considerations will prevent his being a candidate.

Must Rule Over 1933 Fair.

The petition presented to Mr. Barrett began as follows:

"The people of Chicago are vitally interested in 'Chicago's next mayor,' the public official upon whom the eyes of the world will be directed when Chicago in 1933 will be host to those millions of visitors from home and abroad who will accept Chicago's invitation to visit here and attend the Century of Progress exposition.

"Every one who has pride in and love for our city will agree that Chicago's next mayor must be not only a citizen whose record in public and private life qualifies him beyond all question but equally one who is able to meet the following tests:

"1. He must be every inch a Chicagoan, fully in accord with the city's best commercial, industrial, and civic interests, and thoroughly acquainted with and alive to its financial and governmental problems.

"2. He must know Chicago's people in every walk of life and by reason of personal contact and experience have a complete and sympathetic understanding of their cosmopolitan characteristics, ideals, and aspirations. He must be a firm and unwavering believer in Chicago's home and family life. In short, he must be a man of the people.

"3. He must know thoroughly our system of government and be adequately experienced with the practical side of politics. Men, although experienced in business, who do not know the 'why and how' of public administration invariably, when elected to office, find themselves unable to give a constructive administration.

Say Barrett Is Qualified.

"Knowing that you, Charles V. Barrett, measure up to these exacting standards and qualifications; that you are one of Chicago's native sons, educated in her schools and in the University of Illinois; that you are experienced as a practicing lawyer and as a counselor of business organizations for more than a quarter of a century, that you have been a constructive leader of Chicago's political and civic life and thought, that you have for many years given good service as an elected public official, that you have an extraordinary knowledge of the problems of Chicago and of its citizens, that you combine honesty of purpose with a thorough knowledge of the intricacies of public administration, taxation, and finance and are exceptionally well equipped physically and mentally to dispose of the many exacting and trying problems which must be effectively settled if Chicago is to go forward in accordance with an awakened commercial, industrial, and civic spirit; we, the undersigned citizens, most urgently request that you announce your candidacy for mayor of Chicago and begin an aggressive campaign to secure the Republican mayoralty nomination at the forthcoming primary election."

Barrett Thanks Petitioners.

After thanking his supporters, Mr. Barrett said:

"I have given some attention to this matter for some time, but now I will make no definite statement. In a very short time I will announce my decision.

"Every Chicagoan is looking forward to the World's Fair, and before that time arrives it is vitally necessary that Chicago again be placed on the high pedestal it deserves. I am sure that this can be done with a proper representative in the mayor's office, one who will appreciate the responsibilities of his office, and who will coöperate with the business men and other citizens of Chicago in reestablishing our great name."

Democrats Go Boom Boom for Judge Dieterich for Governor

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Booms seem to be bursting in midair—but not of the pineapple variety—at this spa, as 250 Cook county Democratic leaders continue their conference.

Congressman James T. Igoe of the Sixth touched off a governorship boom for 1932 for Judge William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, newly elected congressman-at-large. The proceedings met with great acclaim from Democrats communing under the magnolias along bath house row, upon whom Judge Dieterich appears to have made a deep impression. "Here's a type of man," declaimed Mr. Igoe, "we Democrats have been looking for for a generation to run for governor. He's a natural for 1932."

The tenor of the day's developments took its tone from last night's conference of leaders over patronage distribution. One of the most impressive addresses came from William D. Meyering, sheriff elect, who took as his theme the new version of the victor spoils dictum of Andy Jackson—to the victors belong the responsibilities.

Service His Watchword.

Sheriff Bill expounded the idea that service is what the Democratic ticket was elected for, that the Democrats have the greatest opportunity in twenty years in Cook county and Illinois.

"The people," said Mr. Meyering, "will measure the party by only one yardstick, and that is performance."

The mayoralty booms floating around in the talk collided during the gabfest. For a time there was quite a noisy row over the method to be followed in allotting the new patronage, Michael Igoe, minority leader, in a speech that disturbed the dancers on the mezzanine floor, reproached Committeeman Moe Rosenberg with seeking to pile the new patronage into west side Democratic wards and with overlooking Republican wards like the Hdye Park territory, where the Democrats to get anywhere will have to get votes.

Democrats who have been in the steam rooms jumped at the opportunity to blow off steam of their own, and for two hours it was a regulation Democratic old style confab, everybody hoisting everything off his chest.

Echoes from Meeting.

The version of the meeting most loudly given is that some committeeman who are not county officials but have mayoralty booms were desirous of letting the committeemen have considerable sayso in filling the new jobs, which naturally would increase the prestige of the committeemen.

In reply to Mr. Igoe's speech, somebody brought up the matter of south park patronage distribution, Mr. Igoe being one of the park board.

"But those jobs are civil service," explained Mr. Igoe.

"Well," said Moe Rosenberg or somebody else, "I've got six jobs for constituents since Lindheimer went on the board. Those guys working on the new drives aren't civil service, are they?"

At the end of the palaver it was decided to leave patronage plans to the elected officials, new and old, who are to meet Tuesday in Chicago.

GLASS REBELS AT DEMOCRATIC AID FOR HOOVER

Says He Can't Understand "Apology."

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Storm clouds appeared on the horizon today as the administration sought to insure the harmonious session of congress pledged by Democratic leaders.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] denounced the coöperation offer made to the Republicans over the signatures of seven prominent Democrats. Senator Glass asserted that "no group of Democrats, however distinguished or discerning, should feel obliged to pledge their party associates in congress not severely to disturb the most infamous tariff act ever enacted by a legislative body, lest the doing of this might upset the acquisitive activities of those who are thus licensed to prey upon the American consumers."

Hoover Makes Plans for Session.

Apparently unaware of the Glass statement, President Hoover, in a conference with Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant majority leader in the senate, discussed methods of speeding up the business of the coming short session of congress with a view to averting any possibility of a special session of the new congress in the spring.

A telegram was reported to have been sent by an administration spokesman to Senator J. T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] asking if he would agree on behalf of the Democrats to support a cloture petition if found necessary to insure passage of all appropriation bills before the present congress ends on March 4.

Senator Glass, in taking exception to the offer of coöperation made by the seven Democrats, reflected the view of many Democratic members of congress who have resented the statement issued by John J. Raskob, Jouett Shouse, Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James M. Cox, Senator Robinson, and Representative John N. Garner.

Surprised by "Apology."

"Putting aside the question as to the right of any undelegated group of gentlemen, great or small, to pledge 47 senators and 216 representatives in congress to a precipitately devised course of action," said Senator Glass, "I confess to some astonishment that anybody should feel impelled to apologize for an apparent Democratic victory at the election or could even feel constrained to attempt a justification of such a result.

"It is beyond my comprehension why anybody should assume that a Democratic administration of public affairs at Washington could constitute a menace to the business of the nation, not even if one should define business to mean only the stock market."

Under the program for the short session of congress as discussed by President Hoover with Senator McNary the appropriation bills and measures connected with the administration's plans for relieving unemployment would be given the right of way. General legislation of a controversial nature would be sidetracked as much as possible.

PHYSICIANS ASK MODIFICATION TO AID PROFESSION

Wickersham Body Hears Plea of Experts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Two representatives of the American Medical association appeared today before the Wickersham commission and urged modification of the Volstead law to loosen up the restrictions on medicinal liquor.

The witnesses were Dr. William C. Woodward of Chicago, legislative counsel for the association, and Dr. William M. Mayer of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Both doctors were understood to have told the commission that they felt the present dry law provisions are obnoxious to their profession generally and a burdensome interference with the practice of reputable physicians. They also were said to have expressed views upon whether one-half of 1 per cent alcohol is intoxicating in fact.

Modification Reports Persist.

Appearance of the A. M. A. representatives before the Wickersham group lent further strength to the belief that the commission is strongly considering a report recommending modification in some form, if not a change in the 18th amendment. Although reports to this effect have been termed "conjectural," by Chairman George W. Wickersham, they have persisted and grown and have not been specifically denied, and there is a widespread feeling among those who purport to know that several members of the commission are insisting upon a wet report.

As usual, today's session of the Wickersham commission was held behind closed doors and the testimony of Drs. Woodward and Mayer was not officially made public. There was no denial, however, that they voiced the protests repeatedly made by the American Medical association against the restrictions on medicinal liquor.

New Drive Organized.

Following a recent proposal to further tighten the restrictions, Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president of the association, announced that his organization had set out to organize a new drive against all restrictions on the use of alcohol by physicians in their practice. As a result of the organization's protest through Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] the proposed new restrictions were abandoned.

The A. M. A. has repeatedly gone on record in favor of the amendment of the Volstead act. Not long ago 18,625 members of the association out of 30,843 voting expressed the opinion that whisky is absolutely necessary as a therapeutic medicament.

Wickersham Is Silent.

Through his secretary, Chairman Wickersham today was quoted as saying that he did not propose to deny any further reports forecasting the contents of the commission's report. He said that the statement issued by him last Saturday branding all such reports as "conjectural" would have to serve now and in the future.

Beyond the reports that the commission will ask for some form of modification other reports have stated on supposedly good authority that the commission will recommend a constitutional convention to consider repeal or amendment of the 18th amendment. Another report, published today, declared definitely that the commission would ask the President to recommend wine and beer "for the good of the country" in his address to congress Dec. 1.

The commission will meet again tomorrow and daily this week.

Wants 500 More Men.

Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock declared today that he proposes to demand more men and more money from congress and proceed with "vigorous enforcement of the dry laws as they are." He indicated that neither the wet trend of the elections nor any recommendation the Wickersham commission may make would affect his program.

Recalled from San Francisco by President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell as he was preparing to sail for Hawaii, the prohibition director arrived in the capital this morning and announced immediately that he was "unmoved" by the wet and dry agitation since his departure. Not only will he insist upon his plan to hire 500 more dry agents, he said, but he will ask congress in December for a deficiency appropriation to give his bureau more funds before the end of the fiscal year.

Job "to Enforce Law."

"I am not concerned with movements to change the prohibition law," declared Mr. Woodcock. "My job is to enforce it. I am convinced my policies are sound—we are on the right track and we are going right ahead with full speed."

As if to emphasize his determination to carry on with enforcement activity without regard to public feeling, Director Woodcock confirmed reports that he had ordered the dismissal of James J. Donovan, assistant to Administrator Andrews MacCampbell of New York City because, according to Woodcock, "he admitted he had been drinking."

"I want it known that I am not going to have any drinkers in this bureau," said Mr. Woodcock. "If there is any place where men ought to be teetotalers it is in this work." He added that charges are being drawn against Donovan and that he will be given an opportunity to answer them.

G. O. P. WILL GO WET OR GO TO SMITHEREENS, SAYS PROF. BUTLER

New York, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia and Republican leader, predicted tonight that if the party's platform in 1932 does not call for repeal of the eighteenth amendment "there will come in the following November the biggest political smash-up that has taken place in the history of any American now living."

"The intelligence and the moral purpose of the American people," said Dr. Butler, "are unflinchingly determined to repair the dreadful damage done to our government and to our public life by the ratification of the eighteenth amendment, as well as to bring to a quick end the shocking conditions which cowardice and hypocrisy on the part of the office holding and office seeking class, together with an uncontrolled and untaxed nation-wide liquor traffic, have brought upon the nation."

He indicated his statement was an answer to that made by Senator Simeon D. Fess, national Republican chairman, which said, "If the Republican party stands for repeal, it might as well say good-by."

FESS MAY QUIT AS CHAIRMAN IN FAVOR OF LUCAS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] may be succeeded by Robert H. Lucas as chairman of the Republican national committee of the 1932 campaign.

Demands by wet Republicans for the resignation of Senator Fess because of his insistence that the party remain dry were met today with the statement that Senator Fess had not intended to continue indefinitely in his present post. It was asserted, however, that he does not intend to resign immediately or as a direct result of the controversy over the wet and dry question.

Friends of Senator Fess said that he would regard his resignation at this time not only as an abandonment of the fight which he proposes to make to keep the party on the dry side of the prohibition issue but also as a reflection upon President Hoover's support of the dry cause.

Plans to Battle Wets.

Senator Fess indicated today that while he will do everything possible to combat effort by the wets to weaken prohibition, he may be ready to support any suggestions made by the Wickersham commission which might tend to make prohibition more enforceable.

In some quarters it had been thought that Mr. Fess' recent statement that the Republican party would meet defeat in 1932 if it "split" on the question of repealing the 18th amendment, meant that he would tolerate no change whatever in the dry laws.

Hopes for Improvement.

In this connection it was pointed out that when he spoke the other day of a "split" he also said:

"I do not know what can be done to improve the situation, but some plan of improvement for enforcement may be offered by the Wickersham commission."

It was reported that Mr. Fess might support the commission, even though it might propose to leave enforcement and determination of alcoholic content to the states. He declined to discuss this report tonight, and said he reserved judgment on all features of the commission's recommendations until they are made public.

HUNT LOOTERS OF A. E. CROSS' EVANSTON HOME

Police of Evanston and Chicago yesterday were hunting burglars who on Tuesday night entered the home of Albert E. Cross, 2837 Sheridan place, Evanston, and took jewelry valued at $6,000 and an ermine wrap worth $1,000. Mr. Cross is the retired president of the Cross, Roy & Eberhart company, grain brokers and members of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Only a maid was in the Cross mansion when the burglary was committed. Mrs. Cross had gone to a hospital in Chicago to visit her husband, who is seriously ill. She returned to find the front door locked, so that she could not gain entrance. Her chauffeur crawled through a window on the second floor and opened a rear door. The robbery was then discovered.

It was the second time the Crosses had been robbed. The first was when they lived in Wilmette, three years ago. The burglars then obtained jewelry valued at $30,000, some of which was recovered recently when the cache of a band of international jewel thieves was discovered in New York City.

Corns Lift Out
With Fingers—No Pain!

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Japanese product your foot troubles can be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint, as this new preparation is called, is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it! Only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask in any Drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

PURDUE TEACHER IS WOUNDED BY MYSTERY BOMB

Can't Explain Strange Garage Blast.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—William F. Heidergott, 55 year old instructor in practical mechanics at Purdue university, who was injured early today by a bomb in his garage, will recover. This announcement was made late tonight at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Chief of Police John Kluth and County Prosecutor Raymond M. Robertson began an investigation of peculiar circumstances surrounding the explosion.

The blast, which shattered windows in the vicinity and was heard throughout the city, was first thought to have been made by a dynamite bomb attached to the starter of the car. Experts later determined that the bomb was of black powder and had been set off by a fuse. No one was seen to leave the garage within the time the small fuse would have burned, police said.

Heidergott had been attached to the university since 1919 in charge of the forging, welding and heat treatment department. Before joining the university staff he had been foreman of the Beech Grove Big Four railroad shops for eighteen years. He always has been known as a man of regular habits.

Maintained Two Residences.

During the school term, Heidergott has lived at the residence of Mrs. E. C. Moynihan, a widow, and rented a garage a block and a half away. His wife and five children maintained their home in Indianapolis. He visited them on holidays and week-ends.

Heidergott had been visiting his home on Armistice day and returned to Lafayette early last evening. He was a man of regular habits. At 7:30 this morning he left his rooming house for the garage, which he occupied jointly with Claude L. Hart, car inspector at the Monon railroad shops.

Shortly after he entered, a blast tore out the end of the garage. The instructor was found lying at the rear of the car.

"I can't tell anything," he said before lapsing into unconsciousness.

Police found that the bomb had been placed under the rear lid of the car. Two portions of the fuse were recovered.

At the hospital Heidergott said that he had noticed something smoldering under a rear wheel of the car which he kicked and then climbed into the seat. The explosion did not occur until he was partly within the car, he said.

Sticks to His Story.

Heidergott held to his story when police expressed doubt that he could have received his injuries while inside the car.

Heidergott declared that he had no enemies and could give no reason for an attack. Reports that he had perfected an invention which would force many men out of work, which might account for the bombing, were denied by him.

Hart, whose car is of the same make as that of the instructor's, insisted the bomb could not have been intended for him. Chief Kluth and Prosecutor Robertson left secretly for Indianapolis after Mrs. Heidergott and a brother of the instructor arrived at the hospital and were questioned. It was learned that there had been domestic difficulties in the Heidergott household.

The prosecutor, reached at Indianapolis, said that he visited the city to determine whether Heidergott had purchased powder there. He said that he had learned nothing.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN DANCE HALL.

Metropolis, Ill., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The body of Stewart Taylor, 21, of this city, was found on a table in a dance hall outside the city today. Taylor left home yesterday to go hunting. No evidence of foul play was found, but an autopsy revealed what was thought to be alcohol in the stomach. It was sent to Springfield for analysis. Taylor worked on a government dredge boat.

W. E. HULL DEMANDS 3 PER CENT BEER TO SOLVE DRY PROBLEM

Modification of the Volstead act to permit the tax exempt brewing and sale of 3 per cent beer and the distillation of 60,000,000 gallons of whisky a year, to be sold at 35 cents a pint with a $1 permit, was urged as a solution of the prohibition problem last night by Congressman William E. Hull of Peoria in an address at the Union League club.

"Authorize the brewing of beer of 3 per cent alcoholic content by weight, which is nonintoxicating in fact, and allow it to be sold by every one as soft drinks are now sold," Mr. Hull advised. "In this way there will be no return to the saloon and a great evil that has almost ruined the country will be cured."

Mr. Hull pointed out that the sixty million gallons of whisky, which he believes should be made annually under government authority, is less than one-third the quantity which was produced in pre-prohibition days.

The influence of the Anti-Saloon league in the politics of the Republican party contributed to the success of the Democrat, at the last election, Mr. Hull told the delegates, and added that "We have run ourselves into the ground by letting the Anti-Saloon league run the party."

MARY BORDEN SPEARS GLAD TO BE "BACK HOME"

The former Mary Borden, now the wife of Edward L. Spears, a brigadier general in the British army and member of parliament, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a week's stay and admitted she was glad to be "back home."

She was met at the station by her husband, who had preceded her to Chicago by a week, and her brother, John Borden. The Spears will be the guests of the Bordens during their stay here.

Mrs. Spears, in addition to social and political activities, has written ten novels in the last ten years, all of which have enjoyed popularity in England. Most of her stay in this country will be occupied with matters pertaining to the launching of her latest book, "The Woman with the White Eyes."

She is to speak at Marshall Field's tomorrow morning and at a supper which the Arts club is giving for her and Gen. Spears Sunday evening.

Mrs. Spears said she is looking forward to visiting the spots she knew as a girl while in Chicago. On her return journey to England she will stop in Cincinnati to visit her aunt, Mrs. Harry A. Worcester.

INDICT JAILER FOR ASSAULT ON PRISONER

Policeman Patrick Hart, lockup keeper at the Warren avenue station, was reported named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday. The charge is assault to kill Albert Sizer, 5535 Kimbark avenue, an automobile salesman, who was a prisoner in the station.

Sizer was originally charged with stealing a ring. He was arrested Saturday night on a bond forfeiture charge and was placed in a cell adjoining some colored prisoners, it is said. The colored men were making a disturbance and Sizer said that Policeman Hart ordered them to be quiet and then used profanity to him. Sizer protested and Policeman Hart took him from his cell, he says, and beat him on the face with a bunch of keys and then kicked him.

The case came to the attention of Judge Joseph B. David yesterday. He asked what had happened to Sizer because of his swollen face. Sizer explained and Judge David ordered Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz to investigate. Capt. Schoemaker corroborated Sizer's story and said that he had already suspended Hart. The judge then ordered the case before the grand jury.

STORE OWNER IS ROBBED.

Has Convincingly Tested Its Enforcement.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Senator Elect J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois said here today that he regarded Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's stand on the eighteenth amendment as an indication that President Hoover had come to the conclusion that prohibition could not be enforced by the federal government; that there had been an entire misconception of the amendment, and that under Section two, of which the senator elect from Illinois was the author, the various states had the right now and always to define for themselves the alcoholic content of beverages.

States to Decide Content.

"While a member of the senate I wrote the second section of the eighteenth amendment," he said. "It gives the right to the states to concur in enforcement provided it shall be done by appropriate legislation. I have ever insisted that each state has the right by the eighteenth amendment to legislate whatever content of alcohol or malt there shall be in beverages that would be intoxicant or nonintoxicant within the meaning of that amendment forbidding the manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

"In short, a legislature, under the Second section of the eighteenth amendment can at any time define for itself what would be intoxicating."

Repeal Not Necessary.

The senator elect expressed the opinion that if it was only a question of settling the alcoholic content of beverages a repeal of the eighteenth amendment was not necessary and that the fact that the states now had that right had been altogether overlooked.

"It was very evident that the President, seeing the failure of enforcement under the federal law, esteemed it wise to test the enforcement under his administration," Mr. Lewis continued, "and apparently approved his friend, who was his servant in two big capacities, going to the people on the Democratic policy as it had been set forth in the Illinois platform which I wrote."

CLIFFORD LINN TAKES STAND IN DIVORCE BATTLE

Testimony in the Clifford Linn divorce suit will be concluded today before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan. Linn, an official of the United States Gypsum company, has filed a cross bill for divorce in reply to the separate maintenance suit of his wife, Mrs. Florence Edell Linn, 3737 Cornelia avenue.

During yesterday's hearing Linn testified that in July, 1927, he had agreed to live with his wife and forgive everything if she would confess all instances of misconduct to him. She agreed, Linn stated, but later associated with other men and drank to excess, he declared.

Attorney Benjamin Davis, representing Mrs. Linn, offered evidence to show that Linn wanted a divorce so that he might marry Miss Essie England. Both Linn and Miss England, in whose home Linn lives, declared they were only friends. Mrs. Linn will take the stand today. Her bill charges her husband with cruelty.

C. L. WORTHINGTON SEIZED, CHARGED WITH SWINDLE

Clyde L. Worthington, known as the "fig land swindler," was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Frank Tlamsa of the Summerdale station as he stepped into a building at 5061 Broadway. He had been traced to the building by Attorney Sol. Friedman, who represents some of the women who claimed to have been swindled by Worthington.

The grand jury several days ago voted indictments charging embezzlement against Worthington, but he could not be located until yesterday. His activities were under investigation several months ago. It is charged that he told his clients that an investment in his fig lands would yield them a large rate of interest.

Mrs. Mary Thomas, 6122 North Paulina street, said she turned over her $12,500 home to Worthington and also $14,000 in bonds.

CHILD KILLED BY WAGON.

WE DO NOT WANT AN AVERAGE MAN

A food manufacturing corporation selling $40,000,000 annually, a national advertiser and leader in its field, with representatives in all large cities, has a place for a sales manager.

Check these qualifications carefully:

Age 28 to 35, college graduate, Christian.

Has been successful with some large corporation of standing and has learned to work organization-wise.

Has had experience in sales management and has come to the conclusion that selling is his forte.

Now employed and earning not less than $4,000 a year.

This is an opportunity only for a man who has already accomplished something, who has already developed his abilities. He will be interested in a change only because of the special opportunity we can outline to him.

We do not expect him to write us a long first letter, but his first letter must so summarize his claims, accomplishments, viewpoint on selling and sales management to warrant us in arranging an interview at our expense.

NEW YORK FINDS AIM OF GUNMEN MUCH IMPROVED

'A Racketeer a Day,' New Slogan in Gotham.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 12.—[Special.]—This town's homicide minded population is growing increasingly quick on the trigger and the boys and girls are shooting straighter than they ever did before. A glance through the all too skimpy crime records for the last thirty days—beginning on Oct. 12, when Jack "Legs" Diamond was the victim of an inefficient firing squad—reveals that New York is out to capture first place in the homicide charts of 1930.

In the month that slipped by since "Legs" went to Welfare island to have his punctures patched there have been ninety-one persons shot in Father Knickerbocker's town. Not all of the victims were of such great social importance as "Legs" and consequently their ultimate fate has not been advertised by bulletins. Research, however, shows that forty-two of the bullet victims have been buried, the survival of death of ten others has escaped notation, and the remaining thirty-nine are on the mend.

Professionals Are Busy.

A check and double check on the list shows that thirty of the shootings were done by professionals and that in most of the cases the lead poison victim was a racketeer, which paves the way for the slogan of "A racketeer a day."

All of which takes on significance regardless of the obscurity of most of the gunshot victims when compared with this city's last year homicide record of 357. If the present marksmanship should be continued the gain would be more than 50 per cent.

The latest national crime statistics from the department of justice bureau in Washington show that the daily average of murders throughout the United States had risen from three a day in January to almost five a day in October. New York City apparently is contributing considerably more than its quota, as the last thirty days give it a percentage of approximate 1.35 homicides per day. This leaves Chicago's former peak record considerably outdistanced, according to crime authorities in the east.

Outside Killings Ignored.

Over across the Hudson in New Jersey, up in Westchester and all along the shores of Long Island the racketeers' guns bark merrily almost every night, but the figures cited in this summation deal only with crimes within the city's limits. Shootings and murders in the metropolitan district outside the city proper receive scant attention here unless they are unusual or contain "names," even though most of them are directly connected with gang life and racketeering in the city.

Two of New York City's crime experts today urged that extraordinary measures be taken to curb crimes of violence here. They were Dr. Harry Shulman, director of research for the crime commission, who has been a student of crime in this city for three years, and William L. Butcher, chairman of the police department advisory committee on crime prevention.

The crime authorities urged that district attorneys of the five boroughs of the city at once consider the desirability of John Doe inquiries with the aid of their grand juries into the whole racketeering situation.

Montrose Ave. Trolley Line Extension Ordered by I.C.C.

An order directing the Chicago Railways company to extend the Montrose avenue street car line from Avondale avenue to Milwaukee avenue, with a feeder bus line between Milwaukee and Narragansett avenues, was entered by the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday. The order is subject to approval of expenditures for the extensions by the federal court. A petition for the extensions was filed several weeks ago by improvement clubs and residents of the section to be served by the new lines.

Americans Offer to Build British Columbia Highway

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—American interests have offered to build a $20,000,000 highway to Yukon and Alaska in return for concessions to operate a chain of tourist hotels and gas stations and receive a percentage of the gasoline tax for upkeep of the road. The provincial government is considering the offer, made to Premier Tolmie.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S 82 YEAR OLD DAUGHTER IS A CIGARET SMOKER

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Queen Mary, it would appear, is not the lone smoker among the feminine members of the royal family.

Princess Louise, 82 year old daughter of the austere Queen Victoria and aunt of King George, says The Londoner in his diary in the Evening Standard, not only smokes cigarets but likes "gaspers," a British term for cheap, strong cigarets that grip the throat. Writing about a visit by the princess to a regimental concert of her own Kensington regiment, he says:

"She commented the moment she arrived on the fact that the men weren't smoking. 'Let them all smoke,' she said, 'in fact I want a cigaret myself.'

"A box was handed to the princess with the apology that the cigarets were not of an expensive brand.

"'Nonsense,' she replied, lighting one, 'I always smoke gaspers.'"

WALKER WAIVES IMMUNITY; GOES BEFORE JURY

New York, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker's own story of how he appointed former Magistrate George F. Ewald to the bench three years ago was told today to the extraordinary grand jury which has indicted Ewald and three others on office bartering charges.

The mayor brought a signed waiver of immunity.

When he came out he refused to answer any questions about his testimony, but when asked if he enjoyed his experience he answered: "I was doing my duty. I always enjoy doing my duty."

His testimony was understood to be the same that he gave several months ago before a county grand jury investigating the Ewald case. That body refused to return an indictment and the special grand jury was summoned at Gov. Roosevelt's behest.

Mayor Walker testified then that Ewald's appointment was recommended by the Steuben society and that no money had influenced the appointment. Later he said, "If Ewald paid for his job, he might as well have thrown the money into a sewer."

NYE AGENT FILES DECLARATION IN SUIT FOR $25,000

The declaration of the $25,000 suit brought by George L. Cole, former investigator for the Nye senatorial investigation committee, against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and W. C. Dannenberg, head of a private detective agency, was filed in the Superior court yesterday. The bill, filed by Attorney Louis Gelfand, charges assault and false imprisonment.

Cole charges he was held prisoner for six days from Sept. 13 to 19 after being taken from his room by Dannenberg and his agents. With his testimony, Cole says, Mrs. McCormick hoped to prove that her telephone wires had been tapped. Cole says he was originally employed by the Nye committee to find out if members of the committee were being shadowed.

On the fourth day of his imprisonment Cole says he was permitted to telephone his wife, but was not allowed to tell her where he was or what he was doing. He declares he was "frequently seized, pulled about, and struck a great many violent blows." His testimony was not heard by the Nye committee.

DR. MESIROW TO FACE COURT IN ALIMONY CASE

Circuit Judge Trude yesterday ordered Dr. Maurice E. Mesirow, a physician with offices at 30 North Michigan avenue, to appear in court today and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to keep up his alimony payments to his former wife, Mrs. Eda Mesirow. Attorney Cameron Latter, representing Mrs. Mesirow, told the judge that a suit will be filed today against Mme. Irene Pavloska, the physician's present wife, to collect the back alimony.

Mme. Pavloska, soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, was married to Dr. Mesirow on Dec. 29, 1928, less than 24 hours after the first Mrs. Mesirow had been granted a divorce. Mme. Pavloska, the attorney said, signed her name as a guarantor that the doctor would pay alimony.

WIFE VISITS HER RIVAL AND KILLS HERSELF THERE

Husband Present When Tragedy Occurs.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Leona Bowles, 32, wealthy Portland society woman and mother of two young children, died this afternoon from a stab in the heart with a jagged edged bread knife. Nelson C. Bowles, 34, her husband, and Irma Loucks, 25, a stenographer, told police their versions of what authorities said appeared to be suicide.

Mr. Bowles, a capitalist, told police he had been called to the apartment of Miss Loucks, where he found his wife. Shortly after he arrived, he said, his wife went into the kitchen, where "she plunged a kitchen knife into her breast."

Delay Reporting to Police.

The tragedy occurred at approximately 10:10 o'clock, according to Mr. Bowles. But police did not come into the case for almost an hour and a half. Dr. Paul B. Cooper, the family physician, was called, but within 20 minutes Mrs. Bowles died.

Mr. Bowles called a mortuary, to remove the body. He and Miss Loucks then left the apartment. He went to the offices of Wallace McCamant, his attorney, who advised him to call police.

From statements obtained by police it appeared that Mrs. Bowles went to Miss Loucks' apartment in search of her husband. Miss Loucks called him at his office, and he came to the apartment immediately. Mr. Bowles said his wife told him they "might as well settle matters," explaining that they had been separated for several months, and had been discussing divorce.

Mrs. Bowles went to the kitchen, apparently to get a drink of water. Mr. Bowles explained here that his wife suffered an affliction which caused her to become thirsty when she talked. When she remained there some time, Bowles went in and found her stabbed.

Miss Loucks said she didn't see the knife, Bowles said he took from his wife's breast, until later.

Miss Loucks, who was Bowles' secretary until recently, was formerly Mrs. Irma Paris, but her maiden name of Irma Loucks was restored by divorce.

Mrs. Bowles was formerly Leona Conkhite and came from Yakima, where her parents still reside.

URGES SINGLE BODY STATE LEGISLATURES

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Recommendations of political scientists for sweeping revisions in the structure of the state and county governments of this nation were under discussion of civic leaders from many parts of the country as the national conference on government here tonight reached adjournment.

Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university made the broadest of the favoring combining the senates and houses of representatives into single body legislatures, with power to the governor to introduce bills and lead debate.

R. C. Atkinson of the Ohio Institute, Columbus, and Charles P. Taft II, of Cincinnati, nephew of former President Taft, recommended the "city manager plan" be adapted and used in county governments.

In the belief of Prof. Hatton the changes in state government which he recommended would at least "not make things any worse than they are," and possibly would correct numerous governmental ills.

A warrant was issued for Daugherty's arrest. He is a brother of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, and is at liberty under $40,000 bond on the previous indictments.

15 SLAIN, 25 HURT AS 1,500 MINERS RIOT IN PERU

Chicago Man Is Listed Among Dead.

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Two Americans were among fifteen men killed today in a riot at a copper mine near Mal Paso, about 125 miles northwest of Lima. John W. Chapman of Chicago and E. L. Tripary, whose home address is unknown here, were the Americans who lost their lives.

Fred M. Dearing, United States ambassador to Peru, was advised of the incident and immediately called on Ernesto Montagne, foreign minister. It was learned on good authority tonight that the American ambassador formally requested protection for Americans in the mining zone, which is near Cerro de Pasco.

Flee in Special Trains.

Meanwhile all foreigners in the district were evacuated aboard special trains. Among them were about 350 American citizens and British subjects. The mine near which the riot occurred is owned by the Cerro de Pasco Copper corporation, an American concern.

A detachment of 200 soldiers was rushed to Mal Paso to reinforce the police, who had attempted to prevent the riot.

The riot occurred after a small body of police guards had made an unsuccessful attempt at Oroya to turn back 1,500 Peruvian workmen, who were on their way to Mal Paso for a labor demonstration. The skirmish with the police at Oroya, which resulted in the injury of 20 men, infuriated the marchers. When they arrived at Mal Paso they began to loot business houses and in some instances even invaded private dwellings.

Chapman, an electrician, and Tripary, a storekeeper, were killed while trying to drive away the invaders. An Austrian, who came to Mal Paso only two days ago to become manager of a hotel, also was killed. Twelve of the Peruvian workmen were shot dead by the police.

The number of wounded was estimated at 25. It was not definitely known whether any Americans were among them.

Two Officials Kidnaped.

Two British mining officials, Bernard Colley and W. Fowler, were kidnaped by strikers yesterday at Oroya and were held as hostages pending the release of several miners who had been arrested. Later these officials were released and it was said that everything had been fixed up.

A general strike of organized workmen in Lima and Callao, Peru's principal industrial centers, was ordered tonight for tomorrow morning. The strike order was the outgrowth of a dispute between cotton mill employes and the British cotton mill firm of Duncan, Fox & Co. The General Federation of Workmen has threatened to extend the strike to other Peruvian cities.

Charged with Laziness—

Guilty Simply of Acidity

More than one man today is misjudged and unjustly penalized because of a not understood physical condition rather than any lack of willingness or ability.

So many of us are only half ourselves, only fifty per cent efficient, because we are victims of an insidious condition of acidity! That persistent tired feeling—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system.

Acidity is brought on by our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. It impairs digestion, and causes fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and drags us down physically and mentally.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active oxygen. Now active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this acid test: Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement in your health, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund your money.

COUGH ALL NIGHT

Droop All Day

Nothing wears you out like a night of coughing. You rise in the morning a veritable wreck, bleareyed, limp and wobbly, totally unfit for the day's work. Coughing may be due to several things—cold, catarrhal condition of the throat, dust irritation or smoking. But whatever it is, the cough ears and should be stopped immediately, for it tears you down.

Whenever a cough threatens, take good, dependable old "Piso's for Coughs" as quickly as you can. Piso's does the two things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, clears the air passages and soothes the inflamed tissues, and, at the same time, has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 25c and 60c sizes. Be sure you ask for "Piso's for Coughs."

JOB BOARD FINDS 37,000 CASES FOR EMERGENCY AID

Continue Jobless Census Today and Tomorrow.

Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission announced yesterday that approximately 37,000 emergency cases were found to exist among the 90,000 unemployed who have registered in Chicago. Relief in these cases was being given as rapidly as possible by turning the registration cards over to the various relief agencies.

Cards showing that women and children were in need were given first attention. Late yesterday afternoon it was estimated that several hundred cases of the 2,000 which were turned over immediately to the relief agencies had already been cared for. The city-wide registration of unemployed will continue today and tomorrow at the board of education offices at 188 West Randolph street and 460 South State street, and at the Jones school, Plymouth court and Harrison street.

Wayne Hummer, chairman of the state-wide committee of the governor's commission, yesterday received a telegram from national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington stating that William M. Baxter of St. Louis, field worker for the Red Cross, had been instructed to aid in making a survey of conditions in southern Illinois.

Indorse Hoover Program.

A resolution indorsing President Hoover's program for emergency appropriations was adopted at yesterday's meeting of the unemployment executive committee. The resolution pointed out that the President will ask congress as soon as it convenes to finance further expansion of the government's public works construction program for the relief of unemployment, and urged members of congress to take immediate action.

The executive committee decided to establish joint relief and information bureaus in ten or twelve public schools throughout the city to relieve the congestion at other clearing centers. The printing of posters for display throughout the state urging judicious buying also was considered by the committee.

School Board Relief Move.

The board of education yesterday approved a relief measure for 2,000 normal school graduates who have been unable to obtain appointments as teachers. Certain restrictions on sabbatical leaves of absence were removed with the view to encouraging some 2,000 public school teachers eligible for the leaves to take them this year so that more vacancies will be provided for substitute teachers.

Lewis E. Myers, chairman of the Salvation Army boards, speaking at a charity campaign meeting in the Sherman hotel yesterday, announced that a new emergency lodge sheltering 1,800 men will be opened soon in the old Hartman building at 712 West Monroe street.

Board of Trade Drive On.

Special relief work was started yesterday by members of the Chicago board of trade. A committee headed by Frank G. Coe appointed groups of members to solicit funds, with $20,000 as their goal.

Among other private groups starting relief work yesterday were the various labor organizations of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, whose officers met with J. T. Gillick, vice president of the road in charge of operation. Clothing and necessities will be transported free by the railroad to 50 points along the line where local relief committees have been organized.

One unusual contribution was received yesterday by George F. Getz, general chairman of the unemployment commission. It was a check for $89 from James S. Weinstein, chairman of the memorial fund for Frank S. Fitzgibbon, late manager of the Madison Park hotel, 1380 Hyde Park boulevard, who died last Sunday. The donor said that guests of the hotel had contributed to a fund for flowers and that it had been decided to divert some of the money to relief work.

NORTHWESTERN U. OFFERS $100,000 GIFT TO CHARITY

Is Willing to Advance Grid Receipts.

Dyche stadium. Any interchange of tickets, President Scott was advised, would have occasioned unpreventable confusion.

Northwestern's petition for the right to move next year's game from South Bend to Soldiers' field will be wired to the faculty athletic committee. Northwestern's request upon Notre Dame for a change in playing fields will be made today.

When the three conditions mentioned in the offer have been met the $100,000 will be turned over to Mr. Getz.

Northwestern's previous request for a transfer of the game from Dyche stadium to Soldiers' field was turned down by the nine members of the Big Ten faculty committee on the ground that it violated a conference rule providing that Big Ten games must be played on the home grounds of the Big Ten schools.

The faculty action aroused a veritable storm of protest. President Scott was hopeful last night that the public would appreciate Northwestern's sincere desire to answer the unprecedented needs of the time.

Northwestern's Offer.

Northwestern's formal offer reads as follows:

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 12, 1930.

1. Northwestern university will give Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief $100,000, to be used in this community for relief of distress on conditions to be set forth in other paragraphs in this letter.

2. It is well here to remind you that all of the seats—48,000—in Dyche stadium have been sold, and tickets for the most part delivered. Many purchasers live far away, more than twenty states being represented.

3. Northwestern university is in full accord with the conference committee of the Big Ten in that all games should be played on college fields; and in making the following suggestion for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game in 1931 it does not desire to create a precedent. The suggestion is made only because of the existing emergency.

4. In view of these facts and the existing emergency, the university will give Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief the $100,000 referred to above on the following understanding:

(a) That Notre Dame university and the conference universities permit the 1931 football game between Notre Dame and Northwestern university to be transferred from South Bend to Soldiers' field, Chicago.

(b) That Northwestern university and Notre Dame university should receive from the receipts of the 1931 game that same amount they would receive from it if played at South Bend at maximum capacity.

(c) That Notre Dame consents that all funds in excess of the amount thus to be shared between Notre Dame and Northwestern be made available for charities and be distributed by Gov. Emmerson's commission, with the exception of a refund to Northwestern university for the $100,000 advanced by it at the present time for Gov. Emmerson's commission.

(d) That the south park board renew its offer for Soldiers' field for use on a date mutually acceptable to Notre Dame and Northwestern in the fall of 1931, on the same generous financial conditions as specified in their recent tender.

(e) As soon as the conditions set forth in paragraphs a, b, c, and d are met Northwestern university will pay Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief $100,000 to be used as above set forth.

WALTER DILL SCOTT,
President.

Mrs. Josephine Brazauak, 42 year old widow, and proprietor of the rooming house at 3232 South Union avenue, was shot three times last night by Julius Verketis, 50 years old, a roomer. Two of the bullets lodged in her abdomen and the third in her right hand. She is in a critical condition at St. Paul's Emergency hospital. It was said by police that the shooting followed an argument over Verketis' failure to pay his rent. He fled after the shooting.

POLA NEGRI'S PRINCE GETS INTO A FIGHT

New York, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Four minutes of fisticuffing on the afterdeck of the liner France, between Prince Serge Mdivani, Pola Negri's estranged husband, and Harry Robles, vaudeville actor, enlivened the trip for passengers of the vessel which docked today.

Both participants told reluctantly of the fight and said they were friends again. Prince Mdivani took exception to a remark made by Robles during a party aboard ship, and they settled the matter with their fists. The prince's upper lip was slightly cut.

Prince Mdivani booked passage as "S. Davis." Of the recent Paris divorce action of Miss Negri, final papers in which are pending, he said, "I'm very glad it is all over. Miss Negri is a beautiful woman. It was a question of sharp difference in character and temperament. She was for art and I for business."

DEFICIENCY BILL LISTS WATERWAY AS EMERGENCY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Funds for financing federal construction work on the Illinois waterway between Lockport and Utica will be included in the special emergency appropriations for waterway development now slated for recommendation in the first deficiency bill introduced in congress in December, it was learned today.

Approval of the special waterway fund for use in expediting various waterway projects in the interest of the unemployed would mean that work on the Illinois waterway could be begun as soon as possible after the deficiency bill became law. Should it be approved early in January, government money could be allocated at once on the Illinois project and work begun.

The possibility exists that a filibuster, designed to force a special session.

It now seems unlikely that the state of Illinois will have much if any funds available for early construction work on the Lockport-Utica waterway. An independent audit of the Illinois waterway.

HERE ARE THOSE AMAZING "PEP UP" SALTS

So Many People Are Asking About

They are ordinary JAD Salts, and thousands of people tell wonderful tales about them. Everywhere you go, people are taking them and singing their praises; especially folks who have to work hard or long hours, and those who know they shouldn't drink alcoholic beverages, yet do.

Fat or overweight people take them to reduce moisture weight in the body and to end that puffy feeling most overweight people have.

What they do is this: Clear up the Systemic Poisoning that makes you feel so miserable most of the time. Clean out those mean, intestinal poisons that often go to the kidneys and form pus and trouble.

30 minutes after taking, you feel those poisons go. No more dull headaches, no more dragging yourself around "half-sick" most of the time. You "pep-up" and pack a new wallop in a hurry.

You take a spoonful in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast, a sparkling, wonderful drink. For these salts are a product of citrus fruits and grapes, with just the right touch of lithia to make them marvelous to take.

So that nobody will be fooled in buying them, you get your money back if they don't make you feel finer, snappier, more vigorous and interested in life than ever before. Get at any corner drug store simply by asking for ordinary JAD Salts. You'll be glad that you did.

GOOD FELLOWS GIVING IMPROVES PUBLIC ATTITUDE

But Professional Beggars Are on Increase.

Chicago is in a generous mood. The city is giving to its destitute, and the underground giving is having a beneficial effect on the public mind, quieting social unrest, abating pessimism and loosening purse strings, thus hastening the return of prosperity.

But with the community in this mood, the professional beggars have become active and floaters have drifted into town. From the west side comes a report that a certain family has received so many second hand overcoats that they are being peddled for $5 a piece. Another report told of a printer receiving three baskets of groceries from various sources.

Some Refuse to Work.

A story is told that a crowd of the homeless men regularly congregating on the lower level at the north end of the Michigan avenue bridge refused jobs as laborers in helping to move the embalmed whale from its exhibition grounds across the street from the Wrigley building. Many news pictures of this crowd have been published, in line for coffee and sandwiches, and sometimes cake.

The Good Fellows, by virtue of their numbers and the nature of their work, are contributing materially toward the relief of the destitute and toward the cheerful influence on the public mind. By virtue of their system, every penny of their donations is reaching some deserving family—with THE TRIBUNE paying the expense of administration.

Families Carefully Investigated.

The families who are being carried through the business lull by the Good Fellows have been carefully investigated as to their worthiness and their needs by trained and experienced social service workers employed by THE TRIBUNE or by one of the larger permanent charity organizations, the United Charities, the Jewish Social service bureau, the Central Charity bureau (Catholic), or the Salvation Army.

Any likelihood of duplication in Good Fellow relief is eliminated through the coöperation of the Chicago Council of Social agencies, a clearing house for 200 charity organizations.

Owner of Garage Creates a Job for Bookkeeper

A garage owner created an additional job in his shop yesterday when he read in THE TRIBUNE the appeal of a bookkeeper, trained in Northwestern university, who is the sole support of his parents.

"I really don't need an extra man right now," the garage owner told Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S unemployment service. "But I do have work he can do. I want to put him to work keeping my books and helping on the floor of the garage."

This isn't the first job offer to come from this man. He told Sally that he was so pleased with the man she sent to him before that he decided he would help by making a job for another.

Suggestions for Jobs.

"There are many other jobs that can be created to give a little bit more work to the jobless," said Sally. "The thinking man is having his decorating, remodeling, and painting done now because he knows that it can be done much cheaper than next spring when prices will be a great deal higher. There are plenty of small jobs around the house that can be done during this warm weather, too, such as taking down screens and putting up storm windows, repairing steps, raking leaves, and washing windows."

Sally reported more and better jobs yesterday. A restaurant asked for a cook at $35 a week. Another order came for a manager for a tearoom; some one wanted a carpenter; a gas station needed an extra man; and a woman called for a window washer.

But despite the large number of job offers, many unemployed workers waited at the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, hoping they might find a job among those offered through Sally Joy Brown. At the same time Sally's mail contained many appeals from the unemployed.

Appeal from a Father.

A man, 23 years old, who has been married 14 months, wrote: "My wife and I had our own place and were very happy waiting for our baby. When he came we thought we were the luckiest people on earth. Then only ten days after the baby was born I lost my job, and we had to part, she and the baby going to her folks and I to mine. We knew it wouldn't be fair for three of us to go to her folks or to mine as they are very poor.

"I hope you won't forget me after you have taken care of the other married men who need work worse than I do. I am a machinist, can repair automobiles, and have done chauffeuring."

Another appeal came from a father of three small children, the oldest 4½ years. He is willing to "do almost anything."

Can you create a job? If so, telephone the news to Sally at Superior 0100.

TRAIN KILLS TWO IN AUTO.

Kendallville, Ind., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Frank Rohrbaugh, 47, and Leroy Smith, 45, farmers, were killed this afternoon when the car in which they were riding was struck by a fast westbound New York Central mail train at Butler, twenty miles east of here.

TRAINMEN SEEK WAY TO SECURE SIX HOUR DAY

Eight hundred delegates, representing the five principal railway trainmen's unions in the United States and Canada, began a secret session yesterday at the Palmer house to discuss means of establishing a six hour day for all train crews. The railway brotherhoods which are now seeking the six hour law won the fight for an eight hour day 25 years ago.

The session opened in the morning with a general meeting of the delegates. A temporary organization was perfected and W. L. Schauberger of Oil City, Pa., head of the locomotive engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad, elected chairman. At the end of the general session the five organizations, said to be sitting as separate committees, retired to hold secret sessions.

The organizations represented at the conference, called two weeks ago by David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, are: The Order of Railroad Conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Switchmen's Union of North America, and Robertson's organization.

No statement of the day's actions was forthcoming from union heads last night. Alvane Johnson of Cleveland, head of the engineers, admitted before the morning session that a great part of the time would be spent in discussion of the six hour day.

If a formal petition for the six hour day is forthcoming as a result of the conference railroad heads last night said that it was certain to meet with the opposition of the companies, as all railroads are divided into divisions on the basis of an eight hour day and also, due to decreased revenues, are economically unable to meet the requested change in hours.

THE PRESIDENT ON AMERICAN POLICY.

Expressing admirably the spirit of the occasion, the President's speech on Armistice day asserted the general principles of American foreign policy to which the nation gives adherence. He pointed out, as Washington did, that our situation is different from that of the nations of the old world and calls for a different policy. We do not criticise European governments for basing their policies upon their own conditions, but, seeking a common peace as earnestly as they do, we prefer our own methods of maintaining or defending it. We are believers in arbitration and have gone farther toward establishing it as a practical and customary resort than any other power. We are ready to coöperate for the adjustment of international differences at all times, provided our freedom of judgment and action is not compromised in advance of the event. We do not accept the European theory that an organization of force to compel nations to forego the use of force is desirable, and we propose to preserve our traditional freedom from permanent political entanglements and commitments of vast and complicated implications. Our contribution to the good understanding and amity of civilized nations will be governed by circumstances and our own free judgment upon the issues and interests involved.

Americans will differ upon these matters, but upon the broad principles of independence the nation, despite a few sentimentalists, is one. Our contributions to peace are our will to peace, our voluntary coöperation in peaceful measures among nations, as we deem them well advised, and, most of all, our refusal to be drawn into the intrigues of European governments.

THE AMERICANS WON THIS WAR.

The American revolution seems to have broken out again in France. Thus far it is only editorial, the editor of L'Intransigeant speaking his mind on the subject of the proposed commemoration of Von Steuben's services by the American and German governments. Perry Belmont, described in dispatches as a Paris American, has furnished some material to indicate that Von Steuben was actually several cuts under his reputation (the war will never end for Paris Americans), and the editor concludes that there is a clumsy attempt to fabricate a German Lafayette. Could it ever be that some other aid to some other Pershing would have occasion to say, "Von Steuben, we are here"? Frank B. Kellogg forbid.

The revolution was a good war. The longer it waves the better, and if editors and Paris Americans are to give it another boost toward immortality it might be remarked fittingly here that it was won by colonial troops led by colonial officers. The services of Lafayette, Kosciusko, Von Steuben, Pulaski, De Kalb, Gimat, Fleury, etc., were as valuable to the American cause as those of Riedesel, Rahl, Von Knyphausen, Charles Lee, Conway, Horatio Gates, and Benedict Arnold were to the British, but Washington once said that, all things considered, he wished he never had seen a European officer. There were many elements in that remark and it may have been tesiy of the moment. Washington could do with officers trained in European service because he fought in the European fashion and lost most of his battles. His almosts were as numerous as Harvard's this football season, and, like Gen. Nathanael Greene, he never lost a campaign; but the victories were won by colonial soldiers fighting under American leaders who adjusted their maneuvers not to the military science of Europe but to the character of their troops and the nature of the terrain. That was military genius.

Old Gen. Herkimer, who left a farm to blunder into an ambuscade, nevertheless won at Oriskany in circumstances which licked Braddock on the Monongahela, mortally wounded and propped up against a tree smoking his pipe. Arnold won at Saratoga, with the help of Morgan, by relieving one regimental commander after another in his own crafty and dashing charges. (That was the Arnold before Philadelphia and West Point.) Campbell, Sevier, Shelby, and their associate captains won at King's mountain with mountaineers who had never seen a drillmaster. Stark won at Bennington with militiamen and farmers. Morgan won at Cowpens with a maneuver of Hannibal, putting his militia in front to fire twice and run, but to run to "a position prepared in the rear." They knew for once that their running was on the hill. They may not have known that when they got to the position prepared for them it was backed by a river and would hold them for further service.

Greene drew upon the native military genius of an unschooled soldier to draw Cornwallis out of the south. At Guilford Courthouse he employed Morgan's technique with the militia, raw as raw turnips, but at the end of a close fought thing accepted a fielder choice, did not retire the side, but won the ball game and left Cornwallis the alternative of more of what he had been getting or a full retreat. Cornwallis chose retreat, and all the French fleet and the Franco-American troops under Washington had to do was to bag him at Yorktown.

Where the slight margin which kept the Americans from a victory needs explanation the army will be found under the European drillmaster, with capable, devoted, and gallant European officers, as major generals and brigadiers, on the staff and with the line. They were devoted soldiers. Von Steuben gave his money as well as his skill and energy. Pulaski and De Kalb gave their lives. There is no disparagement of them, but when the captured flags and prisoners were to be counted the general was a colonial American and the troops obeyed the instincts of his leadership.

If the revolution is starting all over again the combatants might as well take their corners.

SAMOA UNDER THE LEAGUE.

Sir Thomas Mason Wilford, accounting for the New Zealand trusteeship in the mandate for part of Samoa, explained to the mandates commission of the league of nations at Geneva that the Samoans preferred American to New Zealand custody because they could get drinks in the American controlled territory. He also said that since the machine gunning of the leaders of a Mau uprising there had been little disorder and not much evidence of discontent. The league's commission, having heard Sir Thomas, resolved that this was the best of all possible worlds, that the New Zealand mandate was one of its best manifestations, and that the petitions from the Samoans for relief should go into the fireplace.

It has been evident from the beginning that the league of nations was organised as a choir to sing the praises of whatever was arranged under the treaty of Versailles and other treaties of that peace. Mandates are supposed to be trusts for humanity, but no outraged minority appealing to the league ever had a debtor's chance at an auction sale. The Holy Alliance used a loftier rhetoric and no more hypocrisy. The wrongs of the minorities might cry to heaven and distress mankind, but all they would evoke at Geneva would be organ music and singing in the loft.

New Zealand has not muddled its Samoan mandate by bad intention, but obviously its colonial administrators have not known how to handle the situation. It is no answer to say that American administration has not been everywhere a complete success and independent of the machine gun. But in Samoa American rule has succeeded and with the greatest amiability. The Samoans are still a little spoiled people, generous and amenable because well disposed and intelligent. If New Zealand has been in trouble the inference must be that New Zealand has been at fault.

This British dominion got a mandate composed of former German possessions in the Pacific, dividing them with Japan, and proceeded to disturb the peace. The suggestion is of a stiff, young and new head master who could make trouble, in a school where there had been none, by a martinet insistence upon things of no consequence. Presently it had the natives in revolt and then it had to use machine guns on them. The islanders should not have been subjected to such an experience. Their recent history has indicated their character. They have long been friends of America and America has been their friend. If there had been a little practical sense in the American delegation to Paris all of them would have been brought under American jurisdiction. It is the misfortune of these kindly people that they were abandoned to the mercies of the league of nations.

OLD STUFF.

The tremendous strain created by the effort of the soviet government to keep its five year industrialization plan going will test the strength of the Stalin régime to the limit. It is very severe now. It will increase in severity probably during the winter. It may destroy Stalin and his group, though if it does it will only replace them with other communist party bosses. But meantime the situation is producing tactics adopted invariably when an autocracy is endangered by its internal policy. The soviet propaganda keeps the bugaboo of foreign capitalist war on Russia always more or less in the picture it presents to the Russian people, and the worse conditions at home, the more stress is put upon this alleged danger.

The latest form is the "exposure" at Moscow of a plot involving Briand, Poincaré, Winston Churchill, Sir John Simon, Henri Deterding, and individuals representing most of the European nations. The "exposure" occupies over thirty columns in the official statement. To back it up there are reported to be 2,000 alleged conspirators in prison in Moscow alone and the affair should be useful not only in covering the execution or imprisonment of dissenters or doubters of the great plan, but perhaps also in reconciling Russians to the sacrifices they are making for its success. Confronted by a hostile world, which is conspiring to pour over the boundaries and destroy the communist Utopia, the Russian people will be expected to rally to Stalin—"'tis not to reason why, 'tis but to do and die."

Editorial of the Day

TAKING IT HARD.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Senator J. Thomas Heflin, popularly known as "Cotton Tom," who represented his state in the senate, but who, more recently, was read out of the Democratic party and forced to make the race as an independent, is a man of principle.

Avid in denouncing those who do not agree with him, he was consistent in complaining against those who did not vote for him.

"This was one of the most fraudulent and corrupt elections ever held in Alabama," was what he said when the returns indicated his unquestioned defeat.

"Cotton Tom" is taking defeat hard. But, then, this is his character. He took victory hard, too. The senate long ago wearied of his egotism and his determination to demonstrate that he knew all about everything done in the United States by his enemies, many of whom can be found among those denied membership in the Ku Klux Klan. His campaign was in keeping with his attitude of hostility to all those who dared to question his divine right to rule, and his defeat was suggestive of what happened in many other states, including Illinois.

The voters grew tired of the kind of Puritanism which does not recognize the possibility that decent men may not agree with it.

A PERFECT GENTLEMAN.

"And what are you going to be when you grow up, my little man?"

"Well, after I have been a minister to please mother and a lawyer to please father, I'm going to be a policeman."—Exchange.

MEASLES RANKS SECOND.

MEASLES ranks second to whooping cough as a contagious disease of childhood. It is especially hard on children under two years of age, but in spite of its preference for young children it manages to break up schools and mess up children's affairs considerably. Nor do adults escape. When the country boy goes to the city to carve out a career for himself, one of his hazards is measles and the pneumonia for which it prepares the way.

A report from Porto Rico confirms reports from America and Europe, all of which go to show that we are set to wipe out measles. The only question is, are we willing to take the trouble? There are two ways of vaccinating against it. One is the injection of some blood from a parent into his child, after the child has been exposed, but before the disease develops.

Sometimes the disease is wholly prevented but that is the exception. The rule is for the injection to be followed by a very mild attack of measles lasting about two days, and followed by no complications. This vaccination, and the aborted attack, confers immunity which lasts for life. Instead of using the blood of a parent, the physician can make use of properly checked blood of any adult who has had measles at any period of his life. The other method of vaccination consists in injecting the properly checked blood of children recently convalescent from measles. This method gives better protection temporarily than does the first method, but the immunity conferred does not last long. The first is the better method, especially for children, in their own homes. The second method works very well in controlling measles epidemics in hospitals, boarding schools, and orphan homes.

In Porto Rico and other tropical countries, measles is a relatively mild disease, but there was no trouble in noting the difference between the severity of uncontrolled measles, and that which followed exposure and treatment with the blood of the parents. These latter cases, in the language of the street, had "only three or four measles" on the face and fewer still on the body. Running nose, red eyes, coughs and pneumonia were absent. The treatment of pneumonia with medicine recently covered in this column is another matter.

TOMATOES.

H. M. H. writes:

1. Is it true that tomatoes contain oxalic acid and are not very desirable food for one suffering from acid stomach?

2. Why is it that tomatoes, when cooked, are far more acid than when uncooked?

3. What are some of the more important base-forming foods and what are the acid-forming foods?

REPLY.

1. It is true tomatoes contain oxalic acid, about two parts per million. The amount is small and you need not pass them by on that account.

2. I wonder if they are?

3. The better base foods are potatoes, bananas, and most vegetables and fruits, including those from fruit acids. The better acid-ash foods are breads, cereals, meats, and eggs.

SEEING NONEXISTENT MONKEYS.

E. F. S. writes:

1. Do hallucinations ever affect the eyes and cause blindness?

2. Are hallucinations an indication of dementia præcox?

REPLY.

1. Not in the sense I think you mean. If a person thinks he sees, let us say, a monkey sitting on the door, and there is no monkey, then we may say that he has a hallucination of sight. The trouble is in the brain, not in the eyes.

2. Hallucinations may be present in any form of insanity. However, we do not expect them in a person with dementia præcox.

LOST DRESS.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On Oct. 4 I gave a dress to a union tailor, who carries insurance, to be remodeled and cleaned. Upon calling for the dress was told that it had not been returned from the cleaners. Have called several times since, but it has not been located and he states he has ninety days in which to either pay for the dress or find same. Must I wait ninety days for the money covering the lost dress? K. H.

It seems probable that the amount involved is too small to make court proceedings worth while. This is substantially the same as saying you will have to await his pleasure.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITIZEN OR NOT?

Chicago, Nov. 4.—[Friend of the People.]—A friend of mine living in Chicago married a man born in England. His parents brought him to America when 18 months old. He served in the Spanish-American war and in the regular army about 14 years. He has always voted, but gave his birthplace as New York, where he was reared. At the last registration he gave his birthplace as England. Now his wife, who was born in Ireland, wants to vote at the next election. She says he is a citizen, which entitles her to vote. L. W.

Service in the United States army did not make the person referred to a citizen, but if he served during the Spanish-American war he may be naturalized without a declaration of intention [first paper]. If the husband is not a citizen, the wife is not a citizen unless she gained citizenship by the naturalization of her father or if she was herself naturalized. If she was married before Sept. 22, 1922, she assumed the citizenship status of her husband.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director, U. S. Department of Labor.

MAY REFUSE TO SELL.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Could I as a manufacturer refuse to sell dealers who in a price cutting war sell my product below cost even though they pay me my price? 2. How would my refusal stand in court? J. F. Z.

1. Yes.
2. See No. 1.

WELL, FOLKS, HERE COMES THE KING.

King George (in person, not a movie) spoke over the radio yesterday morning at the unearthly hour of 6 a. m. Neither did we. This thing of George V. routing good American citizens out of their beds in the middle of the night has simply gone too far. Why can't he come on the air at 10 in the forenoon and chase away the ladies who say, "Take three eggs and beat fierce with an ax . . . make sure your oven is hot enough by crawling inside and staying there five minutes . . ."? Those girls give us a pain and we'd much rather hear George. Something should be done about this. Write to your congressman today!

I hold you in my thoughts if not my arms,
Hoping to see you, dear, some time again,
Wishing you happy freedom from alarms;
These poets often say, "The past is dead,"
I am no poet then, for I believe
It is a statement very much ill-said
As long as mind can think and man can breathe.

Sonnets ere this I've written you, sweetheart,
I still may call you that? You do not mind?
And this one may not be the last! You start?
Are sonnet sequences so hard to find?
I left you with, "Good-night but not good-by!"
"That's right," you said, "be good!" My dear,
I'll try!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

HEY, HAPPINESS BOYS! Here's one that proves that old Prosperity is just about to pop right around the corner and be with us again. A farmer's wife in California while scattering corn to her chickens lost the diamond out of her ring, said diamond costing one grand (old style, a thousand dollars). She began killing the chickens one day, determined to find that diamond. Yesterday, after she and her husband had eaten steadily through the flock and had arrived at the 125th chicken, she found the diamond. Hey, Prosperity, you little rascal, come out from behind that corner! We see you hiding there.

HORA EST SEMPER, PROF, HORA EST SEMPER!

Dear Richard: When will the new Linebook be out, or is that a secret? The sooner the better, because I like to do my Christmas shopping early. What a public benefit you turned out to be. Little did a lot of us think in years gone by when we included the Linebook as lagniappe in our Christmas presents to dese, dose, and dem (only to find that the lagniappe was more appreciated than the C. P.), that one day the Linebook would be all there is (husky baritone) there isn't any more. However, in addition to wanting the Linebook, and lots of 'em, I do hope you managed to include that fine and deeply touching poem of Colorado Pete's, Mother's Memory Quilt, in said Linebook. And why, sez you, didn't you ask for it while the Linebook was being made up? Ah, my dear Richard, deliberando saepe perit occasio; in plainer words, I often thought of asking, but always hesitated, wondering if it were entirely fair to ask a man who has to please so many to please only one. All the best! I trust I am not too late.

THE PROF.

YOU SAID IT, DARLING.

RHL: You said it, Darling . . . after we get married we'll just take life as it comes to us . . . yeah, that's just the trouble today—they think all they gotta do is get married and be happy forever after . . . oh, no, I don't take things philosophically—its just plain sense and I'm glad me an yous big enough to talk these things over before we get married. Lotsa fellows my age are just cuckoo about beauty—all they think about is a beautiful face. Well, that's all right if there's anything behind such beauty and . . . why, sure, a girl can be beautiful and smart at tha same time—I have known lots of girls that have been beautiful and smart at tha same time . . . why, of course, beauty means a lot to me an I didn't say that you was very smart and sensible but not beautiful. You see, Darling, you jump at conclusions too quickly. I suppose that's tha women of it . . . no, I didn't say anything of tha kind. Men don't think they are smarter than women. But I do think the impelling force in man is his judgment, while the impelling force in woman is her heart . . . well, you don't hafta get uppity and tell me I'm conceited . . . no, I don't think I know everything . . . well, I know a little about women and . . . now, Darling, listen: I ain't tryin ta start anything or break off any engagement because you know an I know that me an yous entirely too sensible. But you must admit that men are a little calmer in their decisions . . . well, all right, Darling, anyhow its fine to think me an yous big an broad enough to understand one another so well.

ORACLE.

SONGS FOR LYNN.

Some time
When you come up
The garden pathway to my heart,
I shall not rush out to greet you
Wrapped in the east wind, west wind,
North wind, south wind!

Some day
I shall stand quietly
In the doorway, and listen
To your footsteps come through
A hushed and drowsy garden
With Love, a fragrant incense
Behind me in the still room. . . .

LAGNIAPPE.

THE SAMOANS have petitioned for a change from a British to a U. S. A. mandate. The British explain it by saying that under their rule the natives are not allowed to have likker while the Samoans declare that under United States control they can have all the likker they want, as is the custom in all the islands in the south seas ruled by the U. S. A. Hooray! the bootlegger follows the flag. R. H. L.

SKETCHES OF THE NEWS

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 13, 1914.

NORTHERN FRANCE.—The battle still rages from Dixmude to Arras with big guns roaring day and night. Churches topple down and factories burn with every fresh explosion of a shell. No tower which might be used for observation is allowed to stand. Seven towns have been devastated by the shelling. They are Nieuport, Dixmude, Roulers, Ypres, Armentieres, Lavantie, and Arras, some of them with priceless historical relics.

PARIS.—A Cettinje, Montenegro, dispatch says: "A great battle is in progress on the Brahovo front, along the western border of Montenegro. The Montenegrin troops were attacked by superior forces, but are holding their own. They have repulsed the Austrians at several points, inflicting heavy losses."

BERLIN [via London].—The German headquarters reports advances. The following statement was issued: "The enemy advanced from Nieuport as far as Lombaertzydt, but was driven across the Yser. The eastern bank of the Yser, as far as the sea, is now clear of the enemy. The enemy's attacks in the forests of Argonne are repulsed."

PARIS—The war office communication says: "To the north we have held on all our positions. In the Argonne region the German attacks have been serious, but amounted to nothing."

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE will mail this week an application blank to each of the hundreds of men and women who have offered to give temporary or permanent homes to the European war orphans. When properly filled out and returned the blank will give the information which it is necessary to have before it will be possible to bring the children across the ocean.

NOVEMBER 13, 1900.

LONDON.—Dr. Morrison, Pekin correspondent of the New York Times, says that the foreign ministers there have agreed upon stringent demands to be pressed upon China as a result of the Boxer uprising. Among them are that China shall erect a monument to Baron von Ketteler, the German ambassador, at the place where he was murdered; that China shall inflict the death penalty on the eleven guilty high officials and princes; that the Tsung Li Yamen be abolished and its functions vested in a foreign minister, and that the Taku forts and other forts on the coast of Chihli are to be razed.

NEW YORK.—Marcus Daly and Henry Villard died within a few miles of each other and almost at the same time. Villard, noted as a newspaper man, railroad builder, and financier, was born in Germany and came to the United States at an early age. He formerly worked on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and later did much for the progress of the Pacific coast states. He planned the first direct railroad to the northwest. Daly came to the United States from Ireland at the age of 13 and settled in California, where his first job was digging potatoes. From that humble start he became a multi-millionaire copper mine owner.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. O. W. Potter, 130 Lake Shore drive, was partly put under the influence of chloroform and then savagely beaten by a burglar.

PARIS.—The Paris international exposition of 1900 is ended. As a spectacle it was a success, but as a financial investment it was a dismal failure. More than 50,000,000 persons visited the exposition since its opening on April 14.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 13, 1880.

ST. PETERSBURG.—All the Nihilists tried for being implicated in plots against the life of the czar have been found guilty. Five were sentenced to death and eleven to hard labor in the mines, the terms ranging from life to 50 years. Three women were sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude.

DUBLIN.—The expedition for the relief of Mr. Boycott reached its destination unmolested and will commence at once to harvest his crops. The Orangemen have expressed their willingness to stay at Ballinrobe after the crops have been cut and work for Boycott. They were hooted nearly all the way from Clare Morris to Ballinrobe and are guarded in their barracks by troops.

LONDON. — English "society" papers announce that Mrs. Langtry, so long a reigning beauty of London drawing rooms, will be detained in her home on the Island of Jersey this winter by domestic circumstances which have not hitherto been regarded as a becoming theme of public comment and anxiety, excepting in the case of royal and imperial personages, involving the possible succession to a throne.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune says: "The Rev. Wilbur Fiskcrafts, formerly pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago, has accepted the call to the Church of Christian Endeavor [Independent] in Brooklyn from which Dr. Edward Eggleston resigned a year ago."

PHEASANT SHOOTING.

Downers Grove, Ill., Nov. 10.—The annual hunting season for pheasants got under way with a bang, in fact innumerable bangs, today. Hunters were in evidence everywhere, in pairs, threes and droves.

Our region is comparatively thickly populated. The few groves of trees, hedges and weed grown, fizzled real estate promotions are the only isolated spots of refuge for these beautiful birds. This morning every one of these isolated spots of refuge had two or more hunters lying in wait. Some hunters were beating a little copse less than a hundred feet from a dwelling. A stray shot might mean injury, or even death, to some one on the highway at the time.

Two hunters were scouring the fields a few yards from the highway with their guns brandished in the air like fishing rods. They did not seem to know the first thing about handling a gun safely. Some of these fine sportsmen not only do not know how to handle a gun, but they do not even seem to know what to aim at. My neighbor's back door is pock marked with shot and another neighbor had his house peppered, and when he objected the hunters showed their refined sportsmanship by getting impudent about it.

Two male pheasants are allowed by law for each hunter, but dead female pheasants have been found here. No doubt the cold blooded city sports must have their fun, so I imagine that in the near future we will have to content ourselves with the leavings of these hunters, to wit: Sparrows and rodents, which destroy our crops, as the only remaining fauna outside of the Field museum. JOSEPH DVORAK JR.

THE TAX LISTS.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Can any one enlighten taxpayers as to what or who persists in holding up the publication of the current tax lists? Have our city fathers yet found it convenient to comply with the law in awarding the contract for printing these lists to the lowest bidder or are they playing their usual cheap politics to delay these lists until it is "too late to bother with"? Real estate taxpayers are waiting for these lists. It is only in this way that they learn of inequalities and certainly some one ought to compel proper compliance with this phase of the tax law. J. L. KAC.

EXERCISE IN EXEGETICS.

Brookfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—Mr. Arthur Sears Henning says, "Inasmuch as Mr. Hoover has pronounced prohibition an 'experiment noble in motive,' he is in a position to declare without inconsistency for modification on the ground that the experiment has proved a failure, or a failure to some extent."

Mr. Hoover also stated, "Modification is nullification." I would like to hear Mr. Henning explain away that statement. WILLIAM A. GRAHAM.

DISSATISFIED CUSTOMER.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—After seeing the outcome of the fight last night at the Stadium between the fine little fighter, Jimmy Slattery, and the box office attraction, King Levinsky, I have come to the conclusion that boxing is not on the level in Illinois. Well, I never will warm another seat at the Stadium, and as for the boxing commissioners, if I said what I think you couldn't print it, anyway. THOMAS KELLY.

ANOTHER CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Recently, at great expense, the government conducted a census, one tabulation of which purported to enumerate the number of citizens unemployed. Now we find a certain Col. Arthur Woods appointed by the government to conduct a similar census. What is the matter? Did the previous census not cost the government enough that it now has to hire assistants to check its own very recent figures, or was there some votive offering to Ananias during what was fondly assumed to be a period of Republican prosperity? TERRY O'DONNELL.

THE BIG WIND.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Today I attended the 3 o'clock concert at Fullerton hall in the Art institute. It was drafty enough, as it usually is. By reducing the draft somewhat it would be possible to add to the comfort of the audience. The strength of the draft can be felt especially in the upper or rear rows, inasmuch as, apparently, the air is forced through the grilling above the stage and goes out through the doors in the rear.

After the concert I visited the American show on the second floor. The draft in all of these rooms was so marked that it made a big, disagreeable noise entirely alien to the quiet that one would expect in art galleries and the quiet that formerly prevailed there. But the worst part of it was that it affects one's breathing apparatus. I had a slight cold before going to the institute, but in spite of the fact that I made a rather hurried trip through the American show I had an honest-to-goodness cold when I left. MUSIC LOVER.

THE TRAVELER'S RETURN.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Upon returning to Chicago after an absence of almost a year, I was pleased to note a number of civic improvements which bid fair to make our city the world's greatest and most beautiful metropolis. The new Grant park development and the beginning of work on the Randolph street bridge are worthy of considerable praise. The Wabash avenue bridge is also a great asset to the city and the widening of some of the more heavily trafficked boulevards throughout the city and the erection of numerous new buildings are also commendable accomplishments.

The time seems ripe to start on the Roosevelt road bridge. This bridge should be a twin to the one on Randolph street, thus preserving the perfect symmetry which characterizes Grant park. It might also be expedient to have the Illinois Central railroad grade the present site of its building to the park and build its new station on the south side of 12th street and adjoining the bridge. This would provide an unobstructed view of the lake front as far as Roosevelt road and would permit a small extension of Grant park to the south, eliminating its present abrupt end at the present terminal.

The subway, of course, will be the next move, but at present Chicago is doing very nicely toward bringing about the greatest World's Fair in history. R. W. DAWE.

ELECTION DAY VACATIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—"Parent" wants to know why schools were closed last Tuesday, election day, and suggests that if they were closed by order of the board of education the members thereof ought to be examined as to their sanity. Now if this public spirited parent had taken the trouble to find out before she makes accusations she would find in the Illinois statutes, chapter 46, on elections, paragraph 194, which says that the days upon which the general elections for members of the house of representatives of this state shall hereafter be held in such city, village, or town, shall be holidays. SAMUEL TUCKER.

AN APPROVED APPOINTMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—When Gov. Emmerson appointed Mr. John Keane as the head of the unemployment department of our state, I knew he could not have picked a better man for that post. I have known Mr. Keane as a man who has never refused to help any one, regardless of race or creed, whether financially or anything that was within his power. EUGENE WILDSTEIN.

BEER AND JOBS.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—It is all very well for wets to talk about how many men will be reëmployed if good beer comes back, but how about the vast army of snoopers [official and otherwise] who will lose their jobs? What about the able young men who now hustle beer? Haven't they got a right to say something about it? CONSUMER.

THE DELAYED AWAKENING

[Glasgow Evening Times.]

DULL CENSUS FIGURES BECOME FLAMING BEACONS

NEVER before has a United States census meant so much to American manufacturers. For the first time a primary market is outlined clearly, definitely and with tangible evidence of superior buying power.

No hazy or indefinite "urban" or "small town" market here. Sharply defined, clearly developed, the "suburban" market stands out; new, modern, intelligent, the most homogeneous in its point of view, plane of living and social habits that the manufacturer has ever had an opportunity to cultivate. Above all else, easy to reach and of superior buying power.

Enormous Growth and Influence of Gardened Homes

Manufacturers and leading merchants in all lines are revising old systems of sales and advertising attack to meet the population shift to the suburbs so forcibly impressed upon them by recent census releases. The unprecedented influence on the sale of merchandise that the great suburban population is exercising has been felt for several years past with increasing force. Not, however, until the actual publishing of 1930 census returns was the full strength of this vast market fully appreciated.

If rich suburban markets have not been tapped because they are in territories controlled by city dealers, they challenge a close analysis of the volume that the city dealer is missing.

The application of the 1930 census figures against salesmen's territories, against advertising coverage, against trading areas is sure to reveal startling facts for nearly every manufacturer.

Superior Buying Power Proved

The opportunity for covering the suburban market efficiently is welcomed by sales managers.

Urban markets are composed of heterogeneous populations; they offer no common denominator for sales attack. Each city is made up of uncertain quantities of families of high, moderate and low buying power. All must be accepted on faith by the advertiser—good, bad and indifferent homes are lumped.

Turn to the gardened home, the home of the suburbs. Picture a few you know well; the modern houses, the well landscaped grounds, the proofs, inside and out, of deep comfort and enjoyable prosperity. What conception must one get of the wealth and vastness of this market if he interprets America's suburban population in terms of his own observations?

Only the cream of city dwellers equals the suburban average in buying power. Only a small percentage of city families can afford the quality goods which are liberally purchased in the suburbs.

One Outstanding Leader in the Suburban Field

When the Meredith Publishing Company established Better Homes and Gardens in 1922, it sensed the movement of population to the suburbs. From the beginning, the editorial aim of the magazine was to serve those families who had the desire and were financially able to enjoy the privileges of home ownership away from the crowded sections of cities and towns. Better Homes and Gardens has stimulated and accelerated the trend from cities to suburbs. Without the use of fiction or fashions, Better Homes and Gardens has attracted 1,400,000 families whose interests are in the suburban gardened home—a circulation greater by over 1,000,000 than other mediums in this field.

As the suburbs continue to sap the cities of their best classes, advertisers turn in increasing numbers to Better Homes and Gardens as the outstanding medium with which to reach this primary market. Just as manufacturers of quality merchandise of every type recognize that the suburban market is their most fertile field, so too they know from experience that Better Homes and Gardens stands alone in that field, the predominant magazine in gardened homes.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE SUBURBAN MARKET

Today, advertising must be centered on the home, and it is more necessary than ever before to gear sales activities to localities where these home people may buy conveniently. Leading department stores are opening branches in the suburbs. Smart shops spring up over night. City congestion is reflected in shifting buying habits as well as in shifting living habits.

The suburbs offer a quantity market for quality goods in food, clothing, household furnishings, automobiles, etc. People live freely, entertain more and consume more in suburban than in city homes. Building materials, garden tools, oil burners, electric refrigerators are readily purchased.

Ten years ago there were relatively few flower shows. Today there are over 1,000 flower shows held annually in cities or suburbs. The attendance at the New York Flower Show for 1930 reached 151,575 persons. Better Homes and Gardens in the year 1929 received 144,678 letters from subscribers asking information pertaining to gardening. Four of the leading nurserymen are credited with selling 5,000,000 rose bushes a year.

The term "suburban" has taken on a broader meaning; a meaning no longer restricted to commuting towns in the large city areas. Every city and town has its outlying districts made up of gardened homes. In these homes live a large percentage of the leading business and professional men of the nearby city or town. Their homes are suburban—neither urban nor rural. Such homes are found everywhere within motoring distance of towns.

Eighty-five per cent of Better Homes and Gardens 1,400,000 families own their own homes. Fifteen per cent live in rented individual homes or apartments and many are reading Better Homes and Gardens in anticipation of building and living in a home of their own. The urge to enjoy life surrounded by beauty, conveniences and comforts naturally follows in the wake of a fixed editorial policy. This policy, simply expressed, is:

"Let's do thus and so to better the home. Here is the way to do it."

The carrying out of this editorial policy to the final letter has made Better Homes and Gardens the predominating medium in the gardened homes of America.

RECORDS SHOW LOW BIDS LOST IN P. O. LEASES

Harry S. New Mentioned as Hearings Open.

United States Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] didn't agree yesterday with testimony that postoffice leases always went to the low bidder. He showed records to the contrary in the leasing of a postoffice building in Detroit from R. D. Brown of Indianapolis, who was quoted in the testimony as bragging he could get any postoffice lease he wanted because he went to school with Harry S. New, who was then postmaster general.

The Detroit lease and the negotiations for the Back Bay postal station in Boston were the only ones under discussion yesterday at the first public hearing of the senate committee, of which Senator Blaine is chairman. The session opened in the federal building, with Senators Felix Hebert [Rep., R. I.] and Carl Hayden [Dem., Ariz.] in attendance and Congressman Melvin J. Mass of St. Paul an interested spectator and adviser.

Jacob Kulp Is Witness.

The first witness was Jacob Kulp, head of a Chicago investment house, whose lease in St. Paul resulted in the senatorial inquiry. He was receiving $120,000 yearly rental from the government for a building later appraised as worth $334,000. Kulp's leases, however, weren't the subject matter of yesterday's questioning. Brown's leases were.

Mr. Kulp said he started in the business of bidding on proposed postoffice buildings in 1921. He first met Brown in 1923, while he was trying to get the contract for the Detroit postal station.

"Was it before or after March 4?" Senator Blaine asked, adding that New was defeated for reëlection as senator from Indiana in 1922 and didn't become postmaster general until his term expired, March 4, 1923. Kulp said he didn't know.

Correspondence between Kulp and E. N. Munro of Detroit, connected with the Burton Abstract company, was identified by Kulp. It had to do with propositions alleged to have been made by Brown.

Urged to "Work Together."

"Brown came to my office and said, 'Let's not be children; let's not be babes; let's work together,' but I wouldn't work with him," Kulp testified.

With Senator Blaine examining, Kulp testified as follows:

Q.—Did he tell you he could get any contract he wanted from the postmaster general?

A.—Yes; but I didn't believe him.

Q.—Did he say he went to school with New?

A.—Yes, but I didn't think that would help him.

Q.—He got the Detroit contract, didn't he?

A.—Yes, but I suppose that was because he was low bidder.

Q.—He wasn't. The records show your proposal was for $66,500 and his was $69,640.

A.—The assistant postmaster general wrote me that my bid was rejected because Brown's bid was $60,000 a year," Kulp explained.

"Getting Away with Rough Stuff."

"I note the site they selected and they should be put in jail for it."

Munro had written: "It seems a crime to let Brown get away with that rough stuff. Do you think we ought to drop a hint to one of the newspapers?"

Kulp said his advice was not to protest over losing that lease.

In all, Kulp said he now has 26 postoffice leases which have an annual rental of $878,000. In comment after the session Senator Blaine said it was a poor government policy to lease postoffice buildings at a figure that would pay interest and principal and all operating expenses over a period of twenty years and then own nothing when it should own the properties outright.

Option Holder Raises Rental.

The committee diverted from its chronological inquiry to accommodate a witness, Raphael Friedman, an architect and vice president of the firm of Alfred S. Alschuler & Co. Before calling him Senator Blaine asked Kulp about the Back Bay station.

When Kulp went to bid on the building there he said options on all sites were in the hands of a few men. It was understood that the government was to get the land for a stipulated price, and Kulp said he made a bid of $57,000 a year rental for the building he would construct. He was awarded the bid, but later he said the assistant postmaster general notified him the holder of the option wanted $39,000 more for the land.

In a later bid he was not low, he said, his rental figure having been increased on changed specifications and the additional land cost. Brown got that contract.

Architect Friedman said he inspected the building later erected by Brown and leased to the government. He pointed out a half dozen different ways in which it did not comply with the specifications given to Kulp and he estimated that Brown was able to put up the building for $32,644 less than Kulp would have had to spend.

Brown Issues Denials.

Indianapolis, Nov. 12.—(AP)—R. D. Brown, Indianapolis contractor, tonight termed as "ridiculous" and "plain prevarications" statements that he had told E. N. Munro, Detroit agent for Jacob Kulp, Chicago contractor, that he went to school with former Postmaster General Harry S. New and that he could "get any lease I want."

POLICE OF BERLIN BATTLE FASCIST STUDENTS IN RIOT

Arrest 9 for Fight Over Socialist Pamphlet.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Shots were fired during a riot at Berlin university today when the Fascist students ran amuck and beat up their political opponents, including girl students, and jostled the rector of the university, Prof. G. A. Diessmann. Five lorry loads of police were rushed to the scene and cleared the quadrangle with night sticks. They arrested nine rioters and forced the remainder to flee inside the university buildings.

The ire of the Fascists was roused by Socialist students distributing hand bills that pointed out that the Fascists were making merry at expensive festivities while the German masses were starving. The Fascist students were giving a ball where the price of admission alone was $2. The Socialists believed this an insult to President von Hindenburg, who has asked the country to restrict festivities in times of public distress.

Disregard Rector's Plea.

The Fascists set upon the distributors of the hand bills and then fought their would-be rescuers. The quadrangle seethed with battling humanity. The rector tried to intervene and urged the students to use "spiritual weapons," but the students were deaf to his pleas and threatened their rector.

Revolver shots were fired from a window of a lecture hall of the university, whereupon the police took a hand.

Police Takes Firm Stand.

Delegations of the students had asked the rector to keep the police off the grounds of the university since the presence of cops was felt as an insult to the future men of science. The rector said that he sympathizes with the students, but that Col. Heimannsberg, commander of Berlin's police forces, sneered at the complaint and said that "the university is not parliament and my men and I will go and clean up whenever a riot breaks out."

The police explain that they will not stand for the slightest uproar, as it might easily spread and involve the 375,000 jobless marching the streets of Berlin daily.

Again you will hear The Philadelphia Orchestra in radio's newest and latest broadcasting development—the method which proved so sensational a month ago. In Stokowski's own words:

"Continued experimentation with radio broadcasting convinces me more and more of its immense future possibilities, but also of its present great limitations. After giving much thought to our last radio concert I have decided to discard part of the equipment we used, and have planned three new types of equipment for our next concert on November 16th. We are aiming thereby to take another step forward on the long road radio must travel, before it will achieve all its vast but latent possibilities."—LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI.

GERMS
are passengers on street cars now!
Colds and Throat Infections May Sit Right Beside You!

Every cold and throat infection is caught from somebody else. During the Winter infection is more common than ever. Do the sensible thing—realize that every exposure to crowds exposes you to danger and act accordingly. A reliable defence is offered you in McKesson's Extol. This is the new antiseptic of new germicidal power and penetrative ability. It revolutionizes all former standards of antiseptic mouth washes.

The "10-Second" Germicide

Extol kills germs faster than any ordinary preparation yet known. And it reaches parts that other antiseptics miss. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. Hence its action is complete and thorough. Extol is the best "ounce of prevention" you can use but if you have already caught a cold or sore throat, it will relieve it in fast time. Extol is utterly harmless and most delightful to use. Also, it's economical. Costs less than other preparations and, as you can dilute it more liberally, goes further. All McKesson Service Druggists and all independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today and be forearmed against Winter ills. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson and Robbins product.

WINTER is open season for colds. But this year don't be a victim of a lingering winter cold. With Vapex you can stop your colds before they have a chance to grip you.

Vapex is a remarkable inhalant discovered in England during the war. A drop on your handkerchief or a drop at each end of your pillow gives off a soothing fragrance that promptly relieves distress—opens the nose, clears the head, and allows you to breathe freely.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is the only inhalant for colds approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

For safety's sake, always ask for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant—and do not accept an inferior product that claims to be "just as good."

PRINCE OF WALES GETS BIG THRILL AS DO-X PILOT

Handles Huge Flying Ship for Ten Minutes.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALSHOT, England, Nov. 12.—The prince of Wales was both a guest and the pilot aboard the Dornier flying boat, DO-X, today on a short cruise for his benefit and that of 30 members of the royal party.

He arrived in his own amphibian and his fingers itched to take the controls after the great flying boat took the air on its half hour cruise over the Isle of Wight. The prince asked permission to take over one set of the dual controls in the pilot cabin. The request was granted by Capt. Christiansen as a favor of one airman to another.

Wales took the stick as the DO-X neared her moorings at the royal air force base at Calshot and steered a wide circle over the marine aircraft tied up below, swept low over the hangars, then swung over the Solent and back into the wind for a landing.

Handles Ship Ten Minutes.

There he regretfully turned the ship over to Horst Merz, chief pilot, who was sitting in the upper pilot's seat. The prince controlled the flight of the DO-X for ten minutes.

Afterward he expressed his enthusiasm about the flying boat from a pilot's standpoint. He assured Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder, as well as Capt. Christiansen and other officers, that the DO-X was remarkably easy to handle and steady. The prince had an airman's holiday from the time the fog lifted enough to allow him and his two companions to take off from Hendon airdrome in London. While a fleet of military planes reared overhead, the prince's twin motored amphibian settled on the waters and he was taken off in a launch to a pontoon lashed to the port side of the DO-X's stub float.

Taps Bottle of Sherry.

He was conducted on a tour of the ship after the official reception, first visiting the pilot and navigator's cabin forward on the third deck. Then he visited the engine room in the rear and crawled out on the catwalk running through the wings with manholes opening to the engines arranged above in tandems of two. He inspected the motors and then the luxurious passenger quarters on the second deck. In the bar he tapped a bottle of sherry and shared a toast with Dr. Dornier.

The DO-X was then taken to the wind and turned into the wind. The big ship cleared the water in 31 seconds and cruised around the Isle of Wight. As soon as the plane landed all but four of the motors were shut off. A boat was tied to the DO-X float and the prince disembarked while the ship was still in motion. The ship then completed a brief second flight, during which the takeoff was completed in 25 seconds, in order to allow the prince to see the giant ship in the air.

Hops to Bordeaux Tomorrow.

The DO-X will remain at Calshot until Friday. Tomorrow will be spent in tuning up the motors and Dr. Dornier expects to depart before 9 a. m. Friday. There will be approximately twelve passengers on the third leg of the flight to New York, when the flying boat sails for Bordeaux, a distance of 500 miles.

FOES OPEN FIRE ON U. S. PLAN FOR REAL ARMS CUT

Nations in Deadlock; Russia Backs Gibson.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—Counter attacks against the demand of Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, for genuine limitation of land and air armaments through direct methods and not by merely restricting military budgets, were made today by delegates to the league of nations preparatory disarmament commission. Yesterday Mr. Gibson proposed direct limitation by urging the nations to fix the maximum quantities of materials held for warfare, besides limiting the man power, trained for war. He also urged full publicity on expenditures, armaments and size of armed forces. Japan, France and the little entente directed their fire at the American proposal.

Russia Backs U. S.

Soviet Russia backed th American proposal. Maxim Litvinov, Moscow's representative, insisted that a direct system of limitation of arms alone will give results. He went further and insisted on a dual method of limitation with the publication of complete tables of war material, and a graduated decrease in military budgetary expenditures.

Canada, Sweden, and Holland also backed up Mr. Gibson. It begins to look as though the American plan might command a decent number of votes against the conscript group if, and when, it comes to a showdown. But, the situation today is a deadlock.

N. Sato of Japan opened the debate by declaring that the direct method of limiting fighting forces was too difficult to apply and was impossible to impose on all nations.

Attacks Single Standard.

"Political considerations play a great part and international conditions are too unstable and prevent the establishment of a durable standard of limitation for countries of different geographic and strategic characteristics," he said. "The size of population, the length of frontiers and the difficulty of establishing a comparison between conscript and professional armies are other dangers. Professional armies possess higher fighting value, and therefore should not be allowed the same proportion of equipment as conscript armies. In Europe heavy artillery plays an important rôle, but in other countries light guns and mountain batteries are better.

"The Washington and London treaties do not provide supervision, but it is easier to dissimulate land equipment than naval equipment.

"I think that Japan's view is that we should be content to limit soldiers and not attempt to limit material by any method. Mr. Gibson explained that the United States could not apply the budgetary limitation. I could not recommend to my government that it enter a convention which is not applicable to all countries."

Claims Some Have Advantages.

Litvinov pointed out that industrially developed countries enjoy tremendous advantages by budgetary limitation unless they are forced to purchase armaments from larger neighbors.

Rene Massigli of France complained that Mr. Gibson was too severe against the budgetary system, but admitted that some countries' military budgets do not reveal the exact amounts spent. He also voiced apprehension over subsidized arsenals.

The French delegation then proposed that a committee of experts be named to examine both systems and report to the governments to give them time to make up their minds before the disarmament conference is held.

The Tom Thumb nations today also began the examination of the recommendations for the limitation of naval forces submitted to them by the five naval powers to see if they are acceptable for the inclusion in the draft of the treaty now under preparation here.

The little navy states intend jealously to safeguard their rights and to insist on having the complete say about the rules and procedure for handling their sea strength.

Amazing relief to sufferers from this astonishing natural medicine is guaranteed to help you in 6 days . . . or it costs you nothing!

Scientists have now found that clogging at these four Vital Points affects whole system. Gives rise to much Biliousness, Constipation, Gas, Nervousness, Bloating and Sour Stomach, Pain and Distress after Eating, Dizziness and Weak, Rundown Condition.

At last—a safe medicine for sufferers that reaches all four vital points!

You don't want to go through life ailing and suffering—sick all the time. Nobody does!

But many people make the mistake of taking medicine for only one thing—just the stomach or just the bowels. You know yourself that nobody can hope to get well this way if the liver and gall bladder are partly to blame for the suffering.

That is why this 4-fold bitter wine tonic will often bring amazing results in the first 6 days, even when ordinary medicines take 6 or 7 bottles to give relief. That is exactly what Triner's Bitter Wine was compounded for—people who suffer from many symptoms of congestion and sickness.

The cause of much suffering

Scientists tell us that chronic stomach trouble affects the bowels. You can see, yourself, how half-digested food and excess acid might bring on a stubborn case of constipation. And often the bowels are out of order due to the failure of the liver and gall bladder to produce enough bile, the intestinal lubricant and purifier. This is especially true of people at middle age.

"So often," they say, "when bowels are clogged, the liver, gall bladder and stomach are also clogged and congested." Then poisons back up through the system.

"So often," when you suffer stomach agony like gas, bloating, hard lump in the stomach after eating, sour stomach, and heartburn, your bowels are as much to blame as your stomach.

So often, dizziness, biliousness, headache, nervousness and tired, run-down feeling are due to liver and gall bladder. So often, mere laxatives fail to bring regular action because they don't reach and regulate the liver and gall bladder, too.

Now, clear out clogging at these 4 vital points

"Keep all four danger areas clear," says one authority—"the stomach, the liver, the gall bladder and the intestines. When one or more of these organs is sluggish or clogged the whole internal process is slowed down—with the result that you soon begun to complain of excessive fatigue, nervousness and indigestion."

What 4-fold tonic does:

Know the reason why Triner's Bitter Wine has so often ended years of wretched suffering and why it has restored so many sick, rundown, nervous people to health and brimming vitality.

1 Contains California wine to tone stomach . . . Buckthorn to stimulate gastric juices . . . Malt to aid digestion. Thus it is a triple-action stomach help.

2 Podophyllin which doctors prize as one of the greatest helps for sluggish, clogged liver.

3 Podophyllin also increases flow of bile from gall bladder which lubricates and purifies intestines, prevents fermentation, acidity, gas, etc.

4 Contains just enough Cascara sagrada to train bowels to regularity utterly without purging.

At the same time six vegetable juices enrich and redden blood, give you needed iron and build brimming vitality.

A famous doctor's formula

To stimulate regular action at all four points it is wise to follow the advice of doctors—use four-fold medicines that doctors agree go directly to these spots. Use them to clear the passages and work out the poisons and congestion. These medicines are combined in Triner's Bitter Wine. Doctors recommend it.

This remarkable vegetable prescription was especially compounded by a famous physician to act on these vital internal organs. That's why it brings quick relief to sufferers from stomach disorders, liver complaints, auto-intoxication, biliousness and constipation—without the harm and risk of dangerous drugs. And it tends to prevent more serious ailments—making you feel marvelously fit and 100% alive!

Triner's Bitter Wine is a natural tonic, made from vegetable extracts and fruit juices, which acts as a systemic cleanser.

It contains podophyllin, which acts directly on the liver and gall bladder, clearing these organs and promoting an active secretion of bile, the intestinal lubricant.

Cascara sagrada has the power to train the bowels utterly without purging, and often in the first six days.

Help is offered—why not accept?

Don't be a slave to gas, bloating, stomach agony and stubborn constipation for one more day without giving Triner's Bitter Wine a fair trial. If you are run down, underweight, nervous—if you suffer from indigestion, liver trouble, biliousness or distress after eating, by all means make this amazing test. See how quickly Triner's Bitter Wine can bring grateful relief and build you up. And if you want to prevent serious ailments and feel fit always, let us show you how easy it is to keep well and strong. Please note the special offer which we urge all sufferers to accept.

O. W. Jonah, M. D., F. R. S. I., of the well-known Chicago Medical School, writes March 27, 1930:

"I have been bothered lately with indigestion plus some slight intestinal auto-infection, the sequel of which was flatulence and lack of appetite. These conditions have been almost instantly relieved and upon finishing a series of doses as recommended by the manufacturers entirely removed."

Years of suffering gone in 10 days

Mrs. Anna S. Klinger writes:

"Words cannot express my gratitude. I suffered for many years. I hated to eat because food only turned to a lump in my stomach. Heartburn, gas and sour stomach would follow most meals. My skin was muddy and yellow from chronic constipation. I would get up in the morning feeling 100 years old and simply drag through the day.

"Triner's Bitter Wine gave immediate relief. The first thing it did was regulate my bowels as never before. Then it worked out all pain and distress from my stomach. In two days I was eating anything, even beans. Now I feel like a new woman. I eat better, sleep better, and have wonderful energy all day.

"I tell all my friends and can't thank you enough for this boon to all who suffer."

REPORTER TELLS OF HELPING FOIL 2 BANK ROBBERS

One Killed When Trapped by Police.

Frank Muskrat, Cherokee Indian, reporter for the Ponca City News, was at the scene when officers laid a trap for two bank robbers at Marland Okla., and assisted in thwarting the holdup, in which one of the robbers was killed and the other wounded.

BY FRANK MUSKRAT.

Ponca City, Okla., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Two young bandits who robbed the Marland State bank of $2,000 shortly after it opened for business today were paid off in lead—hot lead from the guns of police officers.

Jimmie Jackson, 24, an Indian, of Pawhuska, Okla., fell dying from the open door of the bandit car, and Carter Camp, 22, also of Pawhuska, sprawled wounded in the street and begged policemen not to kill him.

A tip several days ago resulted in the trap into which the two bandits walked. A. B. Cooper of the state bureau of criminal identification stationed himself in a store adjoining the bank this morning. The rest of the party, including Art Redman, Ponca city chief of police, and myself were across the street in the J. W. Elkins grocery store.

Robbers Enter Bank.

About 9:45 o'clock a brown coupe drove up in front of the bank and two men dressed in white painters' overalls and white jumpers, with handkerchiefs tied over their faces, jumped out. The two ran into the bank.

J. C. Roberts, cashier, and V. N. Ehler, customer, were alone. Whipping out pistols the robbers forced Ehler against the wall. Roberts was compelled to open the safe and drew out $2,000 in two leather bags. The men seized the money and ran to the waiting car.

At this moment the police burst from the store across the street. Calling, "Throw up your hands," they began firing when the men jumped for their car. Slugs from rifles and buckshot from riot guns riddled the car and the two youths rolled to the street.

One of Pair Killed.

Jackson fell face forward. Camp moaned and twisted as policemen ran to him. I covered Jackson with a rifle. But he was not breathing. I turned him over on his back and tore away his mask. He was dead.

Camp was begging officers not to kill him. He was shot four times. He was taken into the bank to await an ambulance.

The bullet riddled car was found to have been stolen from Blackwell Tuesday night.

Elmer Cole, chief of detectives, was responsible for trapping the robbers. He learned of their plans when they discussed them in a Ponca City rooming house several days ago.

Camp said it was his first attempt at major crime. As he was loaded into the ambulance he turned his head to avoid the stares of the crowd gathered about.

"It's not the bullets that hurt, it's the future," he said as he was carried away.

LABORER DIES FROM FALL.

Antonio Serrano, 27 years old, 8801 Buffalo avenue, a laborer, died yesterday of injuries received Saturday when he fell from the roof of a three story building.

COUNTY BOARD'S 1931 BUDGET IS $2,476,000 UNDER 1930 FIGURE

The county board yesterday sent to the finance committee its tentative budget for 1931. The budget shows estimated appropriations for all departments totaling $49,903,761. This is $2,476,468 under the 1930 appropriation. The appropriations, classified by funds, for 1931, as compared to 1930, are as follows:

Fund.	1930.	1931.
Corporate	$28,303,673	$22,278,488
Highway	13,806,921	16,349,668
Bond and interest	10,465,578	9,004,585
Employes' benefit	280,000	280,000
Trusts	64,056	None
Totals	$52,380,229	$49,903,761

Deputy Comptroller Michael J. O'Connor warned that unless there is an improvement in tax collections the estimated revenues in 1931 in the corporate fund alone will be $1,000,000 above the amount actually available.

The county board yesterday sold its $6,500,000 4 per cent working cash bond issue for $6,328,465 to the First Union Trust and Savings bank, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, and the Harris Trust and Savings bank. There were two other bidders. Part of the proceeds will be used to pay back salaries amounting to $190,000.

FILES PRAECIPE OF $50,000 SUIT FOR LOVE BALM

The praecipe of a suit for $50,000 damages was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Lillian Goodwin, 1718 Ainslie street, against Mrs. Almeda Angelica. Mrs. Goodwin's attorney, Barratt O'Hara, said the declaration will charge alienation of affections. Mrs. Goodwin recently filed suit for separate maintenance against her husband, Earl F. Goodwin, an official of an auto sales company at 6035 Broadway. Mrs. Angelica is the wife of Amerigo Angelica, owner of a restaurant at 113 East 25th street. Goodwin, according to his wife's separation bill, has an annual income of $50,000 and owns property worth $500,000.

COUNTY ORDERS ROAD WORK DONE TO PROVIDE JOBS

The Cook county board yesterday took action to speed up street improvement and to prepare plans for the new nurses' home at the county hospital in order to get as much work as possible under way before winter to provide jobs for the unemployed.

The board decided to accept bids on Dec. 2 for the improvement of 7.7 miles of highways and on several culverts and drainage projects, and directed Eric E. Hall, the county architect, to proceed at once with the preparation of plans and specifications for the nurses' home, for which a $2,500,000 bond issue was voted at the election Nov. 4.

The paving projects to be included in the immediate plans of the board are:

Kedzie avenue from Granville to Devon avenue.
Kedzie avenue from 71st to 79th streets.
Roselle road from Higgins road to Golf road.
Crawford avenue from 95th to 127th streets.
State street from 123d to 127th streets.
Seventy-sixth street from Cottage Grove to Dobson.

The $2,500,000 nurses home bond issue will be used to acquire part of the site at Lincoln and Polk streets on which a 17 story dormitory is to be erected. The board's resolution directed the superintendent of public service to survey the ground and start at once the proceedings for acquisition of the property.

The board voted to change the name the Feeder road, which extends from Barrington south to Dundee road, to Hawthorne road.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Emma Dick, 35 years old, 5048 North Menard avenue, yesterday leaped to her death from the fourth floor of the Augustana hospital, where she had been a patient several weeks.

FARMER, 70, KILLS RIVAL WHO WON HIS CHILD BRIDE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The glare of flames early today in a Howard county home revealed a fatal duel between Herman Westphal, 70, known to neighbors as a recluse, and Charles Hubble, 40, who had married a young woman who divorced Westphal.

Hubble, a farm laborer, was found dead with a bullet in his head. Westphal, farmer and caretaker, had a wound in his left side and physicians had little hope for his recovery.

Police said the two men have been enemies for several years. About four years ago, they were told, Westphal was married to a 16 year old girl, Gussie Dressler. They lived together only a short time and then she obtained a divorce and married Hubble.

SMOKE HIDES TRAIN; 2 DIE.

Butler, Ind., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Leroy Smith and Charles Rohrbaugh, middle age farmers, were killed today when their automobile was struck by a train. Smoke from another engine obstructed the view of the tower man and he did not lower the gates.

Chicago Citizens Urge

MAYOR OF CHICAGO

THE People of Chicago are vitally interested in "Chicago's Next Mayor," the public official upon whom the eyes of the world will be directed when Chicago in 1933 will be host to those millions of visitors from home and abroad who will accept Chicago's invitation to visit her and attend "A Century of Progress Exposition."

Every one who has pride in and love for our city will agree that "Chicago's Next Mayor" must be not only a citizen whose record in public and private life qualifies him beyond all question, but equally one who is able to stand these tests:

1—He must be every inch a Chicagoan—fully in accord with its best commercial, industrial and civic interests, and thoroughly acquainted with and alive to its financial and governmental problems.

2—He must know Chicago's People in every walk of life and by reason of personal contact and experience have a complete and sympathetic understanding of their cosmopolitan characteristics, ideals and aspirations. He must be a firm and unwavering believer in Chicago's home and family life. In short, he must be a man of the People.

3—He must know thoroughly our system of government and be adequately experienced with the practical side of politics. Men, although experienced in business, who do not know the "why and how" of public administration, invariably, when elected to office, find themselves unable to give a constructive administration.

Knowing that you, CHARLES V. BARRETT, measure up to these exacting standards and qualifications, that you are one of "Chicago's Native Sons," educated in her schools and in the University of Illinois, that you are experienced as a practicing lawyer and as a counsellor of business organizations for more than a quarter of a century, that you have been a constructive leader of Chicago's political and civic life and thought, that you have for many years given good service as an elected public official, that you have an extraordinary knowledge of the problems of Chicago and of its citizens, that you combine honesty of purpose with a thorough knowledge of the intricacies of public administration, taxation and finance and are exceptionally well equipped physically and mentally to dispose of the many exacting and trying problems which must be effectively settled if Chicago is to go forward in accordance with an awakened commercial, industrial and civic spirit; WE, TOGETHER WITH THOUSANDS MORE OF YOUR FELLOW CITIZENS, URGENTLY REQUEST THAT YOU ANNOUNCE YOUR CANDIDACY FOR MAYOR OF CHICAGO AND BEGIN AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN TO SECURE THE REPUBLICAN MAYORALTY NOMINATION AT THE FORTHCOMING PRIMARY ELECTION.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

OPEN season for loose talk and loose thinking on what is oracularly called The Business Situation is right now in full swing.

The homely fact is, business is neither as bad as the croakers say, nor as good as the hopers would like to believe.

Every hard-bitten realist who today sits closeted with his worries in the Front Office knows that sales are tough to get, but can be had.

Also he knows that general prosperity, like a major football victory, is not to be won solely by the vocal pep of the cheering section.

NO sane man expects boom business in America to return in parade formation all on a given date, like an infantry outfit reporting for duty.

There never has been a time in this or any other country when all businesses were prospering, or all businesses were not.

Right now, there are bright particular stars shining profitably in the commercial twilight—in every line of merchandise that you could name.

Melon-cutting will be generally in order when enough other firms emulate their stalwart example, and compel the record sales they now desire.

IF you want to hasten that day in your case, now is a fine time to supplant the idle question "How's business?" with "Where's business?"

Better than that, take a good, unwishful, morning-after look at your product, your sales plans, yourself.

Is the commodity you make and hope to sell, styled, finished, priced to present needs—if your market knew the facts about it would it sell itself?

Is your selling-energy out full-limit, are your sales and advertising plans extraordinarily gauged to extraordinary resistances—or are you cutting the power just as you are trying to make the hill?

About yourself, and this is more important than you might think: along with experience, imagination, judgment—have you a plenitude of plain old-fashioned Nerve?

If your business yields the right answer to these three simple and elemental questions, bet on America and don't worry about where you are going from here!

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST presumes to venture a word on this subject because it harbors not the slightest doubt about its own direction.

It is marching steadily ahead now as it has for thirty years, to the tune of an additional hundred thousand readers every year, exactly on the course it charted for itself a long, long time ago.

It is continuing to seek out and sift out, by force of its character, interest and authority, the hand-picked core and center of the wealthiest public on earth—that hub three-million-strong which turns the taste, thinking, buying, of the other millions in this land.

It is moving straight ahead more serviceably than ever before into the greatest business era the world has ever seen, and if you are not insensible to opportunity you are cordially invited to come along!

DIN OF FORMER YEARS MISSING AT U. OF C. FETE

Alumni Gathering Is Impressive, Quiet.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

The Chicago Alumni club tendered its annual dinner to the University of Chicago football team last night at the Hotel La Salle. This dinner is held the week of the Illinois game. It usually is a "pep" session to spur the Maroons to valiant deeds and victory over a time honored rival.

The dinner last night was not a "pep" session as that word currently is used. It was a fair reflection of the eleven itself. It was an expression of Maroon spirit more impressive to the 200 alumni present than the noisy celebrations of victorious years. It belied statements that Maroon followers have lost their interest and their loyalty.

Stagg Expresses Sentiment of Night.

Perhaps Coach A. A. Stagg, when called upon to introduce the boys one by one, best expressed the sentiment of the night when he opened his short talk with: "I have no criticism to make of the spirit of this team. I have criticized them individually and I have criticized them collectively. But I have no criticism to make of their spirit. They have given all they had and they have never quit. They have improved in each game, and I think they will show further improvement Saturday, whether or not that improvement brings victory over Illinois."

Unlike many former occasions, there was not a word of complaint from any of the formal or informal speakers. There was no ballyhooing, no oratorical exhortation for the impending fray. But there was the hope the boys would do their duty and that such duty might bring happier results.

To one reading, this might sound like mere hopelessness. It was not that. Those present called it the most impressive meeting of many years, the best exhibition of Maroon team and alumni spirit of many years. Especially was this so of the talks by Coach Stagg and Judge Walter P. Steffen, one time all-American quarter back.

Tells What Boys Accomplish.

Calmly, dispassionately, sometimes with stinging bluntness, sometimes with praise rare from a coach, Stagg, as he called upon each boy to stand as his name was called, told those present just what that boy had accomplished, where he has improved, where his ability had not measured up to standard. Words of rebuke were few. If praise for results accomplished sometimes were lacking, praise for the effort was not. Always there were words of encouragement for what that boy might do in remaining games this year, or in the future if he had other years of eligibility.

It was a new sort of "pep" meeting, hitherto unknown to this writer. One left with a feeling of satisfaction rather than discontent, with a team which has yet to win its first major contest.

Plans for the future as represented by the freshmen squad were told by Jimmy Pyott, freshman coach, a running back on the '23 eleven. This estimate held promise of future varsity material, not a great deal of such material numerically, but a start at least toward the old standards which Midway followers still hope to regain.

Tells of Fieldhouse.

President Frank S. Whiting introduced Toastmaster Roy D. Maddigan, one time "C" man, who presented in turn A. A. Stagg Jr., Nelson H. Norgren, who told of the recently returned baseball team's trip to Japan; Jim Pyott, Col. H. B. Hackett, Judge Walter P. Steffen, and A. A. Stagg.

Lonnie Stagg gave details of the new $700,000 fieldhouse which will provide facilities for virtually all intercollegiate teams. This will free Bartlett gymnasium for the big intramural program which has taxed the older building.

The field house is to be located on the north side of 56th street, extending from University avenue to Greenwood avenue. The building will be 354 feet along 56th street and 165 feet wide along University avenue. The main entrances will be located on the University avenue side, with auxiliary entrances and exits on 56th street, and also will have openings directly on the practice field to the north. The exterior will be of limestone.

Arrange for All Facilities.

Careful study of the fieldhouses of the country has enabled Director A. A. Stagg to devise an arrangement of the Chicago building which combines all facilities with a minimum of interference. The most novel contribution of the interior arrangement is that of placing the basketball court near the east end of the building, running across the arena instead of lengthwise. The east section of the fieldhouse will hold 2,500 permanent chairs in a balcony and gallery along one side of the basketball court.

Temporary bleachers erected below the balcony and other removable bleachers on the west side of the court and at the ends will provide a total seating capacity of 7,000.

The arena will be 160 feet wide and 300 feet long, with a dirt floor. The height from the dirt floor to the trusses at the center line will be 50 feet. Even with the basketball court in place, there will be plenty of room for football practice.

AND BOY! SEE WHAT I HAVE HERE— I CUT THIS RING OPEN— AND INSIDE I FIND WHAT? A MAGNET—
AH! HERE I HAVE IT — THIS PIECE OF STEEL WAS LAID ACROSS THESE TWO WOODEN PEGS—
GENTLEMEN — THIS EXPLAINS IT ALL — THE CARPENTER WAS A CONFEDERATE — HE PUT THE MAGNET IN THE RING — AND THOSE TWO WOODEN PEGS IN THE WINDOW SILL — AND PUT THE STRING IN PLACE SO THAT WHEN BIM PULLED DOWN THE SHADE — THE MAGNET MADE CONTACT WITH THE STEEL — NOW — WHEN I LET GO OF THE SHADE — WATCH!
SEE — THERE'S THE ANSWER — UP GOES THE SHADE WITH THE PIECE OF STEEL AND THE STRING ATTACHED — CARLOS CLIMBED THE TREE OUTSIDE THE WINDOW — LET HIMSELF DOWN ON A ROPE — REACHED THROUGH THE OPENING AT THE TOP — GAVE THE SHADE A TUG — PULLED UP THE STRING — THEN THE ROPE — AND THEN THE SAFE — AND OUT THE WINDOW WENT THE GREAT MOGUL DIAMOND—

Lineman Likely to be Most Valuable Purdue Player

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—While selection of the most valuable player on the Purdue eleven will be difficult because team play rather than individual efforts of any one star has brought victory, it is likely that the honor will go to a lineman.

GEO. VAN BIBBER.

GEORGE STEARS.

Three veteran forwards, George Van Bibber, tackle; Lewis Miller, center, and George Stears, guard, are considered by players as key men of the eleven. However, Jack White, quarter back, who has been directing the eleven for the last two seasons, comes in for his share of consideration.

Van Bibber Fast, Heavy.

Van Bibber, a 200 pounder from Terre Haute, was considered last season as the equal of "Red" Sleight, his all-American tackle mate, and this season, his final year of competition, he has been playing up to expectations. Van is fast for a big man, and frequently gets down the field to tackle a punt receiver in his tracks. He is a fast charger and often manages to down ball carriers before they get started. And many is the yardage that has been gained behind his broad shoulders.

Lewis Miller, who hails from Marion, weighs 195 pounds and is an analyzer of plays. He seldom is outmaneuvered and his speed enables him to fit in on forward pass defense. He is a steady passer and delights in a tough fight. He is a junior.

Stears a Chicago Boy.

Stears is from Chicago and has been a fixture at left guard for three years. Never a flashy type, he seldom gets mention in reports of games, but he invariably is in the center of plays. He is another 200 pounder.

White, a junior from Louisville, Ky., is conceded to be the directing genius and spark of the Purdue offensive. White is a strategist who can pick the weak points in the opposition and the weak points in his own system for the day. Sturdily built, White is a hard blocker and on the defensive he is a sure tackler and a conservative handler of punts who appreciates the value of possession of the ball.

(This is the first of a series discussing Big Ten players who are likely to be named most valuable to their teams.)

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER.

TIME nears when players of Big Ten elevens will choose the player who has been of greatest value to his team during the season. From these ten players the board of award will pick the 1930 winner to receive the silver football presented annually.

Football followers naturally will await with unusual interest the choices of the players themselves. It is the first time they have had such opportunity. Chaps on those battling elevens know what is going on down there during the tense moments—who is earning credit and who is making mistakes. The onlookers, including those in the press stand, often fail to discern all that is taking place in effort and strategy.

These votes also will appraise the relative value of individual performance. For instance, is Pug Rentner, Northwestern's star passer, more valuable than Frank Baker or Larry Oliphant or Lee Hanley or other receivers of those passes? Or is the generalship of Hank Bruder or Red Woodworth or Hanley more valuable than the passing? Or is it Reb Russell's plunging, or Riley's and Marvil's openings, or something else that has contributed most to Purple success?

Then up at Ann Arbor is a young sophomore, Harry Newman, superlative forward passer. It is unusual for a sophomore to be given top honors—it seldom happens in elections for captain. Will it be Newman or Morrison who backs the line so effectively, or perhaps Hudson, receiver of the pass which beat Harvard?

Is the punting of Munn of Minnesota and his defensive power greater than that of any other back? Is Gantenbein at Wisconsin or a lineman or a back more valuable? Then look at Purdue with that array of backs and those good forwards. Which is most valuable? Surely, the verdict of the boys themselves will be most interesting, whether or not we spectators elect to retain our previously formed opinions.

TUNNEY'S HIGHER IDEALS MAY LEAD TO HIS MEMOIRS

Mighty with Fists—What About His Pen?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Now that Gene Tunney has been technically absolved of ingratitude to his old counselor and friend, Tim Mara, the bookmaker, it would be interesting to know what Mr. Tunney intends to do with himself in the remaining years of his effective life.

He is rich by his own earnings, if a millionaire prizefighter's fortune can be said to have been earned, and richer yet by implication, having married an heiress to even greater wealth than his own. But he is a young man who pines for distinction, and the only distinction that he ever achieved was won in a business which he, himself, despised.

Therefore, so ambitious a man can hardly be satisfied with having won the heavyweight championship, and I hope I am not intruding too deeply into the private affairs of a suburban gentleman when I suggest that he must go on and achieve something else, preferably some work of the mind, lest he find himself no congenial person for Gene Tunney to live with.

Repeats Reason for Quitting.

Once, lately, I met Mr. Tunney on a train bound for Grand Central, and upon arrival there we stood in the great main lobby talking of various matters, most of which he did not wish to be quoted upon. Aside from these things, he indicated that he was interested in the effects that athletes suffer from knocks on the head, and he reiterated on his word of honor that he first made up his mind to quit fighting when Frank Muske, a clumsy and utterly hopeless preliminary boy, who was sparring with him for so much a day at Speculator in preparation for the second fight with Dempsey, butted him on the head.

For some time after that, so he reaffirmed, the Tunney intellect was so badly befogged that he could not sleep for fear that he, too, would come down with that strange ataxia, which the profession, in its brutal humor, describes as fighter's dance, and maybe loss his mind. I told him that Dr. Tommy Richards, the chief of eight physicians who attend the Harvard varsity and other football teams in season, was interested in such research, and Mr. Tunney allowed that he would like to meet him and, presumably, sit still and listen.

Seems to Be Up to Something.

But to amount to anything in the field of this interest he would first have to go through some college, then attend some medical school and serve in a hospital and even than he would be only a preliminary boy in a game whose championships are won by no intervention from any Tim Maras or Boo Boo Hoffs. And Tunney grows no younger.

Mr. Tunney does seem to be doing something with his time, for he has office room in the Graybar building in the premises of a firm conducted by one of his old friends. He describes his activities there in a vague, general manner, with some mention of the correspondence which he has to answer as an obligation continuing over from his prize fighting career. But no prize fighter so long retired as he has been receives enough important mail to occupy his time and his mind, so it is hard to dismiss the idea that he is trying to do something or preparing to try to do something which will distinguish him anew and in some more satisfying way.

Composing His Memoirs?

Perhaps he is composing his memoirs. He always has been rather flirtatious with book writers and, although he has often disclaimed any ambition to become an author, this trait still suggests that he would be more pleased to write a creditable book, even an autobiography, without the assistance of a ghost, than to become chairman of the board of some business firm.

Now, a book from him, even though the humor were as ponderous as the

Pop Warner Devises Shift, Gives Football a Real Shock

BY WILFRID SMITH.

News dispatches yesterday reported that Pop Warner, football coach at Stanford university, has adopted a shift to change his system of attack from what is known as the "C" formation into his old "A" formation. Warner probably would be the first to deny that he had designed a "shift," for the word is a red flag, more or less, to the veteran.

POP WARNER.

Technically, perhaps, Warner has adopted a shift or a change in the position of his players just prior to the snapping of the ball by the center. However, for the last decade the word shift has been associated almost exclusively with Notre Dame football. The limitations of moving players from one formation to another which culminated this year in the rule that shifting players must stop "for at least a second" were aimed primarily at Rockne's style of attack. Not by name, of course, but it has been so accepted in the public mind.

Rockne Crusades for Shift.

And, moreover, it has been interpreted by Knute Rockne as a limitation on Notre Dame football. Hence Rockne's campaign, through his writings and lectures, to keep the shift as an integral part of football. Rockne has said he believes the rule makers plan eventually to eliminate all forms of shifts.

When the shifting players did not lose momentum they had an advantage over the defense. Ten years ago Notre Dame players practically had a running start. This impetus permitted gains not to be accomplished from a standing start. But the penalty for a back in forward motion, thus creating an advantage for a thrust into the line, was in the rules long before the exigencies of the shift created the current disputes.

Teams using a huddle and then taking their positions preparatory to play are shifting. However, most huddles involve a delay of several seconds in changing positions. Bob Zuppke at Illinois is the only Big Ten coach who rushes his men from the huddle to the line in an effort to run off the play before the possibilities of the formation are diagnosed by the defense.

Pat Page, Indiana university coach, uses a shift of two linemen and four backs. It may be compared with the tackles back which Stagg used at Chicago or the Minnesota shift, when Dr. Williams devised the Gophers' strategy.

Teams Avoid Penalties.

The coaches are observing the one second halt on the shift this year. Notre Dame has not been penalized

Billy Burke Wins Eleventh Mid-South Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Billy Burke of Roundhill Country club, Greenwich, Conn., stroked his way through the rain today to win the eleventh annual mid-south golf tournament and $400 prize money.

Showers that fell almost all day slowed up the field and scores ran high, but Burke's 74 in the morning and par 71 in the afternoon gave him a total of 145 that was two strokes better than his nearest competitor.

Gene Sarazen, former national open champion, quit in disgust on the ninth hole when his clubs played him false in the wet weather.

Three Tie for Second.

Emmet French, Youngstown, O.; Tommy Armour, Detroit, Mich., and Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., divided second, third, and fourth prize money of $200, $150, and $100. Each turned in 73 and 74 for 147.

The winner was in doubt until the last player was in. That player was Armour, who battled his way homeward through a steady rain, across heavy greens in the fading light of the evening.

Armour had 73 for the morning round and went out in the afternoon in 37. Burke was already in and Armour needed a par 35 on the home nine to tie him. He had too much to contend with in the semi-darkness, however, and took three putts on the twelfth to go one over par after a birdie 3 on the 11th.

Won Three Years Ago.

The same thing happened on the 14th and 18th to blast the championship hopes of the former national and Canadian open titleholder.

Burke won the mid-south three years ago.

Rumored Hanley or Zuppke Will Be California Coach

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Unconfirmed but persistent reports today said two coaches of the Big Ten conference—Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Bob Zuppke of Illinois—had been approached or would be approached to take over the berth as head football coach of the University of California.

Campus gossip said Coach C. H. [Nibs] Price would be replaced at the end of this season. The consensus was that the executive committee of the associated students would discuss hiring a new coach.

The impending action was prompted by an editorial written and published in the Daily California, student publication, by Arthur Arlett, editor.

Arlett's article demanded an investigation of the athletic situation at California, including the football coaching department. It followed California's 74 to 0 defeat last Saturday by Southern California.

"NO OFFER," HANLEY SAYS.

Coach Dick Hanley of the Northwestern university football team last night said that he had not received an offer to coach at the University of California. Hanley has no signed contract with Northwestern, but has been coaching under a verbal agreement with the university athletic authorities.

ALL NEWS TO ZUPPKE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Informed tonight of the rumor that he was being considered as head football coach at the University of California, Coach Robert Zuppke of the University of Illinois said he knew nothing about the matter. He refused to make further comment.

Suffolk, Va., Nov. 12. — (AP) — For three days the Virginia Fox Hunters association has held its annual trials here. It has been a great meet, all have agreed, and everything has gone along fine except that not a fox has been seen yet.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The cycling last night in the six day bike race at the Chicago Stadium was dedicated to the well known "youth must be served" idea. And when 11 o'clock rolled around Alfred Letourner, 23 years old, and Marcel Guimbretiere, 20 years old, the French Red Devil team, were in the lead again after an absence of two days and nights. At 10 o'clock they had been in fifth place, from which you may deduce that there was a lot of wicked riding to get them at the top of the heap.

The jamming, which saw the two Frenchmen resume the lead, was ended by the worst spill of the race when Letourner went down in a mean tangle with the popular young German rider, Franz Deulberg. Letourner was not injured, but Franz was knocked unconscious, forcing the race to be suspended for an hour while physicians and trainers worked over the injured rider. Then Deulberg returned to the race.

Take Lead from Belgians.

When the Red Devils took over the lead they grabbed it from the Roger De Nef-Adolf Chariler combination, the two young Belgians who came unheralded to ride in their first American race. While they were in front for fifty minutes, beginning at 10:15, they presented the unusual circumstance of leading all riders both in the matter of mileage and points.

Usually the contenders conserve their strength during the sprints prior to Saturday night, but the two Belgians have altere dthis custom, so they had 136 points following the 10 o'clock sprints, 99 more than the Frenchmen who succeeded them in mileage lead.

The fourth night of the race was viewed by about 7,000 persons, the smallest gathering of the race, and about half the number that witnessed the spectacle Tuesday night. The drop off was expected, it was said, because it was the first night of an increased scale of prices.

Customers Will Be Back.

It is said that the milder bike race addicts always become indignant at the increased admission scale on Wednesday night, go home and get some sleep, but get back on the job Thursday night.

The crash which knocked out Deulberg occurred on the east turn when the riders were jamming at a high rate of speed. According to Letourner's explanation Hill, in attempting to avoid a spill, put his hand on Letourner's shoulder, a common maneuver among the riders. This caused the Frenchman to swerve into Deulberg, who with his partner, Walthour, had just completed the theft of a lap. Letourner plunged down the bank with Deulberg on top, but Deulberg was injured when his head banged against the flat of the track. The German was unconscious for 30 minutes, but revived, and 30 minutes later was back on his bike.

As Franz slowly rounded the track with Walthour giving a supporting embrace, the crowd gave them a tremendous hand. When the boys in the blue jerseys resumed they were in ninth place, but only three laps behind the mileage leaders.

How Leaders Changed.

The night's fluctuation table is as follows:

At 7 o'clock Georgetti and Bro-

BADGERS RATED STRONGEST FOE MET THUS FAR

Homecoming Events Planned.

A football team which has been called one of the best in Northwestern's history will get a chance to prove its greatness next Saturday when Wisconsin comes down to do battle in Dyche stadium.

Week after week through the season thus far, the Wildcats have been mowing down all opposition. Injuries, vaccinations, and the breaks of the game have failed to stop them. When stars were lost, new stars rose to carry on. And now Northwestern approaches the climax of its schedule, still undefeated, with its two most formidable foes—Wisconsin and Notre Dame—blocking the path to a perfect record and a Big Ten title.

Wisconsin Real Threat.

The spirit of "Let us at Notre Dame," has been alive on the practice field, but that spirit has been put under restraint temporarily because preparation for Wisconsin has been demanding all the attention of the squad this week.

Wisconsin's only defeat was at the hands of Purdue, which is generally considered one of the most powerful teams of this section, and the margin of victory in that case was only a point after touchdown.

If the Wildcats win on Saturday they will be sure of at least a tie with Michigan for the Big Ten title, and Michigan's share hinges on its success against Minnesota and Chicago.

Freshmen Stop Varsity.

There is little overconfidence afloat in the Wildcat camp and if any appreciable quantity existed, it would have been dissipated yesterday when an aggressive freshman team knocked the varsity back on its heels in a long scrimmage.

The student body is going about preparing for the two day homecoming celebration. Old grads in unprecedented numbers will return to the campus to see what is regarded as the outstanding eleven in Northwestern's history.

The students will open the festivities with a hobo parade tomorrow noon. The procession will terminate at the gym, where a luncheon will be served and prizes awarded for the best costumes.

In the evening the annual parade of fraternity and sorority floats will traverse the streets of Evanston. A pep session is slated for tomorrow night at the gym.

BADGER DEFENSE IMPROVES

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's varsity football squad went through another drill today in forward pass defense and showed considerable improvement over the ragged work of the last two days.

The freshmen completed a few passes by getting behind the varsity backs and also a good many short tosses over the line but in the main the first string back field which including Lusby, Schneller, McGuire and Goldberg, looked much better. Lubratovich and Smith, tackles, gave substantial aid in rushing the passers.

Oman, Behr and Rebholz who were relegated to the second team with Wimmer playing quarter, showed up even better, beating down most of the frosh teams.

Mayor Walker Fights Repeal of Boxing Law

New York, Nov. 12.—[Special.]—The determined drive to repeal the New York boxing law, given new impetus by the smoking room revelations of the Tunney-Mara suit, must reckon with the opposition of Mayor Walker, the man who sponsored the legislation.

The mayor said today that he still believed in boxing as a wholesome sport and that he would fight to keep it legalized in this state. If necessary, he will be willing to go before the legislature this winter.

Child of Mayor's Brain.

"I naturally have spirited feelings about the boxing law," he said. "After all, it is my own child. I have an affection for it and I will do some scrapping to prevent repeal."

The story of the championship racket, the chronicle of political swapping and jockeying that came out of Billy Gibson's letter to Gene Tunney, does not move the mayor. In the first place he believes that the best of possible answers to charges of fixing is the fact that the Tunney-Dempsey fight was not staged here despite the fact that political strings were pulled.

Public Gets Square Deal.

The mayor, of course, is realistic about boxing. He admits that there have been fake fights, but he thinks the public usually gets a square deal and its money's worth. Furthermore, he believes that New York's three boxing commissioners—James A. Farley, William Muldoon, and Brig. Gen. Phelan—are highly trustworthy and, because of their integrity, a guarantee of honesty in the game.

YOUNG BOXERS IN COLISEUM SHOW GET K. O. FEVER

Clinchers to Be Scarce, Mullen Promises.

An array of young and ambitious mockers who scorn clinching and back pedaling in favor of seeking quick knockouts. That's the way Matchmaker Jim Mullen describes the 44 round boxing card that will be held at the Coliseum tomorrow night, and while Jim isn't exactly unprejudiced, he has facts to back up his claims.

Mullen's campaign against the clutchers and grabbers will be carried on by a number of aspiring youngsters tomorrow, including three boxers new to Chicago rings.

Half Back vs. Tailor.

Tony Cancela, who formerly was a half back with the Tampa, Fla., High school football team, will take on Jack Barry in one of the six round light heavyweight battles. Barry is a tailor by trade, which may account for his eagerness to sew up the decision.

The windup, also at six rounds, will bring together Charlie Retsiaff and Antonia Mata. Retsiaff has a record of more than 35 knockouts. He put Andy Shanks to sleep in the last Coliseum show. Mata is a Spaniard, who scored a victory in New York in his only previous appearance in this country.

Shanks Fights Madey.

Shanks will attempt a comeback against Walter Madey in six rounds, and if successful will seek a return bout with Retsiaff.

Nando Tassi of Italy, another newcomer, will meet Paul Pantaleo of the south side. Other six rounders are Edgar Norman vs. Harry Dillon and Ted Ross against Joe Miller. Karl Ogren fights Johnny Baima in a four round bout, and Marion Matuszak will oppose Knute Dane over the same route.

cardo, and Letourner and Guimbretiere were tied for the lead.

At 8 o'clock Georgetti and Brocardo and Letourner and Guimbretiere still were in a tie for the lead, but were being pressed by De Nef and Charlier.

At 9 o'clock Georgetti and Brocardo were out in front, De Nef and Charlier were second, Debaets and Belloni were in third place, and the Letourner-Guimbretiere combination had dropped to fourth.

Three Tied at 10 o'Clock.

At 10 o'clock De Nef and Charlier, Debaets and Belloni, and Georgetti and Brocardo were tied for first.

At 10:15 De Nef and Charlier were leading.

At 10:45 Letourner and Guimbretiere were leading.

The race was suspended for an hour beginning at 10:47 and when it was resumed the riders apparently were inclined to give the injured Deulberg a break, for there was no severe jamming for a half hour after the race resumed.

The following are the results of the 9:30 o'clock sprints:

1. Hordor, Linari, De Nef, Buschenhagen.
2. De Nef, McNamara, Letourner, Walker.
3. Horan, Walker, Kockler, Spencer.

LOUGHRAN SIGNS TO BOX LEVINSKY HERE ON NOV. 21

Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia has been matched with King Levinsky in the windup of the Chicago Stadium's next boxing show, Nov. 21, Matchmaker Nate Lewis announced yesterday. Signing of Loughran followed Jimmy Slattery's refusal to meet Levinsky in a rematch on that date. Slattery said he was badly cut around the mouth and that he had taken cold here after the fight in which Levinsky was awarded the decision last week. His present condition and the shortness of the time before the fight would prevent him from conditioning properly for such an important fight, he said, in turning down the match. He asked, however, that he be given an opportunity to box the winner of the Loughran-Levinsky fight here in December.

Loughran, who retired undefeated as the light heavyweight champion to box as a heavyweight, has been in the midst of a winning streak, which carried him to one sided decisions over Dick Daniels and Dave Maier in his last two bouts.

Loughran's last start was against Maier in Milwaukee. Levinsky stopped Maier with one punch in the first round two weeks before he met Leo Lomski.

JOCKEY JAMES TERMINATES HIS KENTUCKY RIDING

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Jockey Eugene James, whose contract was purchased by Joe Leiter of Chicago this week for a reported price of $25,000, will not ride again in Kentucky, this year.

He cancelled his riding engagements here this afternoon and departed for his home in Louisville for a short vacation before reporting to the Leiter stable in New Orleans on Nov. 22.

Outsiders Win 2 of 3 Pimlico Graded Races

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—The graded handicaps, classes A, B, and C, were the features here today and surprises occurred in two divisions when Marshall Field's Escutcheon won in class A and G. L. Stryker's Azzis came home first in class C. Hatbroom, carrying the silks of C. V. Whitney, and the favorite, was the winner of class B.

Escutcheon's Triumph.

Escutcheon's triumph was by the narrowest of margins, a nose, and she paid the generous odds of $31.60 for a $2 mutual ticket. It was the most noteworthy victory for the daughter of Sir Gallahad III and Affection since the Alabama at Saratoga last August.

Escutcheon Lasts to Win.

Escutcheon just lasted to win as Raccoon, another long shot, came charging up from behind in the closing stages to almost catch the winner. Grey Coat was third, a length back of Racoon and a half length before Buddy Bauer, 7 to 10 favorite.

Buddy Bauer seemed ideally suited to the distance of a mile and seventy yards but his downfall was accomplished by the powerful running of Escutcheon. He was ridden by Willie Cannon, the lad who rode Inception to his surprising victory in the Bowie on Tuesday, and Cannon got off as smartly with Buddy Bauer as he had with Inception. There the similarity ended, for Buddy Bauer was closely engaged by Escutcheon which was piloted by Apprentice Long.

Equal for Six Furlongs.

For six furlongs these two waged a head and head battle and it was the filly which raced the colt into defeat. When Buddy Bauer was headed by Escutcheon he dropped back slowly and Mr. Field's horse shot into a lead of a length or more. It looked as if she would coast home an easy winner, but Raccoon came from back of Buddy Bauer and rushed up so fast that Long had to do everything at his command to keep his mount going. The time was 1:43 2-5.

MICHIGAN TITLE HOPE STAKED ON MINNESOTA GAME

Gophers Considered Last Threat to Wolverines.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—The Michigan football team and student body are looking toward the season's climax next Saturday, when Minnesota comes here for the game which will go a long way toward deciding whether the Wolverines will retain the Big Ten championship.

Simultaneously Northwestern, still with a clean slate, will be meeting its last conference opponent, Wisconsin. Should both Michigan and Northwestern win, the Wolverines should be able to coast through their final game with Chicago and thereby hold joint sway over the Big Ten.

Guard Against Upset.

The student body, the team, and the coaches all believe that the big test will come this week, because the Gophers have something of a reputation for upsets. They shattered one championship dream several seasons ago by a surprise victory over an apparently much stronger Wisconsin team.

Minnesota's record this year has served Michigan to look for the unexpected. After being crushed by Vanderbilt in the first game, the Gophers came back to hold Stanford to a tie, beat Indiana, and make a creditable showing against Northwestern.

The game between these two schools has become traditional, with the Little Brown Jug the trophy for the victor. This jug at present is held by Michigan.

Wolverines Polish Plays.

Perfection of running plays and a long passing drill in which Harry Newman and all of the ends of the first squad figured, occupied much of the time this afternoon. Then Coach Kipke sent the regulars through a dummy defensive scrimmage against the freshman team, which used Minnesota plays.

De Baker worked at Wheeler's half this afternoon, but the latter is expected to be in the game Saturday. Bomar is certain to start at left end, and Auer appears to be the first choice at left tackle. All other positions will be occupied by the same men as filled them in the Harvard battle.

Goldsmith, second string full back, will probably do Michigan's kicking Saturday. The big Virginian has been belting them over the goal line regularly.

OTHER BACKS CHOSEN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Bill Crisler today decided on his starting back field against Michigan Saturday after experimenting with numerous ground gainers since practice started. He probably will use Pug Wee MacDougal, Brockmeyer, Swartz, and Manders as the regular quartet with Riebeth, Walter Hass, Bomar, and Swartz as alternates. Bomar will be making his first start of the year as a regular.

Wide defensive work was stressed this afternoon, the varsity devoted some time to new plays. Krezowski, Bolstad, and Appman were kept out of scrimmage.

INJURED HAWKEYES RETURN.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Augmented by the return of six regulars to the line, the Hawkeye varsity was again in command of the scrimmage against Penn State plays as demonstrated by a freshman team today.

Coach Burt Ingwersen used the first string players in the forward wall for the first time since the Marquette game last Saturday, from which the Iowa team emerged badly shaken.

Lee and Lloyd Jensvold continued to remain out of active practice today, although they appeared at the drill in uniform. It is still doubtful whether either of the twins will be able to start in the homecoming battle next Saturday.

KIZER PREPARES RESERVES.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad today began intensive preparation for the Dad's day game with Butler here Saturday. While Coach Kizer intends to use his regulars to a great extent Saturday, he already has an eye peeled toward the final conference tilt with Indiana and the greater portion of the afternoon was devoted to grooming a reserve combination in the hope that it may carry the burden of the battle against Butler.

Hope that Ed Risk, leading ground gaining half back of the Boilermaker combination may be able to take the field against Indiana was buoyed this afternoon when he appeared on the side lines in civilian clothes supported by a cane.

Report of New Warner Shift Hard to Credit

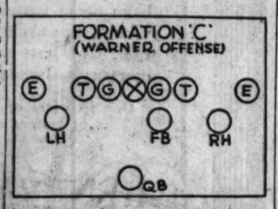
under this rule [the penalty is loss of 15 yards] in six games. Indiana was not penalized last Saturday, and Illinois also has a perfect record for the season.

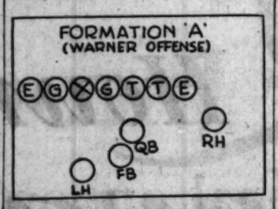
Of course, we don't know from this distance just how Warner will shift his men from his "C" formation to the "A" formation. Following is the "C" formation, the latest devised by Warner:



The line is balanced with the ends playing out from the tackles about three yards each. The half backs are stationed back of these spaces, with the full back, or plunging back, in position to receive a pass from center. The quarter back, or passer and runner, is back about six yards. In reality the ends are the flanking or wing backs for runs, and also are in better position to sprint into the open for passes.

Here's "A" Formation.

Warner's "A" formation, which he used while coaching the Carlisle Indians, follows:



This is a single wing formation with an unbalanced line. It is diagrammed here to the right, but, of course, is used also to the left, with the left half back as the wing back. The formation has strength for an off tackle play, a plunge by the full back, or a pass. The positions resemble the formation to which Notre Dame shifts [to the right] except that Notre Dame uses a balanced line.

If Warner has adopted a shift from one to the other of these formations he undoubtedly will do so to catch the defense out of position or in motion laterally as an aid to his plays. And that is the essence of any shift.

Steffen Expects Charity Game to Be Hard Fought

Two evenly matched football teams, both playing an open game, will be seen in action when West Virginia university and Oregon State college clash at Soldiers' field on Thanksgiving day, Judge Walter Steffen, coach of Carnegie Tech and chairman of the games committee, said last night.

These two teams, together with former Notre Dame and Northwestern players, will meet at Soldiers' field at 10 a. m. Thanksgiving day for the benefit of the Chicago unit, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children. The games will be played under the management of the board of governors of the hospital.

"West Virginia has a young, fast, spectacular team," Judge Steffen said. "I saw them play Pittsburgh. All they needed was more play. Seven of the regulars are sophomores. It's a green team, but they are fast, aggressive, and smart football players."

"Oregon State has a veteran team —five seniors, five juniors, and one sophomore. They have come along slowly, losing to Southern California and Stanford, but last Saturday they held Washington State, champions of the coast, to a 14 to 7 score. And Washington State trimmed Southern California and California handily.

"Then the game between the former stars of Notre Dame and of Northwestern will bring some of the biggest stars of the last decade into action. Two such games on one day should give the football fans plenty of thrills."

DRAKE GAME IS LAST AT HOME FOR 15 OF IRISH

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Fifteen Notre Dame varsity squad members will play their last home game for the Blue and Gold Saturday against Drake in the new Notre Dame stadium.

Back field losses will be heaviest, with eight men lost to next year's team. All three right half backs, Brill, O'Connor, and Kaplan; and three full backs, Mullins, Savoldi, and Howard, finish next June as will Cadideo, quarter back, and Bernie Leahy, left half.

In the line, Metzger and Kassis, guards; Frank Leahy, Donoghue, and McManmon, tackles; and Vik, Conley, and O'Brien, ends, will be graduated.

This afternoon the second and third teams scrimmaged against the freshmen on defense against Drake plays. The varsity will not scrimmage this week and spent most of today's drill polishing its attack. Bernie Leahy remained at left half with the shock troops and Mike Koken stayed with the third string.

Two weaknesses in the varsity were worked on today. There was a drill on defense against passes, especially the long type expected from Drake and Northwestern, and practice on covering kickoffs and punts.

Maroons Turn Attention to Illini Passes

Satisfied that the Maroon flanker formation is shipshape for the Illinois game Saturday, Coach Stagg began defensive preparations for Zuppke's passes and end runs last night.

A long drill against frosh interpretations of the downstaters' formations showed decided improvement in the Maroon defense. Most of the pass plays were broken up and the end runs fared but little better. Cowley and Wien, the two best wingmen, will both be in shape for Saturday's game.

An even battle is generally predicted and student opinion is that Chicago will click for the first time on its diversified pass attack. The Maroon running attack hit a snag, however, when the doctors said that the speedy Bob Wallace may not see action because of a leg infection. Chicago had hoped to get him away for some end runs and off tackle romps after the Illini had tired. Buzzell, who made his debut against Purdue in a sensational manner, is counted on for some yardage, and both Knudson and Temple are expected to hit the line for better results than heretofore.

ZUPPKE SHIFTS LINEUP

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Realizing that the 1930 season will be Coach Zuppke's poorest unless the Illini beat Chicago and Ohio State, the Illinois squad went through its final scrimmage against the freshmen today, in preparation for the Chicago game at the Midway Saturday.

The varsity had difficulty making any headway through the heavy freshmen line. With Tom Wilson and Capt. Robinson still on the injured list, Coach Zuppke put Casion Bennett, former reserve end, and Art Schultz on the first team.

The first team was composed of Bennett and Swanson, ends; Hills and Stan Bodman, tackle; Jensen and Ovelmen, guards; Huddlestun, center; Munich, quarter back; Berry and Yanuskus, half backs; and Schultz, full back. It is expected that 3,000 students will make the trip to Chicago for the game Saturday.

"BEAT PACKERS," IS THEME SONG IN CARDINALS' CAMP

"Beat the Packers" is the theme song in the Cardinals camp this week. They will meet the Green Bay team at Comiskey park Sunday. Every member of the Chicago team is in good condition for the game, and Coach Ernie Nevers is taking advantage of this factor to send the eleven through some strenuous drills.

Green Bay comes here unbeaten this season. Last Sunday they beat the Bears, 13 to 12, and hope to make it two straight over Chicago teams by beating the Cardinals.

U. of Illinois Catches Spirit of "Build Now, Help Idle"

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Because it will provide employment at a time when it is badly needed, the University of Illinois Athletic association is speeding preliminary work on two projects which will represent an expenditure of nearly $400,000, to be paid out of past and future football profits.

The chief undertaking is the construction of an artificial ice skating rink for the recreation of all students, which will cost approximately $325,000. The other project is the construction of a $40,000 golf course.

Both the rink and golf course have been under consideration for some time, but the unemployment situation was one of the chief reasons for the decision to proceed at this time. This expenditure will use up all funds the association has saved, all net profit from athletics for the present school year, and most of the football profit anticipated for the season of 1931.

Rush Work on Plans.

Ever since the board of trustees of the university on Oct. 24 approved the request of the athletic association to be permitted to go ahead with these undertakings, work on plans and specifications for the rink has been rushed, and it is expected that they will soon be submitted to contractors, so that construction can begin early in the spring.

"The feeling of the directors of the association when we asked the trustees in October for permission to proceed was in line with the sentiment expressed in a CHICAGO TRIBUNE editorial that the best philanthropy is that which provides work, not alms, for those who need it," George Huff, director of physical welfare, said.

"The rink had been under contemplation for some time, but our desire has been to play on the safe side and not commit ourselves to large financial burdens until we had all the money. However, there seemed to be an opportunity for the athletic association to contribute something to relieve the crisis in unemployment, and I am glad we are going ahead.

Hockey Popular Recreation.

"Our investigation showed the great popularity of ice rinks at Michigan, Minnesota, and other institutions, and we believe it will become the most popular recreation here.

"There are more than 11,000 students and 1,400 members of th faculty, so that it is necessary to build a large structure. It is expected that 1,000 will be able to use the rink at one time."

From Nov. 1 to April 1 it is expected the rink will be busy every hour of the day. Ice skating will be added to the optional sports in which students may register in required physical education, and there will be general recreational skating.

Intramural ice hockey teams also will be encouraged, but no immediate plans for varsity hockey teams are considered. If intercollegiate hockey eventually is introduced, Director Huff said that it will not be permitted to interfere with the general use of the building.

Building to Serve Other Purposes.

The building will be adapted for use for other purposes in the off season for which plans are under consideration. It will be constructed at 5th street and Armory avenue in Champaign, where $40,000 out of past football profits was spent for ground to be added to university land used for tennis courts.

In the design Holabird & Root of Chicago, the architects, have made use of a modified Georgian style of architecture in harmony with other building. The main building inclosing the rink will have a frontage of 208 feet on 5th street and 141 feet on Armory avenue, while to the west of this block there will be attached a service wing, 55 by 108.

The main arena will be faced with brick on the inside and spanned by steel trusses at a clear height to the bottom of 35 feet.

A gallery will seat 1,200 persons. By means of removable wood barriers a standard hockey court, 85 by 183, can be formed. This removable barrier can be arranged to form three individual practice courts, each 65 by 125.

The skating rink floor will be of monolithic concrete ground to smooth surface in which will be embedded some 80,000 lineal feet of piping used in freezing the ice above.

FOUR HORSEMEN WILL PLAY GIANTS IN CHARITY GAME

New York, Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker announced today, after a conference with New York sports writers, that three football games have been tentatively scheduled here in post-season play for charity.

New York university will meet Colgate at the Yankee stadium here Dec. 6, and the Brooklyn High school championship battle will be held the same day at Ebbets field.

A week later a team of former Notre Dame players, with the famous "four horsemen" in the back field, will play Tim Mara's New York Giants, professional team. The definite location of the contest has not been fixed.

Stadium to Be Open to Skaters Mondays of Winter

The Chicago Stadium will be turned over to public skating on Monday afternoons and evening throughout the winter, with a special program of amateur events each night, Ed Mahlke, Stadium skating manager, announced yesterday. The public will be allowed to skate on the rink used by the Shamrocks and Blackhawks for their league hockey games.

Dog and Luck Bring Home a Live Pheasant

BY BOB BECKER.

Take one retriever, add a little luck, and mix well in typical pheasant cover that has been shot over and you have a good chance to pick up a bird or two without firing a shell. An incident of a three hour bird hunt yesterday not far from Mundelein demonstrated this fact very neatly. Jack, our springer, now recovered from his stunt of hurdling through a window, used his nose to get a cock pheasant without the usual bombardment that precedes a retrieve.

Four of us were plowing through the fog and watersoaked vegetation along a hedge of willows, when the dog put on his stunt. On our right, slowly trudging through the tall weeds, was Frank Hoffman. On the other side of the 15 foot willows were Dr. Clifford P. McCullough and Malcolm Vail.

Hen Pheasant Flushes.

As soon as we stepped into the pheasant cover close to the trees a hen pheasant flushed with a roar, but only after the heel of one of our watersoaked boots had missed her tail by a few inches. With the ground wet and a gray mist over the landscape the birds were sitting tight.

Suddenly we saw the springer break his pace which carried him back and forth through the weeds to snap into faster steps. Nose to the ground, he swung to our left and then toward the willows. We stopped, as it looked like game.

Jack dashed out of the weeds and just ahead of him was a running cock pheasant. It was a wounded bird, probably touched up during the previous day's hunting.

Jack Gets His Bird.

We called fetch to the dog, so he closed in, crashing the thicket and breaking the small willow branches with his rush. In a few seconds out he trotted with the bird. It was a young rooster, slightly crippled by a gunshot.

Later Jack had a lively party with healthy birds, because he crashed into a weed pocket that produced three hen pheasants. Then he routed a big cock pheasant out of the willows which was flushed within range. Down he went to the tune of No. 6 shot.

MAJESTICS PLAY CICERO.

The Majestic basketball team will meet the Cicero All-Stars at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 Madison street, tomorrow night.

BOSTON ARRIVES TODAY FOR GAME WITH LOYOLA U.

Rambler Squad Holds Dummy Scrimmage.

Boston college's football team will arrive here this afternoon for its game with Loyola university tomorrow night. The easterners have one of the strongest lines of any team that has played Loyola this season. This was exemplified in their contests with the unbeaten Fordham and Marquette university teams. Neither eleven was able to score a touchdown, winning by field goals.

Probably the strongest man in the Boston line is Capt. Dixon, at left end. Henry Buckley, the other wing man, is also rated as one of the greatest defensive players in the east.

Coach Eddie Norton yesterday took no chances of causing further injuries to the Loyola squad and called off the scheduled scrimmage, substituting a "dummy" scrimmage instead. Considerable time was spent polishing off new plays and brushing up old ones.

BOSTON TEAM LEAVES.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Boston college's football squad, consisting of 28 players, coaches, managers, and trainers, left Boston this afternoon for Chicago, where it will play Loyola university Friday night.

Coach McKenney intends to start the same eleven that faced Georgetown. Capt. John Dixon will be at left end, Bill Bennett at left tackle, Al Morrelli at left guard, Harry Downes at center, George O'Connell at right guard, Jack Young at right tackle, and Henry Buckley at right end.

There is still doubt regarding the starting back field. If McKenney decides to use his aerial game George Colbert will be in at quarter back. But in case the running attack is chosen Bill Boehner will be the selection.

MORGANWECK TO COACH CHICAGO PRO CAGE TEAM

Frank Morganweck of Long Island, N. Y., will arrive here today to take charge of the Bruins, Chicago's American Professional Basketball league entrant. Morganweck comes to Chicago with 31 years of experience in professional basketball as player, manager, and coach.

He was secured by George Halas, Senator George M. Maypole, and Larry Walquist, owners of the Bruins, after his successful season at Rochester last year when he finished second in the first half pennant race and then won the second half title in the American league. Morganweck is the first full time coach the Bruins have had since their organization five years ago.

CHICAGO STOCKS STAGE RALLY IN LATE TRADING

U. S. Gypsum to Pay an Extra 50 Cent Dividend.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Resistance shown by leading shares in the early selling and the strength in the New York list inspired an impressive rally on the Chicago exchange in the late trading yesterday. Closing quotations on the majority of active shares represented substantial improvement over Monday's final prices.

The best news of the day directly affecting the list was the declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents a share by the directors of the United States Gypsum company. Gypsum common reacted to the announcement by advancing 2½ points on a moderate volume of sales.

$2,891,750 Six Months' Net.

The action of directors was not entirely unexpected in view of the earnings reported by the company for the first six months of the year. Six months' net was $2,891,750, equivalent to $3.24 a share, as compared with $2,329,344, or $2.70 a share on the smaller capitalization in the first half of 1929. The half year profit amply covered the $1.60 annual dividend rate on the common stock.

There were other bits of general news which helped to improve sentiment and counteract the effect of unfavorable news in the steel industry.

The recurrent waves of selling which preceded the upturn were met stubbornly by the leading utility stocks in which speculative interest centered. Cities Service ranged higher throughout the day and finished above 19. Middle West opened higher then slipped back some, but recovered to finish at 13. Insull Utility turned up sharply and closed with a credit of 2¼.

Large Blocks Appear.

In some of the less active issues losses were not uncommon. Large blocks of Continental Chicago and Chicago corporation appeared on the tape. Transactions in the Chicago issues was unusually heavy. The preferred stocks were well supported, but the junior issues were not as fortunate. Chicago common dipped to a new bottom of 5. It was the first trading in the stocks here since the announcement of the merger of the two investment firms which was made Monday night.

The most spectacular gain of the day was made by Auburn Automobile which was marked up 8½ points.

The phrase, "new low," accurately describes the market condition yesterday of Marshall Field, Butler Brothers, Lincoln Printing, and Zenith Radio and a few other of the less active issues. Interest in Grigsby and Majestic was at a low ebb, each stock closed unchanged on light volume of transactions.

American Machine and Foundry.

I wonder if you could give me a report on American Machine and Foundry company.—H. B. L.

American Machine and Foundry company is one of the few concerns that have been able to report better results this year than a year ago. This company manufactures patented machinery used in the manufacture and packing of cigars and cigarets. It supplies machinery for about 95 per cent of the cigaret industry and has a virtual monopoly in the cigar machinery field.

In the first half of the current year profits were a third greater than in the like period of 1929. Part of this increase was due to the trend toward the 5 cent cigar. A cigar manufacturer competing in the 5 cent division must make use of the economies of machine manufacture, and any increase in the production of this class of cigar automatically brings with it a demand for cigar machinery.

In the belief that bakeries lag behind the tobacco industry in the adoption of machine methods, the company has recently been developing the baking machinery end of its business.

In the six months ended June 30, 1930, net income was $1,635,641, equal to $7.82 per common share after preferred dividends, against $1,227,442, or $5.86 per share, in the corresponding period of 1929.

A five for one splitup of the common stock was approved June 16, 1930. On the basis of the common shares outstanding since the splitup, earnings in the first half would have amounted to $1.57 per common share. The entire issue of preferred stock was called for redemption on Aug. 1, 1930.

Sales and earnings set new high records in 1929. Net income was $3,560,643. After provision for preferred dividends, amounting to $146,000 for the year, earnings were equal to $12.10 per share on the old common. Net income in 1928 had been $1,428,161, or $6.54 per common share.

On June 30, 1930, current assets were $7,015,891 and current liabilities were $2,890,123, leaving a net working capital of $4,125,678. Cash and marketable securities totaled $5,353,171. Earned surplus was $5,627,029, against $7,324,591 a year before.

The new no par common is receiving 35 cent regular quarterly dividends. In addition a 5 cent extra was paid Nov. 1, and a 20 cent extra is due Dec 1.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

ALTON ROAD TO GO ON AUCTION BLOCK IN DEC.

B. & O. Is Scheduled to Get Control.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Chicago and Alton railroad, which has been valued at $125,000,000, will be sold, lock, stock and barrel, on the auction block next month. The big sale, which results from an eight year receivership and default on the road's bonded debt, will be held on Dec. 11 at Wilmington, Ill., according to an announcement made yesterday by Herbert A. Lundahl, special master for the United States District court.

Control of the Alton is scheduled to pass to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad as the result of the sale. Several months ago the Baltimore and Ohio announced that it had acquired a large block of Chicago and Alton 3½ per cent bonds, which are in default, and that it had arranged with a majority of the bondholders to purchase their holdings. It is expected that the Baltimore and Ohio will bid in the road on behalf of the bondholders.

Affords Trunk Line.

Consummation of the deal will afford the Baltimore and Ohio a trunk line extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the Missouri river. The Chicago and Alton has over 1,900 miles of line, extending chiefly between Chicago and St. Louis and Kansas City. The main line of the Baltimore and Ohio has its western terminus at Chicago. The Chicago and Alton has been in receivership since 1922 and a final decree for its sale was entered last month.

A plea for better treatment of American railroads on the score of rates and taxation was made yesterday by Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the First National bank, Chicago. He urged consideration for the carriers as the greatest step toward restoration of prosperity.

"Railroads are among the largest employers of labor and the largest users of steel and lumber," he said. "Each year they pay out $2,750,000,000 in wages. One person out of every ten owns shares in our railroads. If the railroads are not prosperous, no man be prosperous.

"If the railroads are permitted to earn on their securities the rate which fairness suggested, it will lend stability to their securities. If the prosperity of the carriers can be encouraged, it will increase their purchases of raw materials, put car builders to work, and increase employment in the steel plants. This would increase individual incomes and the effect would extend to other classes of industry.

Unfairness No Cure.

"Possible railroad improvements are almost without limit. But it is certain that unfairness to a business to which more than any other we need to turn for slack time expenditures is no way

All Agree on Theory of Oil Conservation

BY SCRUTATOR.

Once regarded both by the general public and by the courts as one of the most closely knit and monopolistic of industries, petroleum has in the last few years been one of the most disorganized and highly competitive. Even a casual survey of opinion and of fact as brought before the annual convention of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago this week demonstrates this.

The troubles of the industry are those of almost all others nowadays: more of its product being offered than can be absorbed by buyers at a profitable price. The hope to change this situation to one more favorable to oil producers, refiners and marketers lies in the return to some measure of coöperative control on a national scale.

Government Attitude.

Perhaps the most striking fact in all that has been said publicly on this phase has been the absence of any opposition in theory to agreed curtailment of production and the operation of oil fields as a unit. Even the government is not unfriendly; such pronouncements as have come from it or from sources close enough to be regarded as authoritative seem to be regretful that anti-trust laws are regarded as something of a bar to adoption of a general system that will permit oil companies to make money while at the same time conserving natural resources.

Col. William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general, in a speech on the legal aspects of agreements, suggested that motives rather than the strict letter of laws against combinations would probably govern the reception of the industry's pleas for a freer hand in future.

Yesterday George Otis Smith, director of the United States geological survey, a branch of the department of the interior, gave an unqualified approval to the unit operation of oil pools, which is held within the industry to be the one practical way of reducing costs and of keeping the supply of marketable products within a reasonable distance of effective demand.

Deems Curtailment Necessary.

Among other things Dr. Smith pointed out that unrestrained competition had failed from both the consumer and the supply angle and that unit operation of fields should be put into effect at once. Curtailment, he said, is "a law enforcement measure that is absolutely necessary under the industry's present condition of development."

He assured the oil men that the governments, state and national, are not in opposition to this plan of the industry but can coöperate to the fullest extent.

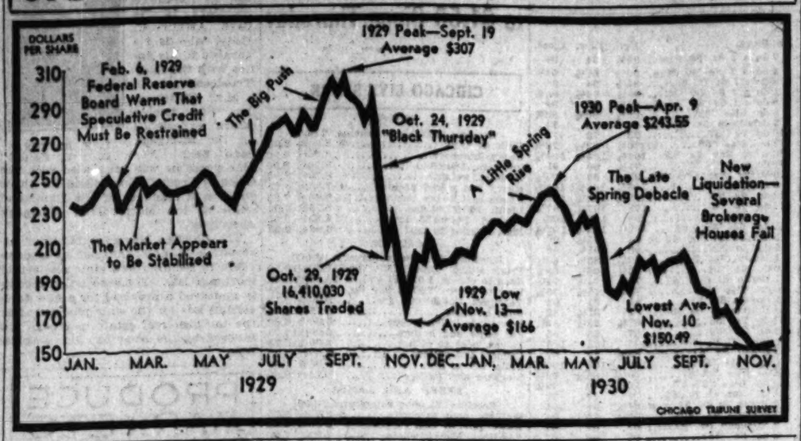
Speakers representing the industry itself suggested that the states should enforce economical production methods to conserve their resources. C. B. Ames, vice president of the Texas company, suggested that strong measures be taken to halt the wastage of two billion cubic feet of natural gas daily in the country.

Cites Old Tradition.

As another expert stated recently, the only opposition to unitization, which means the operation of oil pools entire, with all acreage owners sharing the output from a few wells, is from the inertia of tradition. The tradition since the passing of Standard Oil from its octopus rôle has been competition. Government is apparently ready to approve a certain measure of competition curtailment, and it remains to be seen whether men brought up in the school of get there first and hold on can be brought by the hundreds into the new fold.

The association reelected E. B Reeser of Tulsa, Okla., as president He has been an advocate of greater coöperation. It also voted to expend $100,000 annually for fundamental research in petroleum.

FIFTY REPRESENTATIVE ISSUES REVEAL UPS AND DOWNS OF THE STOCK MARKET



H. F. SINCLAIR ADMITS PRAIRIE OIL MERGER DEAL FALLS THROUGH

Harry F. Sinclair, attending the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago, confirmed yesterday the announcement that merger negotiations between Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and Prairie Oil and Gas company had been terminated. This was due to inability to agree on terms satisfactory to both parties.

That the deal had run into a snag was indicated earlier in the week, when an official of Prairie Oil issued a statement denying reports that it had been concluded.

Failure of this merger imposes an obstacle in the way of ambitious merger plans which the Sinclair organization has been working out for the last several months. The company recently acquired the Pierce Petroleum corporation, and has been reported in Wall street to be welding a nationwide unit expected to have resources of about $1,000,000,000.

The Sinclair-Prairie merger would have constituted one of the largest combinations of the year, and extensive preparations had already been made for it, including the sale of Sinclair's half interest in the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Sinclair Pipe Line company to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for $72,500,000 in cash.

At the time of the sale of these properties, Mr. Sinclair intimated that the company would be amply protected with respect to crude oil supply and pipe line facilities. This was interpreted in financial circles as referring to plans to acquire Prairie Oil and Prairie Pipe Line.

PENNSYLVANIA CRUDE OIL IS CUT 15C PER BRL.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Prices of all grades of Pennsylvania crude oil were reduced 15 cents a bri today by leading purchasing agencies here. The prices are the lowest since Nov. 5, 1915. The new prices are: Pennsylvania grade in New York transit lines and Bradford district oil in National transit lines, $3.15; Pennsylvania grade in National Transit lines, $1.85; Pennsylvania lines, $1.80; Pennsylvania grade in Southwest Pennsylvania lines, $1.80; Pennsylvania grade in Eureka lines, $1.70; Pennsylvania grade in Ruckeye lines, $1.45.

Explains Price Cut.

Oil City, Pa., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The Derrick says a falling off in refinery demand, together with a small accumulation of crude, may be held accountable for the reduction in Pennsylvania grade oil today.

MILWAUKEE RY. WILL TRY OUT 3 CLASS PLAN

The three class fare system of railroad travel will be given a six months' trial by the Milwaukee road. Last week the Santa Fe announced that the plan would be given a tryout. It is understood that other principal roads operating between Chicago and the Pacific coast will follow the example set by the Santa Fe.

The Milwaukee will inaugurate the new plan Jan. 1 and the reduced rates will apply to one way fares. Tickets will be honored on limited trains with certain reservations.

The three classes of passenger rates to the northwest to be offered, beginning Jan. 1, will be: Day coach, $50; tourist sleeping cars, $65, and standard sleeping cars, $77.21. The same schedule of rates will also be in effect between Pacific coast points and Chicago, it was stated.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad yesterday announced special excursion rates between Chicago and Pittsburgh for the period from Nov. 26 to Dec. 1. It is the first time that the B. & O. has adopted such a plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 12.—An advance in the price of copper to 10 cents a pound from 9½ cents today followed reports that world producers, who have been in conference here, had reached a tentative agreement to curtail output sufficiently to restore the balance of supply and demand and prevent further accumulation of unsold metal.

At the same time, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics announced its November copper statistics, disclosing a further increase of 7,961 short tons in stocks of blister and refined copper in North and South America to 695,075, the greatest accumulation on hands of the producers in a number of years.

Buying Grows Heavy.

The rise in price of copper metal, following a steep slide which carried it down from 18 cents a pound to the lowest level in thirty-four years, was heralded by heavy buying of the metal, both for domestic and foreign account, while it was available at 9½ cents the last month.

Substantial tonnage was reported to have been sold today at 10 cents a pound for domestic shipment, and a still larger tonnage was said to have been bid for at that price. The foreign price was expected to follow the domestic upward to 10.30 cents a pound.

Upturn in London.

Fabricators, including Anaconda Copper Wire and Cable company and the American Brass company, immediately marked up their prices to conform with the higher quotation for the metal. Anaconda Wire and Cable quickly sold the limited amount of its wire products available at the new price, and withdrew from the market.

Wall street heard the tentative plan agreed upon in the conferences of the world producers here called for a reduction of approximately 22,000 tons a month in world output, representing a decrease of about 15 per cent in total production on basis of the 151,000 tons reported for September.

APPROVE PLAN TO MERGE FOUR BERWYN BANKS

With the view of strengthening the banking facilities of the suburb, directors of four banks in Berwyn have approved a plan of consolidation which, if approved by stockholders, will result in an institutions with capital, surplus and reserves of $252,000 and deposits of approximately $3,000,000.

The banks are the First National Bank of Berwyn, American State Bank of Berwyn, Ridgeland State bank, and Oakwyn State bank. The name proposed for the new bank is the First American National Bank and Trust company.

The merger will be effected by an exchange of stock, each share of the four independent banks being exchanged for one half a share of the consolidated bank. The assets which each bank now owns in excess of the amount to be turned over to the new institution will be distributed ultimately to the original holders. Special meetings of shareholders are scheduled for Dec. 10 to act on the plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 12.—Wall street said it with a smile today — for a change. The eccentric stock market in which the community centers all its hopes nd fears suddenly went on its good behavior in the late trading and put on a rally t would pass muster under far higher standards than those of these hard times.

Bidding back and forth was whooped up to quite an impressive heat and prices which had been floundering about during the early hours snapped back all along the line.

Foreseen losses dwindled and faded gradually out of the picture and many of the more active issues were swept on to really substantial gains on the day.

United States Steel, for a smart example, came rushing up from its low of 129¼ to 144, registering a net advance of 1⅞. Westinghouse recovered from 95½ to 100⅝, up 2¼; American Can from 103¼ to 113⅜, up 2½; Eastman Kodak from 157½ to 164, up 5 and Consolidated Gas from 81⅛ to 86⅛, up 2½ on the session.

Fills the Eye.

It was all very eye filling and raised a veritable chorus of "I told you so's" from the market prophets who have been insisting in increasingly stentorian tones these last few days that the new selling wave was the beginning of the end of the long nine weeks' decline. And come to think about it—now that the returns are in—the signs have all been with the insisting stargazers.

Even a blind man could see that the market was in a badly oversold condition. Monday's selling had brought the largest turnover in a

There's a certain amount of common sense in it

AFTER all, business men and bankers are just human beings. And the idea of "personal" banking is simply to organize the bank so its people can act that way.

Building up the pleasant contacts that make banking really resultful is a matter of being free to see people when they want to see you.

It's a matter of arranging things so that people do not have to wait—so that they find everywhere in the bank the kind of service a man does for another man who is his friend.

You feel some of these things on your first visit to this bank. They become increasingly evident on lasting acquaintance. Men and women who find them worth while, are invited to bring their commercial and personal checking accounts to this bank.

It is believed that no other twenty-five stocks would as well represent a cross-section of successful American industry.

A unit of these stocks handled under Standard American Trust Shares plan would have produced, during the last ten years, an average annual cash return of 11.3% on the 1920 cost. Furthermore, the value of the original investment, after making this large cash distribution, would have increased more than fourfold in the ten-year period.

The distribution of Standard American Trust Shares is sponsored by Lawrence Stern and Company and The National Republic Company, investment affiliate of The National Bank of the Republic of Chicago.

month, exceeding 4,426,000 shares, and a big proportion of it was liquidation. Yesterday's volume tapered off sharply and in the earlier hours of today's session business was relatively quiet, indicating that liquidation had pretty well spent its force. For weeks the market had been displaying a more frequent disposition to rally and recurrent reactions have been dwindling in scope. Yes, it has looked like a turnabout was due. Everybody says so—not. Many of them think it will last.

Copper stocks literally covered themselves with glory in today's market—thanks to that little matter of a price advance on the red metal announced in time to do the most good. Anaconda kept out in front all day, even when things were going their worst elsewhere and chalked up a net advance of nearly 3 points for the edification of its followers, Kennecott did even better and the lesser lights of the group all trailed in enthusiastic fashion.

Has a Wide Range.

One of the most spectacular recoveries of the day was that of Ingersoll Rand, which converted a break of 7½ points during the forenoon dealings into a net gain of 7⅛ in the afternoon—a range of 15 points for the session. J. I. Case jumped some 7 points to convert a loss into a 5 point gain and Allied Chemical rose 3 to register a 5 point gain.

The close found two niches of the lately vacant 200 point club occupied once more, Peoples Gas winding up at 200 and Norfolk and Western railroad mounting 3 points to squeeze in—at even 200. Allied Chemical needs only 4 points to regain its lost standing in the charmed circle.

Railroad stocks were about the last group to enlist in the afternoon rally, but some of them got a real hump on themselves when they did get into the melee. Atchison spurted 8 points in a few minutes and ran up a net gain of 4 points. New York Central and New Haven did well, but the Van Sweringen issues were never able to get up much steam after the battering they had received in the early dealings.

Amusement stocks were weak at first but recovered in great shape with the rest.

Pressure against American Telephone was again a feature in the early dealings, the stock sinking below 130, but rallying sharply in the afternoon to record a net gain of more than 4 points.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Although quiet, raw sugar was firmer in tone today. Raw futures were less active and price movements were somewhat irregular, with operators inclined to hold off and await definite action by the Cuban representatives in legalizing the stabilization plan. Press reports this morning said that at yesterday's meeting the bill had been passed by the Cuban house, but press reports later said that the action was not final, but that it was merely an acceptance of the proposition in principle. STATEMENT BY LEGGE AFFECTS WHEAT CONDUCT

Preferred Deliveries Are Weak and Drop.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The Grain Stabilization corporation will take in and pay for 10,000,000 bu of cash wheat on December contracts, according to an official announcement made by Chairman A. A. Legge of the farm board, which had a decided effect on the market yesterday. The deferred deliveries were weak early and dropped as much as 1¼c under Monday's finish to a new low for the season. The December was strong and at no time sold as low as previous close and gained around 1c on the March and May during the day as cash interests and commission houses took the nearby and sold the deferred futures.

No information was forthcoming as to where the large line of December wheat was held by the corporation. The trade assumed that the bulk of it was in Chicago. As there is only 7,000,000 bu contract wheat in store in Chicago and regular for a delivery the trade had visions of a squeeze of the shorts.

There was some buying of wheat futures during the day which the trade regarded as for either the Stabilization corporation or the Farmers National Grain corporation. This helped to bring about a rally of 2⅛@2⅜c from the early low, with the finish 1@2¼c higher than Monday's close. Old December was 72@72¼c; March, 74⅛@74⅝c; May, 76⅛@76⅝c, and July, 77¼@77⅝c at the last.

Statement Not a Surprise.

The fact that the Stabilization corporation is heavily long on December wheat was not a surprise to the trade. A number of weeks ago President George S. Milnor announced that as fast as cash wheat was sold it would be replaced by purchases in the open market in order to keep its stock of 60,000,000 bu intact. The taking of the futures in exchange for the cash grain is regarded as a shrewd business move as it cuts down the storage charges that would ordinarily have accrued.

December wheat in Chicago at the close was 2¼c under the March, compared with 3⅛c on Monday. The May, which was recently 6c over December, was only 4⅛c over at the finish.

A good part of the buying during the day was regarded as having been short covering, and resulted in American markets being placed further out of line with those in other exporting countries. Winnipeg was ⅛@⅝c higher than on Tuesday. Liverpool was off 1⅞@2d from Monday and Buenos Aires lost 1⅞@1⅝c. February in the latter market was 65⅝c at the last.

Say Grains Are Low Enough.

The violent rally which occurred in the stock and cotton markets as well as in wheat caused considerable comment toward the last and, according to some operators, conditions had changed for the better, with liquidation by longs nearing an end.

Broomhall has revised his estimate of the amount of wheat available for export in the leading countries. After allowing for carryover, there is 1,114,000,000 bu on hand to supply the needs of imports for the 1930-'31 season, or 32,000,000 bu less than his previous estimate. Import needs are placed at 736,000,000 bu, or the same as previously.

Scattered liquidation and stop loss selling carried corn prices off around 2½c in the early trading as the result of a bearish construction placed on the government report given out after the close on Monday. All deliveries except the December sold at a new low for the season. Offerings on the break were absorbed by commission houses and shorts and later when local bulls started to buy they found little for sale. Shorts covered freely on the way up, and the finish was ⅝c higher to ⅛c lower, with old December 72⅛@72¾c; March, 74⅞@75c; May, 76⅝@77c, and July, 78c at the last.

A decrease of nearly 12 per cent in the total world's indicated yield of corn, oats, and barley is shown in a detailed government report, the aggregate for the countries that have reported so far being placed at 156,178,000 tons, compared with 176,144,000 tons in 1929, and 177,958,000 tons in 1928. Buenos Aires closed ⅝c higher to ⅜c lower, with the December delivery 34c at the last, or 3⅝½c under Chicago.

LARD PRICES DECLINE

Packers were on both sides of the lard market at times yesterday with fair pressure on the December and January and a lower range of prices. Net losses were 7½ to 10c on the active futures. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances of lard were 1,638,000 lbs the end of bacon 161,000 lbs.

SNOW
By Ednah Aiken

SYNOPSIS.

King promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska, after the races at Tia Juana, where he rode his favorite horse, Wind. Sheila plans to kidnap King and take him to a remote spot, there to help him fight off his baneful habit. Jim Molloy is living in Nome and he promises to help her. At breakfast in Jim's cabin, King's coffee is drugged and Sheila and Jim carry him off unconscious to a cabin not far from Nome, although seemingly in the heart of the frozen wilderness. Jim leaves them his servants, an Eskimo couple, and returns at once to Nome. When King regains consciousness and learns he is marooned for the next eight months his fury breaks in verbal abuse on Sheila, accusing her of wanting to get him out of the way. He tries to bribe Hi-Jack, the Eskimo servant, to go to Nome for him. Failing in this he tries to escape to Nome on snowshoes. Hi-Jack goes in search of him.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

RESCUED.

Sheila had lit a cigaret, rebelliously, telling herself she deserved it, this bad hour, when a sentence of Mary Cameron's came to mind. "Smoking is a habit of the fingers, to most women, anyway. Unless they're inhalers. Find a substitute, Sheila, darling. Remember how I used to puff like a factory, at college? Well, up here, I learned to knit. Before the baby came, I thought it might be injurious. . . . My little white Eskimo is a knitted baby. I knitted myself through. . . ."

She got out needles and wool, and tried to recall Mary's lesson on "setting-up." An enthralled Casino watched every unsure motion. It was long before the second line was reached; the stitches refusing to become fabric, but her nerves, at any rate, were beginning to obey her; her breathing had become regular.

It was the northern ear which distinguished between the wind's buffeting and the quick-light tap on the door. Sheila jumped to her feet, her knitting falling disregarded. But it was only Happy Jack to whose feet the babiche still clung, dragging useless, shattered slats of wood. His back against the unbolted door, he stood chattering with his wife. To Sheila's signs of distress, the Eskimo woman answered.

"No catchin. Bimeby go back. Mek shoes."

In Hi-Jack's hand were willow wands, not yet stripped of their frozen snow-branches. As soon as he recovered his breath, his gestures told her with these sticks and with babiche he could make sturdy snowshoes that would enable him to "catch the white man with the sick head." But a distracted wife could understand that the sorry wrecks he was now using from his moccasins would never help him to overtake King, Chechako though he was.

How long would it take him to do this? One hour? Two? She pointed to the clock, and then to the willow sticks, to the thongs he had to weave. He thought she was insisting that he must go without snowshoes. She gave up the attempt to get an answer.

The Eskimo was preparing to return to his own cabin, but Sheila stood in the way. "Hi-Jack make shoes here. Casino go to other cabin; wait. Maybe sick man come back there—oh, don't you understand?" she cried.

No, they could not understand her reasons, though her signals were clear. Hi-Jack was to stay in the white man's cabin; Casino was to go back to their own; they did not know why. Suddenly, the woman's face brightened. "Go get babiche?" Sheila surrendered. When Casino returned with the various thongs, she would send her back again, to watch and wait.

It was maddening to have to watch the slow evolution of the snowshoes. Happy Jack was no tyro, his head-wagging told her; these were to be real snow-shoes. Endlessly, with torturing precision, his fingers shaped the willow wands, and began to knot the babiche. To Sheila's offers of help, he shook his head. "No good." This time, his head-wagging suggested, he was to be assured of his transportation. These sticks and thongs might have to carry two men, and because peril lay outside that closed door, Sheila forebore her urging, but her eyes clung to the slow-moving fingers—weaving, shaping, knotting, and weaving again.

One of the shoes was well completed, and the other well along, when the hands paused; the brown head lifted. The Eskimo's keen ear had picked up a sound Sheila had failed to hear. Now it came to her, clearly. Dogs baying; a dog team was nearing the cañon. Not Jim Molloy's. Days, weeks to come to expect him. She flew to the window. Happy Jack lumbered toward the door.

Darkness or frost had made the double panes opaque. She followed Happy Jack, clinging to the door-frame for the wind threatened her footing. And then a low, dark line swept past the cañon mouth. "A dog team? They must stop them, whoever they are. They must help you find my husband. Hurry, Hi-Jack, hurry!" Frantically she shook the phlegmatic shoulders of the Eskimo. "Hurry. Say come back; catchim."

He nodded. "Hi-Jack catchin." But he took an endless time getting into his parka and buckling on his mukluks which a thoughtful Casino had brought with the babiche. Sheila had to prod him. At the door he stopped again, cocking his head, listening. This time she was not impatient for she saw his trained sense had told him the dog team had found the other cabin.

Was that not a dog team now entering the cañon? Yes, surely—and some one trailing behind it, a dark shape against the snow. Casino——? A stranger? Could it be—King?

Oblivious of the wind and snow beating against them, they waited at the door. Yes, there was Casino, far behind the dog team, holding a lantern on high; it looked like a star in the darkness.

Hi-Jack's eyes were peering into the dusk. He turned to reassure the woman at his side.

"Good man. Krus-ga-mapa good man," he explained, cryptically.

A blast of wind flung her against the side wall. The room had become a cavern of smoke. She was returning to the door, but a rough hand pushed her back. "Freeze no good," said the Eskimo. "Hi-Jack go catchim."

And the door was shut upon her.

She did not have long to wait. Before she had time to fan the smouldering fire into a blaze again, Hi-Jack was opening the door, was helping a bearded stranger carry a covered figure—it was King!—into the room. Casino was following them. A blur veiled them to Sheila, for she thought King was dead. . . .

They placed him on his couch. His face was covered, his beautiful head—dead! When they removed the furs and blankets, she would see his eyes, fixed eternally!

A stranger stood in front of her. The kindliest eyes she had ever seen were smiling at her—not in compassion. Even in her misery, she could know this was not pity. King was not dead? He was not dead!

The newcomer was speaking to her. "Madame Jorge it is? I have bring your husban' back to you. No, no, no. Be not so scare'. He is not very much frozen. Jus' in time I have foun' him. Down by the river, where the wind he blow so bad."

Casino and Happy Jack were now taking off the rugs, and beginning to strip the still figure of his broken furs. For an hour or more, King's head had been warming by the hearth. Sheila ran to get them; the stranger helped her carry them to the bed. She stood, watching King's face. . . .

"Snow," raced Sheila's thoughts. "Snow!" Snow had sentenced him to death; it to save him?

The stranger's benignant eyes were approving all this activity of the Eskimo.

"Rub his han's, so. I rub, too. So. Ver' good. . . . The wind it blow bad, madame; it mek much trouble for the snowshoes of the husban'. He could not mek the travel. Madame understan' me? It is good."

"Go on. Tell me," whispered Sheila.

"He have tek off the mitts for to take off the shoes, it was to be seen. He have tek off the mitts for to take off the shoes, it was to be seen. down by the river, and the han's quick, they have froze. Chechako, he not know. . . . But now, it will be all right. The good God, he mek for to come jus' then. You can mek the water hot? You have. It is good. Whiskey, you have, maybe? It is better. Hot water, whiskey, blankets, sleep. Tomorrow, he is himself once more."

The eyes of King had opened; his stare dully embraced them all. Yes, that was the word; embraced. He was glad to be in the despised hut. After his struggle with death down by the river, this was no longer a jail, but Home.

Germany's New Women Tell About Careers

Act as Experts in Trade, Arts, Architecture.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—That German women successfully have ventured forth into what is customarily termed "man's world," and that they are ready for further conquests was demonstrated at a meeting called by the "Women's Citizens' Union of Germany," known as "Staatsburgerinnen Verband."

Four women told of new opportunities for women who want to or must earn their own living. They were personified by Fräu Doktor Herzfeld Hoffmann, patent office official; Fräu Kornhas-Brandt, head of the German Master School for Fashions; Fräu Doktor Garnich-Hanau, economist and publicity expert; Fräu Doktor Knotter-Meer, engineer and head of the newly formed German Association of Women Engineers. These women told of the opportunities for women which their respective callings offered.

They stressed the fact that for the up to date woman of intelligence, practical common sense and imagination, whole new realms have opened. They spoke as the pioneers of their fields. Three of them were academically trained and entitled to be called Fräu Doktor in their own right, instead of on the account of their husbands' titles as still is the custom in Germany.

This same association organized an exhibition in the department store of Wertheim.

Besides the remarkable etchings, wood cuts of Kate Kollwitz, which have achieved international fame, the work of German women architects deserves special praise. Emilie Winkelmann is the dean among these women—for more than thirty years she has been building houses in and near Germany's capital, consequently her style is more conservative than that of the younger generation. Hanna Low is a "governmental architect," with the title, "Regierungs Baumeister" in the employ of Bavaria. She has built colonies of workers' houses. In other buildings she has achieved a distinctive style of her own.

In their efforts to be different, some, especially the women designing tapestries, are showing appalling atrocities, such as a Gobelin about fifteen feet high all filled out by the figure of a whitish, sickly colored woman of a painfully distorted anatomy. You forget these efforts at sight of the delightful toys of Resi Brandl, the wood statuettes and carvings of Anna Gehrle, publicity pictures by Truda Hamburg, silversmith work of Emmy Roth, charmingly designed china, interesting sculptural works, are all proofs of the zealous work of the modern German woman.

In politics the progress of German women is slower, though several important posts in home ministry are in the hands of women, such as Gertrud Baumer, and 39 women were elected to the present reichstag.

Salvation Army Averts Dynasty by New Policy

Gen. Higgins Waives Right to Name Successor.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—[Special.]—The commissioners of the Salvation army today banished forever the possibility of a "dynasty" arising to retain the office of general.

By an overwhelming vote they took away from the general his power to nominate or appoint a successor, and decided that in the future a high council shall elect the leader to fill the highest post in the army.

Their action meant the final overthrow of the autocratic right which William Booth, founder of the Salvation army, guarded so jealously throughout his life, and under which he was able to nominate his own son, Bramwell, as his successor.

Only two commissioners held out against the change today, and it was an echo of last year's bitterness that Commissioner Catherine Booth, the late general's daughter, should have been one of those two. If the high council hadn't deposed her father last year she would now be general. Today she fought to the limit, but she was able to sway only one of her colleagues. After hours of debate the proposal was finally carried, 38 to 2.

Gen. Edward J. Higgins has now seen two of his three proposed reforms approved by the commissioners—the first being yesterday's fixing of a definite retirement age for the general. His last reform—creation of a board of trustees for the army's properties in Britain—will be discussed tomorrow.

After that the army will come to grips with more controversial matters, including the establishment of an army council or cabinet, and also the advisability of bringing the new reforms before parliament as a new constitution superseding the existing charter.

The commissioners are moving warily in their reforms because they may have to obtain parliamentary sanction to give them legal standing. In William Booth's original deed of 1878, for example, the general established the right to "nominate" his successor. In a later deed of 1904, which has never yet been validated by an English court, the general claimed the right to "appoint" his successor.

Acting on legal advice the commissioners, therefore, embodied their reforms in two resolutions—one taking away the right to nominate and one removing the right to appoint.

CHICAGOANS FIND MANY ADVENTURES ON THE BLUE DANUBE

A story of adventure in the out of the way places of Europe "where an English speaking tourist seldom is seen and the American flag is unknown," was told by a Chicago couple last night. They have just returned by way of Constantinople, now called Istanbul.

The leader of the party was Herbert Lewis, Chicago artist, and son of Dr. E. H. Lewis, dean of Lewis institute, who resides at 229 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park. He was accompanied by his wife, Katherine, and John Myers, a New York newspaper man.

A Danubian cruise they made began at Regensburg, Germany. There a 26 foot sloop with auxiliary motor was launched. The object of the trip was to "find out why English speaking tourists never are encountered on the Danubian banks south of Budapest, and to take moving pictures from an artist's point of view."

The tourists found that the peasants who came down to the river to see boats were friendly, but frequently shots were fired across its bow by Rumanian and Bulgarian sentries to whom it was necessary to make explanations by signs.

Crossing an international boundary line usually meant about two days' delay while a photographer made new passport photographs and officials checked their papers.

Lewis said pleasure craft were practically unknown on the Danube and that the only other one they encountered was a canoe carrying a lone Norwegian.

The peasants were so impressed by the sloop that they decided it should be purchased for Prince Cyril, young brother of King Boris of Bulgaria, and it finally was sold to a Russian refugee for $200. He expects to sell it to the prince on his next visit to the summer palace at Varna.

Lewis said if he had not been in a hurry to catch the monthly boat from Istanbul for New York he would have stayed to make the deal with the prince himself.

Dawes Calls English Villages Better than Those in America

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The United States has nothing to compare with the beauties of rural England, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes declared tonight at the first annual dinner of the Travel Association of Great Britain and Ireland. Lord Derby presided and the duke of York was the guest of honor.

Mr. Dawes appealed to the travel association to see that the beautiful old villages in Britain are kept unspoiled and unchanged in order that Americans, with their English heritage, might appreciate them.

"We have nothing like them in the United States," the ambassador said. "There I have to find a guide to take me through a maze of gasoline tanks and hot dog stands. Don't change your beautiful villages."

Mr. Dawes said that, while first class American travel Europeward has fallen off since the Wall street crash, figures last year nevertheless showed an increase in Americans coming abroad. That meant more tourists are being drawn from the middle class. "The intelligent class of American tourists" was his comment.

Home Secretary J. R. Clynes said Britain's main trouble heretofore has been that it is too modest to trumpet its own beauties.

Einstein Starts for U. S. from Berlin on Nov. 30

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Announcement was made today that Prof. Albert Einstein will go to the United States. He will leave Berlin Nov. 30 and sail from Antwerp on the Belgenland Dec. 2, when the steamship begins a world cruise. Pasadena, Cal., will be his destination, according to the Jewish Telegraph agency, and he will leave the vessel shortly after New Year's at San Francisco, after touching at New York and passing through the Panama canal.

Huskier Preachers Needed, Dean Says; Starts Training

Clergymen, if they are to be effective church leaders, must not be physical weaklings. This opinion was announced yesterday by Dean F. C. Grant of the Western Theological seminary, Evanston. As a result, Dean Grant has started a course in personal hygiene and physical culture at the Evanston seminary. The course will be under the direction of Dr. Dwight H. Clarke.

THE STAGE

SUNDAY night will be added to the schedule of performances of plays under the auspices of the Dramatic League of Chicago when that organization moves its "Death Takes a Holiday" from the Princess to the Harris theater at the end of next week. The subscriptions to the league's season do not cover Sunday nights; therefore these performances will be "through the box office," according to the regular routine of the show business.

The play to follow "Death Takes a Holiday" is "Michael and Mary," by A. A. Milne, the well known English whimster. It had a long run in New York last season at Charles Hopkins' theater. It is now having an engagement in Boston, under the auspices of the Professional Players, an organization allied with the Dramatic League. The word from Boston is that "Michael and Mary" is excellent stuff for subscription playgoers. Madge Kennedy plays the leading rôle. The Chicago opening is fixed for Monday, Dec. 1.

Cornelia Otis Skinner—charming and gifted daughter of the dean of American actors—will begin a series of matinées, after the style of Ruth Draper, at the Selwyn theater next Sunday. She will appear on three consecutive Sundays, and also on Friday afternoon, Nov. 28.

Her first program will consist of sketches under the following titles: "A Southern Girl in the Sistine Chapel," "Sunday Driving," "Homework," "Monte Carlo," "In a Telephone Booth," "The Lady Explorer," "On the Beach at Barbadoes," and "Motoring in the Nineties." Of these, "Sunday Driving" and "In a Telephone Booth" are new to Chicago audiences. Like Miss Draper, Miss Skinner writes her own material.

"The House of Fear" has withdrawn its announcement that this week is to be its last at the Playhouse. The run has been extended for two more weeks. That will give this farcical mystery melodrama fourteen weeks in Chicago, which might easily be the record for the season. The longest Chicago run last season was the sixteen weeks of "Strange Interlude."

"Three Little Girls," the operetta at the Great Northern, will discontinue Sunday night performances for the rest of its engagement. The demands of the score upon the voices of the principals and chorus are so heavy that a day of rest once a week seems advisable.

"Berkeley Square," with Leslie Howard and Margalo Gillmore in the leading rôles, is headed toward Chicago. A few days ago it was announced for the Harris theater, to open Dec. 22; but the impending switch of the Dramatic League plays to the Harris will change that plan. No doubt "Berkeley Square" will go to the Princess.

Performances of a version of "Alice in Wonderland" by Tony Sarg's marionette company will be given at the Goodman theater next Saturday at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. An extra matinée performance is also announced for next Sunday. C. C.

Help by State Asked for Blind, Crippled Child

Another Report Ready for Hoover Conference.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Suggestions for making life more worth while for blind, deaf, crippled, and mentally maladjusted children were made today in the report prepared by William J. Ellis and his committee for next week's White House conference on child health.

Ellis, commissioner of the state department of institutions and agencies of New Jersey, urged audition measurements of every child in the United States to determine the degree of acuteness of hearing or of deafness.

"The hard of hearing child, in the great majority of cases, can receive his education successfully in the ordinary public schools, provided certain special attentions are given him by his regular teachers and special classes in lip reading and in speech are maintained," the report said.

"It is urgent that every school system, urban and rural, make some provision for its hard of hearing children."

For the blind, the report recommended establishment of Braille classes in more large cities, relieving the pressure on state schools.

The committee said the per capita cost of educating blind children was higher, but that it was "insignificant compared with what it would be if these children were allowed to become illiterate public charges."

Waste entailed in orthopedic surgery "without adequate after care" was pronounced "one of the tragedies in the story of the crippled child." The committee urged a legal method in every state to find all crippled children, coördinate the work done for them, and provide for part of the cost of their care and education.

"The state should safeguard the quality of service rendered to the crippled child," the report said. "Facilities should be made available to them regardless of their financial circumstances or place of residence."

The possibility of preventing many mental breakdowns was stressed.

"Prevention of lesser mental maladjustments would strike at the very root of our most pressing social problems—suicide, divorce, delinquency, crime, industrial maladjustment," the committee said.

As an integral part of the public school system, the child experts held, guidance clinics should function in dealing with tantrums, stealing, oversensitiveness, day dreaming, cruelty, restlessness, morbid fears, and other behavior problems "symptomatic of underlying mental stress."

Seek Illinois Law.

The Illinois legislature, at its next session, will be asked by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness to pass a statute making mandatory the treatment of the eyes of new born babies to prevent defective vision. This was announced, yesterday at the annual meeting of the organization at the Palmer house.

"Such treatment considerably will reduce blindness," declared Miss Audrey M. Hayden, executive secretary, in her annual report. "Illinois is in the small majority of states which has not recognized the need for such treatment."

Miss Hayden reported that a year ago there were only a little over 1,000 visual acuity tests and the opening of two sight saving classes. During the last year the society's nurses made 17,539 visual acuity tests and have found 4,984 children with defective vision. They located 197 sight saving cases, and opened four sight saving classes—two in Rockford, a junior high school class in Rock Island, and one in Aurora.

"In the last year we have record of 1,129 school children who have had their vision corrected as a result of our surveys. We have found any number of cases during the last year of children considered mentally defective who were really suffering from an eye defect which they did not wish to admit. We found one child in a class for mentally defective children who had an intelligence quotient of 101."

Miss Hayden's report stated further that the society's study of midwifery in Illinois has been submitted to the state department of education and registration, and has been given also to Gov. Emmerson's child welfare committee.

"This study showed that there are now active and practicing in Illinois 507 midwives, 114 of whom are practicing openly without license and training. We found that European midwives are more intelligently trained and are very strictly supervised."

Oats Hull Sugar Proves Success, Professor Declares

Discovery of a process by which an excellent grade of sugar can be made from the wood fiber in cotton seeds and oat hulls, was announced yesterday by Dr. W. C. Austin, head of the department of medicine at Loyola university.

Dr. Austin said the discovery should provide an additional market for the by-products of cotton and oats producers.

An exhibit showing the results of experiments in sugar production is planned for the museum of science and industry in the old Fine Arts building now being reconstructed in Jackson park. Dr. Austin was aided in his latest discovery by M. J. Sankstone and C. J. Smalley, laboratory associates.

Lady Astor Says She's Sorry for "Poor" Bachelors

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Lady Astor disclosed today that while she is an unrepentant feminist, she has a warm spot in her heart for the lonely bachelor.

Speaking at an exhibition, she said after many years of public life she was a more convinced feminist than ever, but added she never belonged to a group of anti-men.

"I don't like antis in any way," she said. "Old bachelors are the most crotchety creatures in the world. I hope women won't forget the loneliness of the bachelor men. As we go ahead we shall have to drag them along with us."

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Woman Needs Shoes.

"Has one of your readers a pair of women's shoes, size 3? I am out of work and cannot buy them for my wife, who needs shoes so badly. Because of an affliction it is difficult for me to find work. A. L."

If we have another reader with such tiny feet, I am hoping she has a pair of shoes not too worn that she'll give this deserving woman. Please let me know if you can fill this request.

Six Youngsters Need Help.

"I have six children who are badly in need of clothing. The girl is 12 and the boys are 8, 7, 4, and twins, 10 months old. We have had a great deal of sickness and my husband is out of work. If you can help us I will be thankful to you. Mrs. S. L."

Cold weather, no work, sickness, and the size of the family make the situation a trying one for this mother. Have you any clothing that would fit the children?

Art and China, Debut Keep Society Busy

BY THALIA ——.

Yesterday's social events, recounted chronologically herewith, were many and varied.

Prentiss Clay Bartlett's case for modern paintings, presented as the second and last of a series of discussions on modern art, sponsored by the League of Women Voters yesterday morning at the Arts club, was clear and sympathetic.

"If we can't," he said, "be in the vanguard of those who accept modern art, at least let us take a middle course, and not lag behind the procession."

He concluded his talk with "painters are reporters, and to report truly, they must be modernists."

After the lecture, there were many luncheon and small groups remaining for bridge parties. Mrs. A. A. Carpenter had with her Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, and Mrs. Arthur Bissell. Miss Anna Morgan's party included Miss Harriet Ames, Mrs. Winterbotham Buchanan, and Barry Channon.

Others present included Mrs. William B. Hibbard, who introduced the speaker; Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. Paul H. Kiner.

The figures talks were financially successful beyond the hopes of the committee who arranged them. The net proceeds will exceed $2,600, and will go toward the educational work of the league. John W. Root, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Mr. Bartlett gave the talks without remuneration.

Miss Ghita Watson's debut frock for her presentation reception yesterday afternoon was of sky blue tulle. There was a border of silver stars around the neck of her dress, which was full and shirred and long, and she held a round old fashioned bouquet encircled with a paper frill as used beside her mother, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, to receive, in a room decorated with American Beauty roses and pink roses. Mrs. Wolf wore a model gown of beige velvet, bordered in pink. The tea table had a centerpiece of lavender chrysanthemums in silver wedding roses, crystal candelabra, and a gold satin cover.

Most of the guests at Mrs. Wolf's tea at her apartment, 209 Lake Shore drive, either were coming from or going to the lecture given under the auspices of the American Friends of Art at the Casino.

In the Casino three rooms were thrown into one to make a miniature theater for Teng Kwei of Suchow, to show slides of paintings in the Chinese manner. Mrs. Frank T. Langhorn, Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. John Paul Welling, and Mrs. Harley Dempster were hostesses.

Mrs. Alfred Hermann Gross announce the engagement of her daughter, Theresa Gross [illegible] René Paul Traveletti, son of Mme. Jean Traveletti of Geneva, Switzerland. No date is announced for the marriage.

Mrs. John Borden in behalf of the annual sale for the Eli Bates settlement, "Our Christmas sale will be held at Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's house, 1550 Lake Shore drive, next Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 18 and 19. We are specializing on Christmas gifts of 2, 3, 5, and 10 dollar value to meet the economical purse. Mrs. William McCormick Blair, chairman of our shop committee, is sending in over some special novelties from Paris. We also have the usual articles made by our Italian women to whom we give employment, and whose children we care for in our nursery during the day."

Others assisting at the sale will be Mrs. Lambert Armour, Mrs. Philip D. Armour, Mrs. Robert Gardner, Mrs. Ogden H. Armour, Mrs. J. Andrew King, Mrs. Stanley Keith, and about a dozen more of the women interested. Mrs. Louis De Koven Phelps is in charge of the sale in the absence of Mrs. Blair. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Jr. is to give a luncheon on Tuesday for some of the committee members, and Mrs. Phelps is having a luncheon on Tuesday.

Miss Genevieve Carpenter, who attended Mr. Bartlett's lecture yesterday morning, has arrived for an indefinite visit with her parents, the John Alden Carpenters, from New York. She has been up here work with the Museum of Modern Art in the east and, according to Mrs. Carpenter, has no plans for the immediate future. Pictures of Miss Carpenter's New York apartment appear in the current issue of Vogue.

Baron Snoy b'Oppuers of Brussels, Belgium, who has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, is to be with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burton Goodwin at Apple Green, their Lake Forest residence, today and tomorrow. He will attend the Associated Chamber of Commerce dinner this evening with Mr. Goodwin, and afterwards they will be guests of the George B. Swifts at the opera.

Benefit for Church.

The Patricia club of St. Patrick's church announced yesterday that a benefit card and bunko party would be held tonight in the clubrooms at 1551 Maypole avenue.

"ACIDINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR INDIGESTION GAS"

"I have used ACIDINE for indigestion gas for years and find that it has no equal. It is cleared alone. Nothing else compares with it," says John D. Lee, 816 E. Garfield Blvd., Chicago.

Like another of thousands who are doing at the way this new preparation ACIDINE succeeds when other remedies fail. The reason is it differs from other medicines. ACIDINE, containing Jeptase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. It neutralizes burning acid, relieves irritated stomach and intestinal pains and acidosis.

Eat and drink all you want. When sour gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, nervousness, colds, gassy stomach and sleeplessness trouble you, try ACIDINE. Results guaranteed or if not delighted, maker refunds money.

Actors Divide Profits of Oberammergau Passion Play Season

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The final apportionment of profits among the Passion Play performers turned out to be a pleasant surprise for all, as net profits proved much greater than anticipated. This is especially welcome as there are nine "lean years" to come before the next series of performances brings more grist to the mill.

Apart from Stage Manager Johann Georg Lang, who draws $2,000, and Choirmaster Guido Diemer, to whom $1,750 is allotted, the star actors, Alois Lang [Christ] and Hugo Rutz [Calaphas], each receive $1,375. Anni Rutz [Mary] and the recently married Hansi Preisinger [Magdalen] each draw $875, and so on down to $75 for each child actor.

Today there are no more Nazarenes and Galileans on the village streets. They have all gone back to their trades, mostly woodcarving. All profess relief at getting rid of their heavy manes of hair, which they found especially trying in the hot weather.

No more COLIC pains
... give Castoria

A CRY in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. When there's need of gentle regulation. Every child loves the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to right the irregularities of older, growing children. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. It's prescribed by doctors!

British Students Will Share Hurley Fund at U. of Notre Dame

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Educationalists and industrialists in Britain have welcomed the announcement of a $200,000 endowment by Edward N. Hurley of Chicago for the establishment of a college of foreign commerce at Notre Dame university.

The following cable from Hurley to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood was received today at headquarters of the National Union of Students. Viscount Cecil is president of that group:

"In connection with my plan for founding a college of foreign commerce in America in the interest of international trade," the cablegram said, "I am interested in offering scholarships tenable by British students for furthering international relations. I would appreciate your cooperation as president of the National Union of Students of England in working out the plan."

That union replied, also by cable:

"In absence of Cecil at Geneva we wish to assure you, on behalf of the students of England, of our sympathy with your objective and we extend most sincere thanks for your generous offer."

It is pointed out here that Hurley's planning for British scholarships is a reflection of his selling to the British patents on pneumatic drills and hammers in London in 1899. That contributed to his success.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Most growers of gladioli have dug up and stored their "corms," or bulbs, by this time of the year, but those who have not should do so before the ground freezes. This is the advice of Alfred Pridham of the department of floriculture of New York State College of Agriculture.

Garden forks are satisfactory for digging gladioli. The corms may be lifted from the soil or gently pulled out after the soil is loosened. Some of the smaller corms formed in the past season around the larger ones may be lost, leading Mr. Pridham to advise careful harvesting to save as many of the tiny ones as possible.

After lifting, set the plants on a sieve so that the soil may be carefully shaken out and the cormels picked from the sieve. Small receptacles, such as cigar boxes, candy boxes, and shoe boxes, can be used for keeping varities separated if that is desired. Cutting the tops off and leaving them in an open and airy place, such as a garage or sun porch, are additional pointers for safekeeping of the bulbs for next year.

To insure the best keeping conditions the corms may be cleaned by breaking off the small ones from the base of the large one and also breaking last year's corm away from the new one which formed on top of it. Mice will not trouble the stored flower stocks if a small quantity of red pepper is shaken into the bag or box in which the corms are stored. Temperatures of 35 to 40 degrees are recommended, but any place in which potatoes or root crops are stored successfully is considered good for gladioli.

Haunting Appeal of Velvet and Old Lace

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris fashions are going picturesque; there's no doubt about that. You may dress yourself up like an 1830 ingenue, like a dashing 1880 beauty or like a medieval queen—not to mention any number of other types and periods that take your fancy—and still be the last word in sartorial modernity.

Black velvet and old lace head the list of those present in the picturesque assemblages of Paris, and they are probably the most wearable representatives of this mode. They are certainly flattering to blonde, brunette, and white haired beauty alike.

Suzanne Talbot favors the English Elizabethan period this season, and the sleeved evening frock, sketched here, might well have been worn by the lovely, lamented Mary, queen of Scots, herself.

Talbot makes it of black, pile velvet, with short sleeves of old ecru lace, mounted in unpressed box plaits and a ruffle of the same edging the slightly drop shoulder décolleté. The fitted bodice is distinctly short waisted in back but descends to a point in front. The full skirt is both circular and gathered; it trails ever so little on the floor in back. The girdle and necklace are of heavy silver links, alternating large and small.

Though beautiful, this frock is extremely striking and would be particularly chic for the hostess of large receptions in the privacy of the home. It requires an unusual type to get away with it for formal, outside evening wear.

Pocantico Hills to Become Model Rockefeller Village

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Pocantico Hills will come back on the map as a first class model village controlled mostly by John D. Rockefeller Jr., according to an announcement made today.

First steps toward the creation of such a village—a village of model modern homes without business establishments, but with its churches, model schools, library, water and lighting districts, playgrounds, swimming pool and recreation facilities such as few communities can afford—will be taken this week when ground will be broken on Bedford road, opposite the Pocantico Hills Union chapel, for six double family houses. The site selected will be a park in itself with winding roads.

WILBUR SAYS NEGROES' SCHOOL PROGRESS TELLS UNIQUE STORY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The advancement made by the American Negro was described tonight by Secretary Wilbur as "phenomenal."

Over the National Broadcasting chain, the secretary of the interior said, "There is no more amazing picture in the history of education than that presented by the American citizen of the Negro race."

On the same program, Ambrose Caliver, a federal specialist in Negro education, urged vocational training. He asserted the Negro "must hasten his pace, and that with a double quick tempo, if he is to go over the top with the rest of America's soldiers of progress."

The degree of education which the Negro possesses was said by John W. Davis, president of West Virginia State college, to have "enabled him to become dissatisfied with his present educational status." He added that the high school enrollment among Negroes in the southern states is less than 10 per 1,000 while in the United States the number of high school students per 1,000 is 39.

"While in 1860," Secretary Wilbur said, "most Negroes were living in a civilization primarily agricultural, and for the most part upon land owned by others, we now have tens of thousands of homes and farms owned by Negroes. About one-third of them are living in our cities instead of in the rural districts.

"The Negro is now making good in all walks of life, some have attained distinction in law, medicine, dentistry and education. Others have shown good capacity in administration. The leaders in these fields have not only great opportunities but great responsibilities, for it is important that others should follow them."

Ordinary toothpastes are helpless against this destructive horde. But authorities have at last perfected a way to exterminate these dangerous germs and so clean teeth as they should be cleaned—right down to the beautiful, naked white enamel without injury.

It's a new technique ... Unlike anything you've ever used. Different in action, vastly different in result. It's the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique.

Imparts Color to GRAY HAIR

WHAT is this peculiar discovery that has no color itself—yet imparts color to Gray Hair? It is called KOLOR-BAK—a clear liquid already used by hundreds of thousands of people who know that Gray Hair is a handicap in business and society. You simply comb Kolor-Bak into your hair and watch the gray disappear—gradually, surely. Even your close friends won't detect its use—until suddenly they notice that you look years younger. No matter what your age—no matter if your hair is snow white or merely streaked—this amazing discovery will impart color. No less astonishing than its sure, satisfactory, safe results, is the queer fact that the very same bottle of Kolor-Bak does for Blonde, Black, Brown or Auburn. Why be gray! Why be handicapped? Why be embarrassed any longer? If Kolor-Bak doesn't make you look 10 years younger, your money will be refunded any time you ask.

Take Time out in mid-afternoon and Eat something Sweet

You can revive your work-fagged system if you eat a piece of candy, a cookie or drink a sweetened beverage. A glass of water in which refined sugar is dissolved will "pick you up."

HALF past three—an hour and a half to go! Take time out and eat or drink something sweet. Even though it takes five minutes, you'll be so revived by the snack that you'll finish your day at high speed.

This is no fantastic theory. Scientists have discovered by many experiments that a food product rich in refined sugar has no equal for quickness in nourishing the system. And when a tired system is nourished, fatigue is overcome.

Hot or cold flavored drinks, coffee or tea, sweet cakes or candy are available everywhere for business people. The Sugar Institute.

Mental Suffering Leaves a Definite Strain on Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Recently the increase in mentally ill cases is stressed over and over again in books, magazine and newspaper articles.

Mental troubles are [illegible] more prevalent than ever before, we are told. The mental hygiene problems are more complex than they used to be. The latter because life is more complex.

While the topic comes more rightly under the jurisdiction of medical and psychiatric service, still beauty . affected immeasurably . the process of mental suffering. Perhaps the force of this is felt particularly by me at the mom at because of a recent meeting with an acquaintance who used to be known as a great beau .

She has had trouble, to be sure. No more, however, than hundreds of other women of her age. She, unlike the others, proceeded to w low in her troubles—talk them, live them, never get away from them because, one may honestly suspect, she gets a certain pleasure out of them. She looks from ten to fifteen years older than her contemporaries. She is irritable, dissatisfied with life, cynical. She is avoided like the plague. Of course, she is not well. But that's because she has wallowed in her unhappiness where other women have snapped out of theirs.

She could afford a change of scene. She could afford golf. She could afford tending the most expensive health building places. She could afford the great beauty tonic of relieving the sufferings of far less fortunate than she. But she prefers to let her mental state run on into what eventually will be a serious mental disorder unless she snaps out of it in a hurry.

Health breakdowns that one hears so much about today are caused frequently by the state of mind rather than the state of health. The health breakdown follows. Worry will destroy the nervous energy. The better physical feeling experienced when a truly bright moment arises out of a dark day or week is just a simple indication of the effect of the mind on the health. Attitudes of depression, irritability and dissatisfaction can be changed by rigorous training, no more rigorous, however, than it takes to change a silhouette from a gross to a fine one.

It is not necessary to stress the fact that the mentally depressed or worried have a facial expression that is not young nor good to look at. That fact alone ought to minimize the number of mental cases among the women.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

D. V.: DROOPING OR ROUND shoulders and general body slumping put an extra tax on certain groups of spinal muscles and leave others unused. It cannot be too often stressed that a well poised body and consequent graceful carriage are the greatest beauty assets woman can possess. Shoulder exercises may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

F. S.: COLD WATER SHOULD not be employed directly after burning. Bathe the skin with a solution of borax in warm water and then apply a healing cream. Bad cases of sunburn are relieved by applications of equal parts of lime water and linseed oil.

EDNA K.—PIMPLES ARE THE result of blackheads. You want to get rid of the blackheads. Scrub the affected parts with warm water and soap, using a brush. Rinse in warm, then cold water.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The softly falling jabot revers on this pretty frock combine with the cross over vestee to break the width through the bodice, while the pointed outline of the skirt is another good feature for those who wish to look slender. In black silk crêpe, with the vestee of pink crêpe you would have a lovely dress.

The pattern, 2620, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 27 inch contrasting.

Every Mother Owes Herself Definite Care as a Woman

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading references for the expectant mother will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We're always talking about the children in this column.

But how about you?

Are you tired all the time?

Do you feel stale?

Do you love your children and yet shock yourself by feeling that you want to get away from them once in a while?

Have you some one physical thing that needs attention like your teeth or your hair—and are you letting it slide because you never feel that you can take the time to attend to it?

Every mother owes something to herself as a woman.

Being a mother and housewife is about as all-absorbing a combination job as there is.

Taking the housework part first, there is the continuous repetition of meals, dishes, bed making, cleaning, picking up and perhaps washing and ironing. No matter how much men may prate of labor-saving devices this business of housework is a strenuous one and takes a tremendous amount of energy. When that energy is low, the work seems both hard and monotonous.

Then take the mother part of this combination job. If a woman didn't have the other part, this would be a whole job in itself, especially if there's a baby—with planning and preparing the children's food, planning and making their clothes, and the general care of them not only when they're well but when they're sick.

The double job is enough to take every minute of your time, every ounce of your strength, and to entirely occupy your mind. But you must not let it. It isn't fair to yourself—and we're not even mentioning your husband today.

And the fact that you owe something to yourself isn't enough of an argument—I mean if you feel guilty at the thought of taking time from your house and children—then take notice that if you give some consideration to yourself as a woman you'll be an infinitely better mother each day as you go along, and an infinitely nicer companion to your children when they're in their teens or grown up.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Johnny—Yes, teacher, Samson did.

Teacher—What makes you think that Samson invented Halloween?

Johnny—Well, in the Bible it says that Samson ran away with the gates of the city at midnight. C. J. B.

Bobby liked the gang on the corner but his mother had forbidden him to play there, as the boys were older and too rough for him. One day he was headed for the corner and his mother called him back. He hesitated and then said: "Mother, what's the worst thing you'll do to me if I go?"

Talk Success to Your Mate 'n' You'll Get It, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The best quality of a wife is not the much vaunted sense of humor, nor is it keeping herself and home attractive, nor is it excellent cooking, although these are desirable virtues, as every man will admit. But what sends a man out, mornings, willing to do battle for the good of his domestic cause is the wife's ability to encourage her man.

More men and marriages have gone down to failure because of wives' knocking, discouraging, wet blanketing their mates than for any other known cause. The greatest trick of making any one love you is to make him believe in himself. The more you can strengthen another's morale with high praise, the more that person will see in you the qualities to be most desired in friend or mate.

Time after time I have seen romances blossom and marriages prosper on this sole theme of morale lifting. It is almost axiomatic that a wife can make a success of her husband by her belief in him as a success. And the type of woman who is cheerful, optimistic and who believes firmly in her man is rarely, if ever, mixed up in marriage failures. I don't mean just believing in her husband, but letting him know in good understandable English that she believes in him, telling him frequently and often that he is the world's greatest knockout!

The woman who can do that need never fear a rival, for no other woman can do more. Men do not leave home to court beauty nor to express a vagrant mood. They leave to go somewhere where their morale will be strengthened by praise, though what they get may be a spurious form of it.

Nothing under heaven breaks down a man's morale so quickly as a wife who is full of reproach and complaints about his efforts. There are wives who knock and discourage every plan a man makes. Their whole attitude of mind and tongue is one of failure expected, and failure they'll get if the man sticks around long enough. Women write the ticket and men deliver, as expected.

Food Talk.

What would Thanksgiving dinner be without cranberries? They serve a decorative purpose as well as for food. In olden times Thanksgiving day saw the first cranberries served. Cranberries weren't on the market much before that time, but now these berries are in season for months. Right now they are beginning to come on the market in large shipments.

Cranberries contain a large amount of citric acid, the acid that we find in oranges and lemons. But unlike most acid fruits, they are an acid producing food in the body. The ash of these berries is alkaline in nature, but because of the unoxidizable acid contained in them they increase the acidity of the body. Cranberries share the property of being antiscorbutic, since they contain a significant amount of vitamin C. They also are rich in iron and iodine.

They present a tart fruit that can be used in a number of ways. Whether we strain them and make a jelly or serve them as a good old fashioned sauce, they are equally popular.

The well known sauce is made by cooking washed cranberries in a small amount of water until tender. Then it is sweetened to taste. Cranberry jelly is made from the strained pulp combined with sugar in the proportion of one-half cup sugar to one cup berries and boiled until it forms the jelly test of two drops sheeting off the spoon.

Cranberry tarts are delicious and are made exactly the same as tarts of any other fruit. Cranberry ice and cranberry salad are two other interesting and palatable ways of serving this attractive fruit.

Cranberries are often quite inexpensive, and it is wise to stock up on them at these times. If any of the berries are soft or bruised, remove the defective fruit. The rest can be kept sound for months in well ventilated boxes stored in a cool place. Another method of storage is to put the berries in jars and cover them with water. If this scheme is followed the berries should be used as soon as removed from the water, as otherwise they will soften and deteriorate. Medium sized berries are usually more solid and will keep better than the large ones.

When fresh cranberries cannot be conveniently purchased, the dried fruit may be used. For sauce there is practically no difference.

CRANBERRY TARTS

1 cup sugar.
1 cup seedless raisins.
1 cup water.
1 pinch salt.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Plain pastry.

Cut the cranberries in half. Add the sugar, raisins, water, salt, and flour. Place in a saucepan and cook for twenty minutes. Then add the vanilla, stirring well. Line six tart shells with pastry, add filling, and cover with strips of pastry in lattice fashion. Bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] until brown. About 30 minutes are required for baking. Yield, 6 servings. One serving: Total, 425 calories: Protein, 13 calories; fat, 81 calories; carbohydrates, 331 calories.

CRANBERRY ICE.

3 cups sugar.
1 quart cranberries.

Make a sirup by boiling water and sugar together for five minutes. Boil the cranberries in a little water until soft, then press through a sieve. Add to the sirup, cool, and freeze with six parts chipped ice and one part of salt.

Yield, 2¼ quarts, or 12 servings. One serving: Total, 227 calories. Protein, 1 calory; fat, 2 calories; carbohydrates, 224 calories.

If you walked, head-bent, down the smartest street (which, heaven forbid, you should do, except for this experiment — raindrops do have such a way of sliding inside collars), you could easily pick out the smartest costumes merely by letting your eye travel upwards whenever you spy a pair of Glove galoshes.

BARE GANG PLOT TO KIDNAP RICH IN LOS ANGELES

Chicago Hoodlums Join Ransom Scheme.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 12.—[Special]—Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times and a factor in numerous major California industries, was scheduled to be kidnaped for ransom by Chicago gangsters with the aid of local recruits, it was revealed today. Mr. Chandler and members of his family have been under constant guard of detectives. Two men have been on duty at the Times office day and night, and two more at the Chandler estate.

Word of the plot of gangsters to kidnap prominent southern Californians came to the district attorney's office from an underground source. At first the authorities gave the information little credence. Then the plot became operative.

Three Rich Men Kidnaped.

One after another, three Los Angeles men of wealth were kidnaped. One of these is said to have paid $100,000 for his freedom, and to have begged that no publicity be given his case, as he feared the threats of bodily harm made by his kidnapers.

The original information given the district attorney's office had it that Mr. Chandler was slated as the fourth victim. As Mr. Chandler customarily works at his office until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning and then drives alone to his home in the Los Felise residential district, he agreed to the district attorney's proposal that he have a body guard and also to accept police protection for a son, Norman, and at his home.

The plot became public today with the arrest of Robert Gilhausen, son of a wealthy Los Angeles family, in connection with the kidnaping on Sept. 15 last of W. R. Finch, Western Union executive, his torture by bandits and the subsequent looting of a Western Union safe.

Gilhausen, 23 years old, is said not to have been directly connected with the Chandler plot, but is described by District Attorney Buron Fitts as a member of the "left wing" of the so-called Chicago gang.

"The information regarding the plot to kidnap Chandler and hold him for ransom comes to us from a most reliable source," Chief Deputy District Attorney Robert P. Stewart said. "We have the identity of leaders of the band and it will now be necessary in view of the disclosure of the plot to take even stricter guard over them."

The names of the Los Angeles men selected by the gang are withheld by the authorities. Officers say that some of victims were terrorized by their confidences and begged that no police action be taken, despite the high price demanded by the bandits.

LAMONT TO TELL OF INDUSTRY'S ADVANCES HERE

Chicago's business and industrial development during the last decade will be described by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont tonight when he speaks as the principal guest of honor at the industrial dinner of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Palmer house. Mr. Lamont will arrive this morning.

In his address the secretary is expected to interpret the growth of the metropolitan area since 1920 as it is disclosed by the federal manufacture and distribution census. He is expected to emphasize building operations, investments for which have mounted to more than $2,600,000,000 in the last ten years.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Old Home Town

GRANGERS HEAR HEAD PLEAD FOR BETTER SELLING

Speculation in Grain Is Criticized.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12.—(AP)—With the key note "equality for agriculture," the 64th annual convention of the National Grange opened here today. Delegates from more than thirty states heard National Master Louis J. Taber in his annual address urge a program which included better marketing, reclamation and irrigation restriction and a more justly distributed system of taxation.

Mr. Taber's address sounded the keynote of the ten day meeting, which will bring more than 2,000 delegates and unofficial visitors to Rochester.

Six Suggestions Made.

The Grange master offered six suggestions to accomplish the readjustment which he said was needed to help agriculture establish itself on a firm economic basis. They were, briefly:

1. Stabilization of values.
2. A higher price level for farm commodities.
3. More justly distributed system of taxation.
4. Extension of the federal farm loan system.
5. Readjustment of the nation's freight rate structure.
6. Restriction of immigration and conservation of natural resources.

Public Injured, He Says.

Criticizing the speculation in grain on the Chicago Board of Trade, Mr. Taber said:

"As long as this present system remains with its violent price manipulations it is obvious that there must be a method of protection by hedging for the safeguarding of the buyer and processor, but when hedging and short selling take the form of speculation and gambling in the necessities of life, the public is injured.

"Unfortunately for the American farmer, our present marketing structure operates with no concern as to the price he receives. It is a sad commentary on our present boasted wheat marketing program, that during the recent period of agriculture's greatest depression, and the grain grower's consequent distress, the Chicago Board of Trade erected a $12,000,000 building, while the producer suffers near annihilation."

Wants "Gambling" Stopped.

The National Grange master urged governmental action to stop gambling in "phantom wheat" and said that the same medicine should be given to individual gamblers in the pit as was administered to the soviet government of Russia.

NAVAL PROGRAM NOT TO ASK BIG FUND THIS YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Indications today are that the Hoover administration will recommend congressional approval of only a comparatively small naval warship authorization bill at the coming short session of congress. While no final building program has been approved by President Hoover, it was learned today that virtually all thought of recommending a building bill costing in the neighborhood of half a billion or a billion dollars has been abandoned.

The plan now under consideration is to ask congress for approval of only such vessels as the United States actually would lay down during the next year or two, or possibly three years. Such a bill probably would not authorize ships costing much more than a hundred million dollars.

It is understood the administration's idea is to approve the principle of building up to the treaty, but to adopt a plan whereby congress would be asked to authorize the ships as the navy was prepared to lay them down.

STATE SEEKING TO TAKE LICENSE FROM RONGETTI

Deaths of Two Women Cited as Grounds.

Proceedings to revoke the license of Dr. Amante Rongetti, physician who once was condemned to death and is now under a conviction of manslaughter for causing the death of a young woman by abortion, were undertaken by the state department of registration and education yesterday.

Dr. Rongetti, while at liberty under bonds pending an appeal from the manslaughter conviction, has resumed the practice of medicine at 1901 Roosevelt road, and the state department of registration, through Director M. F. Walsh, is trying to revoke his license.

Medical Committee Meets.

The state medical committee, which recommends the issuance or revocation of licenses, met in its offices at 130 North Wells street yesterday to hear the charges. Dr. M. L. Harris, former president of the American Medical association, is chairman of the committee.

Three grounds for revocation are set forth by the state department of registration in its charges against Rongetti: 1. That he is under conviction for manslaughter. 2. That he is guilty of gross malpractice in causing the death of a patient by performing a criminal abortion on Loretta Enders. 3. That he is guilty of gross malpractice in causing the death of a patient by performing a criminal abortion on Elizabeth Palumbo.

Once Convicted of Murder.

Rongetti was convicted of murder as a result of the death of Miss Enders and was sentenced to be executed in April, 1928. He appealed and was granted a new trial, which ended in his conviction of manslaughter and a one to ten year sentence, which he also appealed. He was acquitted of murder in the case involving the death of Elizabeth Palumbo.

Appearing as counsel for Rongetti at the revocation hearing is Lawrence Shenders, an associate of William Scott Stewart, who is representing Rongetti in the criminal cases. Philip E. Ringer, an assistant attorney general in charge of prosecutions for the state department of registration, is the prosecutor at the hearing.

Board Hears Witnesses.

Most of the witnesses who appeared at Rongetti's trials have been summoned before the medical board. Among those heard yesterday were Dr. E. R. Le Count, professor at Rush Medical college; Dr. William D. McNally, former coroner's physician; Dr. Samuel Epstein, coroner's physician; Lorraine Irwin, nurse who formerly worked at Rongetti's Ashland boulevard hospital, and Mrs. Angela Kemp, 2943 Bonfield street, mother of Loretta Enders. The hearing probably will be concluded today.

BODY FOUND NEAR TRACK.

Eldorado, Ill., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—The body of an unidentified man was found near a box car on the New York Central tracks here today. The man, about 55 years of age, had no marks of identification.

When Your Work Drags Excess Acid is keeping you half-sick

When you feel any of the every-day occurences of sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, biliousness it is nature's way of telling you there's something wrong. Nine times out of ten, it's too much acid—the result of modern-day habits of living.

You can correct stomach distress almost at once. The surest and quickest way is Milnesia Wafers—which are pure milk of magnesia in a pleasantly flavored wafer. Excess acids are immediately neutralized.

Thousands of physicians and dentists are daily recommending Milnesia Wafers in preference to the old-fashioned liquid milk of magnesia because they are more effective, more convenient, less expensive, and much nicer.

Ask your druggist today for the home package of Milnesia Wafers at 60c or the convenient "carry" package for the vest pocket or purse at 20c.

MILNESIA WAFERS
MILK OF MAGNESIA WAFERS

To users of liquid magnesia: Try pleasant Milnesia Wafers just once and you will never go back to the old-fashioned liquid with its chalky taste. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if you are not entirely satisfied.

CASHIER FOILS ATTEMPT TO ROB THORNTON BANK

An attempted robbery of the Thornton State bank, 22 miles south of the loop, near Homewood, was thwarted yesterday morning by the cashier, W. C. Bielefdt, who, as one of two bandits drew a revolver, walked calmly to a rack containing a sawed off shotgun and announced to the bookkeeper, Miss Jennie Inhout: "I guess I'll let him have it." The bandits fled without firing a shot.

They were unaware that Mr. Bielefdt's attitude was based on knowledge that he was securely protected from their bullets. The entire glass along the counter of the bank is bullet proof, and the wainscoating at the base is superimposed on steel plates used in battleship armor. The equipment represents the ultimate development in bank defense against crime offense.
